WHITE HOUSE TAKES PART IN RADIO CONTROL

Howe Aids Board to Alter Ruling.

[This is the second in a series of articles dealing with efforts of the New Dealers to control telegraph, telephone and radio communications.]

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 6.—[Special.]—Of all the instances of White House dictation to the radio commission probably the most notorious in that of the Shreveport-New Orleans case. In this case the White House summoned the acting chairman of the commission and procured his promise to reverse the commission's decision.

If the White House does not hesitate to use its tremendous power to shape the decisions of the quasi-judicial radio commission, contend the opponents of the pending communications bill, it may be expected to dominate the quasi-judicial commission which this legislation proposes to set up to control the telegraph and telephone systems and radio.

In the manner in which the White House dictated the decision of the Shreveport-New Orleans case, the White House could cause the communications commission to prohibit transmission to newspapers by wire or wireless systems of dispatches critical of the administration. Thus would a censorship of the press be achieved.

Trouble at Shreveport.

For years KWKH at Shreveport, La., had been a notoriously bad actor, being operated by one Henderson under the name of "Hello World Broadcasting corporation." Henderson frequently broadcast when intoxicated and his obscenity [in violation of a specific provision of the radio act] had shocked the radio audience. The station was of fairly high power on a clear channel. It divided time with WWL at New Orleans, owned and operated by Loyola university, a Roman Catholic institution.

Henderson had been before the commission on several occasions on the score of his broadcasting misbehavior, but each time had escaped discipline through political pressure, although other stations have been put off the air for far less serious offenses.

Finally WWL at New Orleans applied for full time on the frequency, which would mean the deletion of KWKH. The application was heard by a commission examiner who recommended that WWL be granted full time. Then the situation was complicated by an application for assignment of Henderson's license to a new corporation at Shreveport to which Henderson desired to sell his station. The law requires the commission's approval of an assignment of license. There were oral arguments before the commission which were virtually between the proposed assignees [who really represented Henderson's interests] and the New Orleans station.

Politics, Religion, Radio.

Following the arguments the commission in executive session decided in favor of granting full time to the New Orleans station. The decision was unanimous. Henderson and the proposed assignee immediately learned of it. They got busy at once pulling all the customary political wires leading into the commission. But this wire pulling at first had no effect. The commission could not be budged and everything was all set to take Henderson's station off the air and give full time to the Catholic institution.

At that juncture the Shreveport interests bethought themselves of Senator J. T. Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader of the senate. He seemed to them to be the logical man to champion their cause against the Loyola university's station and to go the limit in procuring a reversal of the radio commission's decision.

Shreveport is situated in northern Louisiana not far from the Arkansas border and Arkansas constituted a large part of the Shreveport station's radio audience. Senator Robinson is a pillar in the Methodist church and resides at the Methodist building opposite the capitol. Moreover, he is on bad terms with Senator Huey Long, who was favoring the cause of the New Orleans station.

Senator Robinson Explains.

Pressure was brought to bear on Senator Robinson to use his influence to save the Henderson station from being taken off the air. He says that he acted upon receipt of several hundred appeals of Shreveport citizens by wire and letter. He explains that he did so because of representations that Shreveport could not obtain justice

HORNER FORCES OFFERING JOBS FOR NRA VOTES

Showdown Due in House Tomorrow.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Stories of pressure and offers of patronage by Gov. Horner's advisers and legislative leaders in their effort to win votes for the state NRA bill accumulated over the week-end.

The governor needs votes on both sides of the house if the bill is to pass tomorrow. Last Wednesday when he was forced to abandon a previous effort to pass it he was three or four votes shy of the 77 majority necessary for July enactment. When all are present, there are only 73 Democratic votes in the house, and one Democrat, Miss Mary Davidson of Carthage, cast her vote against the bill.

If Miss Davidson maintains her stand—and she said after the roll call that her mind had not changed—the governor would have to whip all the other Democrats into line and bring them to Springfield.

Gets One G. O. P. Vote.

Last week an onslaught was reported on Republican members of the lower house to win their votes for the NRA bill. Only one such vote was recorded on last week's roll call—R. G. Soderstrom of Streator, president of the State Federation of Labor. The governor is said to believe he needs three or four more Republican votes if he is to succeed.

Minority Leader Elmer J. Schnackenberg of Chicago does not believe the governor will be successful in getting these Republican votes.

One of the stories told over the week-end related an incident said to have taken place Wednesday when Majority Leader Thomas P. Sinnett of Rock Island, the Horner floor leader, was counting Democratic noses.

A telephone call was said to have been made to an absent southern Illinois Democrat. He was urged to come to Springfield immediately.

Offer Jobs for Votes.

Scouting for Republican votes, the governor's advisers were said to have been offering jobs in return. They were trying especially to win over lame duck members who were defeated in the primary, or who did not run for renomination and thus are not up for reëlection in November.

Two jobs were offered one lame duck, according to the reports. Another was offered one job. Others were reminded of patronage they still have on the Democratic pay rolls. It was said that Representative John L. Walker [Rep., Joliet], had two jobs taken from him when he voted against the bill.

The Republicans stirred with resentment when the reports flew around the floor and over into the senate chamber. One Republican in the upper house, Noah M. Mason of Oglesby, president of the Illinois State Teachers' association, introduced a bill calling for impeachment of any state official found guilty of using patronage to obtain votes.

Resorts to Strategy.

So intense became the battle in the house that the governor decided to resort to a piece of strategy which served him well several weeks ago. He attempted to have an identical NRA bill introduced in the senate, meanwhile leaving the house bill on third reading. Then, if it was determined the measure could not pass the lower chamber, the fight would shift to the senate and, if successful, it could come back to the house within a week or two for another try.

Senator Louis O. Williams [Dem., Clinton] carried the bill into the senate and made ready to introduce it. There were only 20 members present—ten Republicans and ten Democrats. A quorum is 26.

"Mr. President," said Earl B. Searcy of Springfield, chairman of the Republican caucus, "I want to serve notice that if any attempts are made to introduce the bill the point of no quorum will be raised." So Senator Williams was forced to delay.

From Springfield it was reported that the drive for NRA votes has continued over the recess. The governor, apparently feels that if he can pass the bill, which was sent him by the brain trusters in Washington, he will become their ambassador in Illinois, or a "One Man Brain Trust," as a Republican put it.

Courtney Will Push TNT Case in Racket War

Prosecution of the TNT cases is next on State's Attorney Courtney's program of action against allegedly crooked labor leaders, racketeers and extortioners, following the acquittal Saturday of 17 men accused of racketeering in the cleaning and dyeing, laundry, linen supply and carbonated beverage industries. Some preliminary motions are on call for today before Judge Walter P. Steffen in the TNT cases and State's Attorney Courtney said he would press for an early trial.

Seventeen defendants were named in the indictment growing out of the investigation of the activities of the Trucking and Transportation exchange, commonly called TNT. One has since been slain, William [Three Finger Jack] White, an associate of Murray Humphries who was indicted in the other labor case, but fled.

Humphries Believed Organizer.

Humphries was regarded as the organizer of TNT, which is alleged to have forced truck owners to pay tribute and obtain membership and then, through the control of union members as well as truck owners, set out to dominate the coal industry and other industries.

Those awaiting trial on the TNT indictment are Charles Wilson, secretary and treasurer; Thomas C. Sullivan, labor leader; James R. Waldt, president of the Material Teamsters' union; Sam Alex, union business agent; William Maloney, union secretary; Tony Palumbo, contractor; John Steffen, former president of a contractors' association; John Baggot, union business agent; John Bransfield, contractor; Daniel Cain, former union president; James Farmer, union leader; Lloyd Little, union business agent; Marcus [Studdy] Looney, union business agent and public enemy; David Reese, union president, and John Sheridan Sr., secretary of the Joint Council of Chicago Teamsters.

Indictment Questioned.

The legality of the indictment has been challenged on the technicality that the grand jury was not properly drawn.

Motions to quash the indictments in behalf of some of the defendants, scheduled for argument today, are said to be based on other claims, but it was said the court may be asked to rule on the grand jury technicality as well.

Prosecutor Courtney's determination to keep up the warfare on men he calls menaces to honest labor unions is said to be responsible for the moves that may hurry the TNT defendants to trial.

The state has the evidence of 242 witnesses given before the grand jury and the men are accused of a conspiracy that is estimated to have exacted $500,000 yearly tribute from Chicago business men. It is expected that the trial may take two months.

JEAN HARLOW AND THIRD HUSBAND COME TO PARTING OF WAYS

Los Angeles, May 6.—[Special.]—Jean Harlow, most renowned platinum blonde of the screen, admitted late tonight that she had separated from her third husband, Harold G. Rosson, cinematographer. The announcement came just a few hours after she had served as matron of honor at the elaborate wedding of Carmelita Geraghty and Carey Wilson in Hollywood. Miss Harlow appeared at the wedding alone, but had no comment to make until later in the evening when she admitted she and Rosson had come to a definite separation due to incompatability.

"This is not a matter of one being wrong or the other of being right," she said. "It is simply a question of both of us being sensible people and realizing that it is better for us to admit failure. With us marriage just didn't work, and we realize it is for the best to separate. There is no ill feeling between us and I sincerely hope we can always remain friends."

The actual separation occurred Saturday night when Rosson left their home in Beverly Hills to go to the Hollywood Athletic club. They were married in a surprise elopement to Yuma, Ariz., Sept. 18, 1933. Miss Harlow divorced her first husband, Charles F. McGrew, and her second husband, Paul Bern, film producer, shot himself to death in September, 1932, three months after their marriage.

William McGeoghegan, retired veteran of the Chicago police department, died Saturday night in his home, 7823 Emerald avenue, following an illness of three weeks. He was 84 years old and retired ten years ago after a colorful career of forty-four years on the police force.

Policeman McGeoghegan was born in County Donegal, Ireland, in 1850 and came to Chicago in 1865. He joined the force in 1880 and was assigned to the old Town Hall station, which later became the Stockyards district. Among his other distinctions he was the first policeman to be awarded the Carter H. Harrison medal, emblematic of bravery.

Old Record Tells Story.

A yellowed and crumbling clipping in THE TRIBUNE's reference room, written in 1907, revealed some of the events in McGeoghegan's thrilling career.

During his first twenty-six years of service, the clipping disclosed, he was shot by safe blowers, run over by a train, mobbed in labor riots, dragged by runaway horses, stabbed by a drunken Negro, chased by anarchists, and half drowned in a park lagoon while rescuing a boy.

Perhaps his narrowest escape from death came when he fought, single-handed, three safe crackers who had blown open a safe in a grocery and meat market owned by David Shantz on West 47th street, just a few hundred yards from the police station.

He dashed to the scene alone and in trying to arrest the desperadoes was shot six times and sustained a fractured skull and arm when his assailants beat him with an iron bar as he lay unconscious on the sidewalk. He spent a year in the hospital recuperating from injuries.

Beaten by Rioters.

Prior to that time he saw active service in the railroad strike of 1885 and was dragged and beaten by a mob of rioters. He was also a member of the police forces which attempted to quell Red outbreaks that preceded the Haymarket tragedy and was slugged by rioters. His many other escapes were just as colorful.

Policeman McGeoghegan is survived by two daughters, Sister Mary Estelle of St. Louis and Margaret of Chicago, and two sons, John W. and Anthony F., the latter a policeman.

Funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning from the residence to St. Leo's church. Burial will be in Mount Olivet cemetery.

Corn and Grain Belts Blister; No Rain Is Due

Unprecedented high temperatures for May kept the corn and grain belt sweltering last night with no relief in sight. The heat, coming in the midst of record breaking drouth, brought new peril to grain, forage, garden and orchard crops of the central west.

The high temperature yesterday in these states was recorded at Sioux City, Ia., where the mercury rose to 100 degrees at 4 o'clock. It was the hottest May day in that city since the weather bureau was established in 1890. The greater part of Iowa has been untouched by rain since April 5. Other high temperatures in Iowa yesterday were at Charles City, 98 degrees; at Dubuque, 96 degrees, and at Davenport and Des Moines, 94 degrees.

Central West Swelters.

At La Crosse, Wis., the mercury rose to 98 degrees and at Omaha, Neb., it was 96 degrees. Temperatures above 90 degrees prevailed in most of Iowa, Wisconsin, Nebraska, and northern Illinois.

Little if any rain is in prospect for Chicago or these four states. The other grain belt states where no relief is seen are Indiana, Missouri, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, and Kansas.

In Chicago yesterday the temperature soared to 92.1 degrees at the Municipal airport weather station. At 4 o'clock the thermometer at the government weather station in the United States courthouse recorded 90 degrees. These temperatures broke the all time heat record for May 6. The previous high temperature for that day was 86 degrees in 1930.

The city sweltered in mid-eighty temperatures during the evening hours, but shortly after midnight a shift of the wind to the northeast sent the thermometer from 80 to 71 within a few minutes. At 3 o'clock it was 62 and the temperature continued to drop during the early morning hours.

6.18 Inches Short in Rain.

The weather bureau reported that the deficiency in precipitation in Chicago since Jan. 1 is 6.18 inches, which means there has been only about one-third of the normal rainfall during a period of more than four months.

The forecast for Chicago and vicinity was generally fair today with slightly cooler weather due tonight. Today, the forecast said, will be cooler, with mostly moderate southwest winds, shifting to northwest.

The price of milk in Chicago may be increased because of the long dry season, Clifford V. Gregory, editor of the Prairie Farmer, said last night. A milk shortage may occur within a fortnight, he declared.

The usual milk surplus has already been exhausted because of the short pasture grass on which the cows graze. Unless heavy rains occur to replenish the grass the shortage will be a certainty, Mr. Gregory said.

Few Showers Reported.

While the grain belt continued to suffer in the drouth, the rains which fell Saturday in southwestern Missouri were reported drifting slowly southeastward, with the center yesterday over western Tennessee. Some precipitation occurred in the lower Ohio and Mississippi valleys and adjacent sections.

In Chicago people sought relief outdoors from the hottest day of the year. The two previous warmest days of the year were last Thursday and Friday, when the mercury reached 83 degrees. Yesterday hundreds of bathers thronged the beaches, seeking relief in the water. The parks and boulevards were crowded. The highways were also crowded with motorists anxious to get out of the city in the heat.

SECRECY VEILS LANDING PLANS AND TRIP HERE

Prisoner Silent on Chicago Trial.

To Leave Ship in Harbor

SAMUEL INSULL will be smuggled off the S. S. Exilona somewhere in New York harbor today by police, customs agents, and state department attaches. He will be hastened aboard a railway train for Chicago. Plans for taking him into custody kept secret. Details on page 2.

INSULL'S release on bail will be sought tomorrow if he arrives in Chicago before the federal courts close for the day. Otherwise he faces the prospect of spending the night in the county jail pending a hearing on Wednesday. Details on page 2.

ABOARD S. S. EXILONA, En Route to the United States, May 6.—Silent on anything affecting his immediate future, but affable in a vein that shows acute appreciation for the society around him, and unmistakably proud, Samuel Insull will land on American soil tomorrow. His return is enveloped in mystery almost as great as any which has shrouded his activities since his precipitate departure from Chicago.

One phase of the long fight between the former utilities magnate and the United States government is finished. His effort to evade American justice by taking flight failed and he is in custody. Tomorrow, somewhere in the environs of New York, he will land and begin a hand-to-hand struggle with his accusers.

Ship's Route Is Secret.

But tonight, only a few hours before he is to step ashore as a prisoner of federal agents, Insull is dreaming of what the future holds in store for him. The atmosphere of mystery still surrounds him.

The truth is that Insull himself doesn't know where he is tonight. Nor does anybody else aboard this "prison ship" except a few officers. No information is obtainable from Capt. Wenzel Habel. The ship's run has not been disclosed. The passengers have not been told when to have their baggage ready. Nor is it possible for any passenger to discover how far the Exilona is from the American mainland. To all intents the Exilona is only somewhere on the North Atlantic.

Any deck rail navigator, however, is able to reach a few simple conclusions. The course has been changed since sunset yesterday to an almost northwesterly direction. In the second place, although the sea is almost dead calm, so that the spray off the bows would be reduced anyhow, it is apparent that the Exilona's speed has been materially reduced.

Close to Port.

The first exhibit in evidence means that New York is the destination. The second bit of evidence seems to indicate that the Exilona is closer to its destination than was anticipated, thus allowing ample leaway for a prearranged arrival at New York. The vessel evidently will dock some time tomorrow morning. That is the sum total of information.

Insull doesn't know what will happen to him when he is surrendered to the authorities of the United States, nor, so far as is known, does anybody else on board. Included among those unable to throw light on this are Burton Y. Berry, third secretary of the American embassy in Ankara, Turkey, and Capt. Habel, who were jointly assigned to see that Insull is brought inside American territory.

Although he was not instructed to do so, Insull worked steadily for a big part of the afternoon preparing his 14 pieces of luggage for debarkation. He was assisted by a steward. But as to what will happen to him and where he will be taken—whether to Chicago directly—and by what means the prisoner confesses he is in the grossest ignorance.

No Statement to Make.

Behind the mechanical mysteries of his arrival the 74 year old man himself has darkened once more the shadows surrounding him. The four correspondents aboard had a long heart-to-heart talk with him in the lounge tonight after dinner. He was asked whether, on the eve of his arrival, he wished, after two years of silence, to say anything in self-justification. He said he did not.

a year and nine months ago," Insull said. "I have nothing to say. I may end my life without ever making a statement of any kind. I may alter the decision when I land, and I won't say that conditions in Chicago, when I arrive, might not cause me to change my mind. Tonight I have nothing to say."

He was in a friendly humor and talked without bitterness. Apparently in excellent health, he smoked a strong cigar.

Insull demonstrated, above everything else, a determination to dig himself out of his troubles with no pretense of using anything beyond what he considers fair means.

PLANS KEPT SECRET

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 6.—[Special.]—A comic opera flavor of secrecy was imparted tonight to the preparations to take Samuel Insull off his ship early tomorrow morning and smuggle him aboard a train for Chicago.

The government cutter Hudson chugged down the bay at 10:30 o'clock tonight carrying secret service men and a state department attaché who will supervise the transfer of the financier from ship to shore. Samuel Insull Jr., who came to New York yesterday to greet his father, also was aboard.

The early departure of the cutter led to reports that Insull might be taken off the American Export Line freighter Exilona under cover of darkness. Later it was announced that the cutter was tied up at Quarantine and it was indicated that the removal would not be made until after daybreak.

It was said that the once powerful utilities potentate would be transferred to the cutter between Ambrose lightship at the mouth of the bay and the quarantine offices.

Landing Place in Doubt.

The wildest sort of rumors spread as reporters scurried about, attempting to obtain some definite details concerning the taking into custody of Insull by the government men.

There were reports that Insull might be placed aboard a train at Manhattan Transfer in order to avoid the crowds which might gather if he were brought to the Grand Central terminal. Again it was said that he might be spirited to Philadelphia. The cutter, after taking him from the Exilona, might go to Camden or New Brunswick, it was pointed out. After being landed he would be rushed by automobile under heavy guard to any one of a number of railroad stations.

Fast Trains Leave at 11.

However, the first fast trains out of New York for Chicago on both Pennsylvania and New York Central lines leave at 11 a. m. There are earlier ones, but the fast trains get to Chicago as quickly as these slow trains.

It was learned that there was a massing of government men at several points in New York with sealed instructions to proceed by automobile to a certain destination before daybreak.

If it had been John Dillinger or some equally notorious desperado no more elaborate precautions could have been taken to guard against any accident. But it was only a woebegone little old man brought back from exile to render an accounting of his deeds to the American people who was the center of all the mysterious plotting.

A last minute decision was made to permit Insull Jr. to join his father. He was smiling as he went aboard the cutter which left tonight to meet the Exilona.

No Delays Planned.

He refused to comment on his plans beyond denying that any legal moves were contemplated to delay the return of his father to Chicago. He said he was motivated only by a desire to stand by the elder Insull in his time of trouble.

Those responsible for Insull's safe keeping until he reaches Chicago were urged to all the secrecy, it was said, because of worries on three counts.

They wished first to guard against the service of a writ of habeas corpus upon them or the use of some other legal maneuver by Insull's lawyers or friends which might delay his prompt return to the city where he is to stand trial on charges of fraud.

Again, it was feared that harm might be attempted against the prisoner by some fanatic.

There was also the possibility, now considered remote, that Insull might still attempt his self-destruction as he neared the scene where he was once the symbol of power and wealth.

There was every indication that the passage from ship to shore to train will be conducted with all possible swiftness. There will be no delays for interviews by reporters or pictures by camera men. The newspaper correspondents who have made the long sea voyage with Insull will be the only nonofficial members of the party on the trip back to Chicago, according to the state department men.

A passage by airplane had been contemplated but the idea was said to have been abandoned.

Insull Faces Night in Jail if He Arrives Here Too Late

Time and tide and his international status will decide whether Samuel Insull spends tomorrow night in the Cook county jail. If the fates are against the dethroned czar of electricity, gas and opera in Chicago, he may be locked up overnight, and perhaps for several days.

If Insull's ship, the Exilona, is permitted by the tide and the ship's speed to dock early today, he can be taken aboard a train that will arrive in Chicago tomorrow morning. Insull will then have a chance to arrange for freedom on bond before the federal courts close. But if he arrives after the courts close there will be no alternative but to take him to the county jail overnight, officials said yesterday.

Indicted by State and U. S.

Insull is under indictment in both the federal and state courts, as a result of the collapse of his two billion dollar utility empire. Two federal indictments were returned against him, one charging that he used the mails in a scheme to defraud and the other alleging the illegal transfer of funds to preferred creditors while facing bankruptcy.

In the state courts Insull is charged with converting funds of the Middle West Utilities company, his billion dollar holding company, to his own use. His brother Martin is a codefendant on this charge. The other state indictment charges Samuel Insull Sr. with the embezzlement of $66,000 of Middle West funds.

Bail Money Is Ready.

Attorney Floyd Thompson, who represents Samuel Insull Jr., said he will be prepared to furnish bail in the federal court tomorrow afternoon if Insull arrives in time.

Attorney Thompson said if Insull, who was arrested in Istanbul, Turkey, is classed as an extradited prisoner he can be tried only in the federal court. If classed as a deportee from Turkey he may be tried in both federal and state courts, and can be taken into custody by a deputy sherif immediately upon his release on bail in the federal court.

Attorney Thompson went on to explain that under international law an extradited person may be tried only on the charges specified in the extradition proceedings. Therefore, he said, if Insull is held to be an extradited person, he can not be placed on trial in the state courts. His brother, Martin, was extradited from Canada on state charges only and therefore will be tried in the state court.

Awaits Insull's Arrival.

"I have not been retained to help prepare the elder Insull's defense," said Attorney Thompson yesterday. "The choice of counsel will await his arrival. But I have made preparations to supply bond for him of any reasonable amount.

"It is difficult to anticipate what action will be required in Insull's behalf, even on the routine matter of supplying bail, because of his puzzling status as a prisoner.

"The government has kept the legal details of his arrest a secret. We do not know whether he is an extradited prisoner, with the legal limitations on the prosecution of such a prisoner, or whether he was seized as a deportee, with the connivance of the Turkish authorities.

May Kill All Charges.

"If Insull is a deportee, it means that he was really kidnaped and made a United States' prisoner without regard to the common international legal conventions. If he is a kidnaped prisoner he can probably be tried on any of the charges pending against him, state or federal.

"We are ready to give bail on the federal indictments, but, of course, we don't know how much will be required. It may be that Insull will have to give bail in the Criminal court, too. We'll ask a ruling on that, however.

"I have asked for a bill of particulars of the charges against Insull Jr., and I can't say at this time whether his interests conflict with his father's. Naturally, I couldn't defend two men whose interests conflict. One of the first moves in behalf of the father will be to get a bill of particulars relating to the charges he must face.

Doubts Government Is Ready.

"The government says it is ready for trial, but I have my doubts. Frankly, we are not ready, and will not be until I have talked with Insull Sr. I don't think the government will want to have a trial go on during the hot months. I don't look for a trial until the fall.

"Young Insull has gone to New York to meet his father as a duty, not to prepare any defense. As a bit of humane treatment the government should let him be with his father enroute to Chicago.

"Insull will make no attempt to escape. Now that he is back in this country I don't think he could be driven away from a trial. He will want an opportunity to speak in his own defense."

Federal authorities said Insull would be treated in the same manner as any other federal prisoner. He will have his fingerprints taken in the office of United States Marshal H. C. Laubenheimer. Then, if he is admitted to bail, he will be free to do as he pleases until his trial.

Martin Fights Indictment.

Attorney John Northup, former first assistant state's attorney and former assistant federal prosecutor, who represents Martin Insull, has filed a plea to have a jury pass on the legality of the indictment. He set up the point recently involved in a state Supreme court decision—that the grand jury was illegally drawn. The Supreme court has agreed to review its decision. On May 16 a jury will be chosen to decide the point raised by Attorney Northup.

Whether the same move will be made in behalf of Samuel Insull Sr. was said to depend on future rulings. It may be, attorneys said, that Samuel would join in the petition with his brother and one jury would pass on the matter for both.

If he is found guilty Samuel Insull Sr. could be imprisoned up to five years on each count in the mail fraud indictment. The same punishment is provided in the bankruptcy case. Indeterminate sentences are provided in the state case. A conference between State's Attorney Courtney and United States Attorney Green is expected to result in a plan of prosecution.

CIVILIAN PILOTS WILL FLY MAIL AGAIN TONIGHT

Chicago Planes Ready; Schedules Same.

Civilian pilots will resume operation of the air mail at midnight following two and a half months of mail flying by the army, in which thirteen men were killed. Officials of the United Air Lines, which will fly nearly half the air mail of the country, conferred yesterday with Col. Horace Hickam of the army's central air mail zone here regarding final details for the transfer of the service.

W. A. Patterson, president of United Air Lines, reached Chicago from Washington with new contracts signed by Postmaster General Farley. The contracts call for transportation of air mail on the New York-Cleveland-Chicago-Omaha-Salt Lake City-San Francisco, Salt Lake City-Seattle and Seattle-San Diego routes. These lines were all formerly operated by the concern, and a passenger and express service was maintained subsequent to the cancelation of the old contracts.

Schedules Remain the Same.

In this connection officials said resumption of the service would entail merely the throwing of mail bags into the planes, since the schedules have been operated without change.

Air mail will be carried regularly on United's passenger-cargo planes on eastbound schedules as follows: Leave Chicago at 1:30 a. m., 12 noon and 8:30 p. m. From New York planes will arrive at 6:05 a. m., 4:20 p. m. and 1:50 a. m. Planes to the Pacific coast will leave Chicago at 5:00 p. m. and 2:30 a. m. Planes will arrive at Chicago from the west coast at 11:00 a. m. and 3:45 p. m.

Added to the air mail service, passenger and express schedules will bring the United company's flying up to more than a million miles a month over a network of approximately 5,000 miles of established airways. The company will provide direct mail service to 35 cities.

Army fliers will continue to operate the mail on the Chicago-Dallas and Chicago-St. Paul runs, according to Capt. Arthur Ennis, information officer for the army's central air mail zone. Capt. Ennis said the army would evacuate the entire portion of the transcontinental route between Chicago and Cheyenne by tomorrow afternoon.

Most of the army planes with their pilots and mechanics are expected to return to their original stations by Wednesday. The planes, hastily converted into commercial air mail carriers, will be made over into military machines again.

INSULL WRITES TO HIS WIFE; ARRANGES FOR POSTING IN NEW YORK

S. S. EXILONA, AT SEA, May 6.—(AP)—Shortly before retiring tonight, Samuel Insull wrote a letter and arranged for it to be posted in New York—presumably to Mrs. Insull in Athens, Greece. She has remained there since her husband fled that retreat only to be arrested in Turkey and handed over to United States officials.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 6.—Congratulatory messages poured in from all parts of the world today, on the occasion of the 24th anniversary of the accession of King George and Queen Mary to the British throne.

The king and queen spent the day quietly at Windsor castle, with no special festivity, but the bells of St. George's chapel were rung and flags were flown from all public buildings in town and at Eton college.

Special prayers were offered at Westminster abbey and St. Paul's cathedral in London, but as the anniversary fell on Sunday the special salute of 21 guns in Hyde park was postponed until tomorrow.

KEENAN WANTS $200,000 BONDS SET FOR INSULL

Assistant United States Attorney General Joseph B. Keenan, in charge of criminal prosecutions, arrived in Chicago from the east by plane last night to take a hand in the Samuel Insull case and other matters.

Mr. Keenan said he favored a recommendation to the federal court that bail for Insull be set as high as $200,000 when he arrives here tomorrow. Mr. Keenan said the government would demand an early trial.

The other matters which Mr. Keenan is in Chicago for are the Edward G. Bremer kidnaping case, and the Dillinger case. Dillinger so far, he said, "has had the breaks" in his various escapes, but will be caught soon.

NEW PARK BOARD PUSHES LOAN FOR OUTER DRIVE LINK

Studies Problem of Debt Refinancing.

In the first week of its existence, the new Chicago park board, which governs the areas of the 22 old park systems, has gone beyond the routine work of consolidation to grapple with two major problems, the completion of the outer drive link bridge and a refinancing of park debts.

Robert J. Dunham, president of the board, said yesterday that he believes these two projects demand immediate attention from the board now. Action on the problems is contemplated as soon as the park commissioners are legally confirmed in their positions by the State Supreme court. Quo warranto proceedings to test the constitutionality of the park consolidation act and the right of the commissioners to their offices are expected to be filed today by State's Attorney Courtney. A decision is hoped for in June.

The outer drive span construction has had the close attention of Commissioner Martin J. Kennelly, who was a commissioner of the superseded Lincoln park district.

Plan to Issue Bonds.

"We are eager to complete the bridge," Mr. Kennelly said yesterday, "and to get around previous difficulties we have had Attorney Henry Cutler draft a bill that would authorize the issuance of bonds by the new park board against income from concessions in the old Lincoln park area. There will be a conference on this bill today. If it is approved it will be submitted to the legislature either this week or at a fourth special session, if there is to be one.

"These bonds, which would be backed by the $150,000 annual revenue from concessions, would be deposited with the Public Works administration as security for a loan of approximately $1,489,000. The remainder of the $1,943,000 needed to finish the Lincoln park share of the project would be an outright federal grant.

"This plan was evolved after it was discovered that Lincoln park had no collateral acceptable to the PWA authorities as security for a loan. These bonds in reality would be substituted for previous bridge bond issues and it is expected would not be redeemed out of concession revenue, but from a levy made for that purpose.

South Park Bonds Acceptable.

"PWA authorities are willing to accept south park bonds for a loan of $3,716,000 and an outright grant of $1,218,000, and if the Lincoln park plan is approved there is expected to be no hitch in proceeding with the bridge construction. It has been estimated that more than 1,000 men would be put to work and that more rapid progress, with completion in fourteen months, can be made under the single park commission.

Refinancing the entire debt of 22 old park systems is regarded as the best method of rehabilitating their credit and establishing the credit of the new park board, according to Mr. Dunham. He proposes to confer with bankers, if the Supreme court approves the Chicago park district act, to see if a comprehensive refinancing plan can be worked out.

"About 65 cents of each $1 collected from taxes for park purposes," said Mr. Dunham, "goes for the payment of interest and the redemption of bonds and tax warants, leaving only 35 cents for maintenance and operation. If the serial maturities of the bonds could be spread over a longer period the tax levies for debt service could be reduced and, after all, what we have got to do is to minimize expenditures and levies as much as possible.

Favors Cash Basis.

"The consolidated park system should operate on a cash basis. Employés then could be paid when their salaries become due and the taxpayers would benefit from the cheaper purchasing which is possible in cash transactions. I believe the plan to be feasible as do others with whom I have conferred."

To forestall any disruption in the functioning of vital park activities, another bill has been prepared for the legislature which would give the new board the power, which it hasn't now, to issue warants in anticipation of the collection of taxes on levies made by the old boards. The new board now has authority only to issue warants against levies that it makes.

In furthering consolidation audits are being made of the finances of the three large park systems, south, west, and Lincoln, and of four small park districts that are coöperating. The audits are being made as of May 1, the day that the new commissioners, who were appointed by Mayor Kelly, qualified for office.

The commissioners are meeting almost daily in their headquarters in Lincoln park to handle the problems that arise in the merger of the 22 park systems.

Court Action Today

Hollywood, Cal., May 6.—(AP)—Carmelita Geraghty, screen actress, and Carey Wilson, scenario writer, were married today. Nearly a hundred relatives and friends of the film colony attended the ceremony.

Honeymoon plans were delayed by a court action brought by Wilson's first wife, Nancy H. Wilson, seeking to increase the allowance for their two children from $250 to $1,000 monthly. The hearing was continued from last Friday until tomorrow when Wilson's attorney presented an affidavit saying the screen writer was too ill to appear.

Wilson and his first wife were divorced in 1929.

Bomb Set at Colosimo's, but It Proves to Be a Dud

A small bomb was exploded last night just outside the north rear wall of Colosimo's restaurant at 2128 South Wabash avenue. The bomb proved to be little better than a dud. Had it exploded with full force, police said, it might have torn a hole in the restaurant wall and injured diners inside. Mike Potson, owner of Colosimo's, and Thomas Dallas, manager, said they knew of no reason why the restaurant should be bombed.

11 ARE KILLED IN FOUR CRASHES OF AIRPLANES

Three Burn to Death as Ship Hits Ground.

Fulton, N. Y., May 6.—(AP)—Three persons were burned to death late today when an airplane fell 300 feet and caught fire at the Holly Brothers' airport here.

The victims were Leon W. Holly of Fulton, owner and pilot of the plane; Miss Irene Clark, 20, of Oswego, and John Parsons of Fairhaven.

Miss Clark and Parsons had paid for a ride over the city. As Holly was preparing to land the ship crashed. It shot to earth, landed right side up, and immediately burst into flames.

Find 4 Dead in Wreck.

Houston, Tex., May 6.—(AP)—Two women's desperate all night search for a missing private airplane ended today in the discovery of the wrecked ship and the four bodies of its occupants.

The three men and one woman who were killed had taken off at about 11 p. m. Saturday on an aerial jaunt over the Houston district. Anxious when the plane did not return immediately, Miss Eva Carr and Mrs. Lottie Wright—who had planned to make the flight on a second trip—started out to find some trace of the craft. Almost hysterical as daybreak came they aroused a farmer, and with him found the wreckage.

The dead were Fred Burnett, 23, garage employé and brother of Mrs. Wright; Bob Glyn, 31, pilot and mechanic; Miss Gladys Wood, about 20, and Leroy Grandy, about 22, airport caretaker.

Wing Falls Off.

New Market, N. J., May 6.—(AP)—Two men were killed today as their monoplane crashed near the automobile race track here. Eyewitnesses said the ship lost a wing in midair.

The pilot, Lowell Markwith, 39, of Newark, was helpless to save the ship as it crashed into a marshy field carrying both him and his passenger, George J. Kuntz, 24, to death.

Kuntz, on whose body a junior pilot's license was found, was said to be the owner of the plane and Markwith, a transport pilot.

Killed in Takeoff Crash.

Pocatello, Idaho, May 6.—(AP)—W. A. George, telegraph operator and amateur flyer, was killed at the Soda Springs airport today as he crashed into a railroad embankment.

Woman Drowns in Plane Crash.

Berkeley, Cal., May 6.—(AP)—An airplane carried an 18 year old wife to death in San Francisco bay today as it stalled and plunged into the water off the Berkeley shore. Mrs. Jennie Johnson was hurled from the plane and sank before her husband, Arthur, 31, and Harold Christman, 31, the pilot, could reach her. Christman, who reported the plane's motor stopped, was rescued with Johnson by a party in a launch.

60,000 CHICAGO POLES JOIN FETE FOR KOSCIUSKO

Celebrating the national Polish holiday, more than 60,000 Poles and Polish-Americans of Chicago gathered before the statue of Gen. Tadeusz Kosciusko in Humboldt park yesterday to pay homage to their homeland.

Joseph Moscicki, secretary of the Polish embassy in Washington, D. C., and son of President Ignace Moscicki of Poland, reviewed a parade of American Legion posts and auxiliaries, Polish societies of Chicago in colorful holiday costume, and members of the Harcerspwo, a youth organization affiliated with the Polish National Alliance, which performed drills and mass gymnastics. The crowd, according to sponsors of the program, broke all previous records for Chicago's observance of the day.

Mayor Kelly Speaks.

Following the parade, which began at 1407 West Division street, Mr. Moscicki participated in a wreath laying ceremony at the foot of Kosciusko's monument. Mayor Kelly in an address hailed Chicago as the second largest Polish city in the world.

"There is a close bond between the people of Poland and the people of the United States," said Mayor Kelly. "This event, which we are celebrating today, the revolution of May 3, 1791, when a new constitution was established in Poland, followed by only a few years our American revolution. The two constitutions are built along the same lines. Chicago is proud of its Poles and of their coöperation and their place in its civic life."

Speaks in Native Tongue.

Addressing the assemblage in his native tongue, Mr. Moscicki told of progress being made in new Poland and reviewed briefly the history of the period which brought for their country freedom and a liberal constitution. The national hoiday is held each year on the Sunday following May 3, date of the constitution's establishment.

Others who spoke during the celebration were Polish Consul Gen. Tytus Zbyszewski, John Romaszkiewicz, president of the Polish National Alliance, Joseph Michalak, and Francis X. Swietlik, dean of Marquette university. The Rev. Frank Kulinski gave the invocation. Greetings from President Roosevelt to the Polish people of America were read by Mr. Romaszkiewicz.

Students Give Ball.

The day's ceremonies began at 10 o'clock yesterday morning when Mr. and Mrs. Moscicki attended services at the Holy Trinity church. The couple attended a dinner given for them by Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey in their home, 1507 North State parkway.

JEWISH CONVENTION URGED TO SUPPORT ROOSEVELT REGIME

Washington, D. C., May 6.—(AP)—Jews were urged today to "support faithfully, energetically, and with patriotic devotion" the Roosevelt administration's social reform program.

Henry W. Braude, Philadelphia communal worker, in an address at the opening of the convention of the United Synagogue of America, said, "Traditional Judaism is opposed to both communist and Fascist philosophies."

"There is," he said, "no greater despotism in the world today than bolshevism and the same may be said with equal truth of the governments which have adopted the Fascist philosophy.

"The reconstruction and betterment of the social order in this land of enlightenment . . . can and will be brought about by methods which are different from those invoked in other lands simply because these methods are indigenous to our soil. . . .

"Were Thomas Jefferson alive today, the suggestion may be ventured that he would be in the forefront of the leadership sometimes disdainfully referred to as the brain trust. No two greater, more practical statesmen ever lived in this land than Thomas Jefferson and Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

A GAMBLER SIGHS FOR A CHANCE AT AN HONEST PENNY

In Alaska, where Alfred Smilkshen follows the gold mining trade, they gamble honestly, he told Central police yesterday. So when a stranger proposed matching pennies just to while away the time yesterday, Alfred accepted.

Some time later, when he had lost $20, Smilkshen decided all was not right. So he took leave of his new found friend and went to the Central police station, where he told his troubles to Sergt. Lawrence McCarthy.

Shortly thereafter Sergt. Andrew Barry and his squad picked up John Coughlin, 54 years old, 2330 Indiana avenue, who, they say, has a record as a confidence man specializing in the penny matching racket.

"He's the one," said Smilkshen, who lives at 338 North State street. "I am going back to Alaska, where they gamble honestly."

U. S. WAKES UP, TRIES TO REGAIN FOREIGN TRADE

Elder Minds Crowd Out Brain Trust Notions.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 6.—[Special.]—The Roosevelt administration is reaching out belatedly to recapture the nation's foreign trade.

In the 13 months of the New Deal, the possibilities of achieving a true recovery from the depression through revival of foreign trade have been sadly neglected, it is now conceded. Not a single trade barrier has been broken down.

Conservative Democratic leaders, squelched so long under the determination of the brain trusters to put over their radical schemes of regimentation, are pressing insistently to the fore now, demanding immediate action on a foreign trade program.

The brain trusters have not relaxed in their purpose to push for further regimentation of agriculture and industry, in their dreams of a "planned economy"; but lately the older, more experienced minds in the administration have been pounding the ear of President Roosevelt with their pleas for a definite trade program.

Public Wakes Up Angry.

One of the strongest factors in the present situation is that the people are openly in rebellion against the communistic experiments put forward by the brain trust.

This public awakening, brought on by the Wirt investigation and also by the boldness with which the cocksure brain trusters began expounding their radical schemes, has made it necessary for the President to retreat somewhat.

Mr. Roosevelt has been moved to push more actively toward what has long been urged by the conservative economists of the nation as the major remedy for a true recovery.

One of the Democratic leaders who speaks out most bluntly for an end to wild schemes and a beginning of a steady and dependable program of recovery is United States Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland.

Cure Worse Than the Ill.

Mr. Tydings concedes that in times of emergency "it is only natural that thousands of solutions would be offered to cure every kind of ill from which we are suffering."

"These run," the Marylander says, "the whole gamut from the killing of hogs on an Iowa farm to killing the wolves in Wall street, and as long as there is action present most people are disposed to believe that recovery is on its way when, as a matter of fact, unless great care and thought are woven into the various proposals, we may find that in the end some of them contain more injury than aid."

Declaring boldly in defiance of the brain trust that "it is regretful that we should surrender our reason," Mr. Tydings asserts his belief that "there is no royal road to recovery."

"The sooner we make up our minds to that," he says, "the more quickly will recovery occur and the more wholesome it will be.

"The biggest problem in this country today is the problem of getting people back to work. This cannot be accomplished by the passage of a law. Many things are involved.

"First, markets where the things we produce can be sold—and sold at a price slightly above the cost of production. Secondly, capital which will finance industrial and transportation facilities so that the producer can carry on his business in an atmosphere of financial security. Third, taxation, municipal, county, state and national, no greater than is necessary, for tax burdens are a hindrance, both upon the producer of materials and upon the ability of the consumer to purchase the materials produced.

"It would be a very wholesome thing in my judgment if the people of the country would take a stand on three or four outstanding problems: Revival of international trade, settlement of the war debts, stabilization of international currency, and coupled with these questions, some measure of disarmament to a peace time basis.

Indecision Delays Decovery.

"Until we approach these large questions, which remain pushed into the background, the forces which brought on the depression will still be present and recovery will be partial and limited.

"When we do make up our minds to make a careful examination of the whole fabric of government and look beyond our immediate situation to the national international condition of affairs and begin to think and talk and evolve solutions to deal with the matters I have mentioned, we will then begin to have real and permanent recovery, and not until then."

It may be said of Senator Tydings that he has maintained his independence of the President, and has voted against some of the collectivist schemes of the brain trust. But surprising concessions toward the same sentiments as those voiced by the senator have come from members of the Roosevelt cabinet.

For Internationalist View.

In a speech to the International Chamber of Commerce last Tuesday, Secretary of Commerce Roper asserted an economic truism which has seldom been heard during the formative days of the New Deal, although it was heard in Mr. Roosevelt's speeches during the campaign.

This is that the nations of the world largely prosper and fail together, and that the solution to correct panics would lie in international planning.

"We must approach this difficult subject," spoke Mr. Roper "upon the basis of international thinking rather than national thinking.

"The inter-relationship of foreign trade with domestic economic conditions is proved by the fact that ordinarily throughout the world the various countries enter into periods of prosperity and depression more or less simultaneously or interdependently.

"With but few and isolated exceptions, fluctuations in foreign commerce correspond with fluctuations in general business conditions in other trading countries."

Mr. Roper then discussed the manner by which, during the depression, the nations of the world erred when they built up tarif barriers against outside trade, instead of making trade easier.

Explains Erroneous Policy.

He quoted figures showing how world trade has dwindled. Then speaking in an extraordinarily frank vein, in which he seemed to be aiming at the purely domestic schemes of the brain trust, Mr. Roper said:

"As a natural reaction against the world-wide depression, most countries turned their attention and emphasis to domestic problems and neglected the international aspects. The favorite pronouncement of statesmen the world over has been that other countries were responsible for their disrupted internal conditions. This attitude has led to a general growth of nationalism and the initiation of retaliatory measures which served to further cripple foreign commerce."

The commerce secretary then launched into a plea for adoption of the legislation pending in congress by which President Roosevelt would receive powers to lower tarifs by as much as 50 per cent in the negotiation of trade agreements with other nations.

Lays Hull's Failure to President.

This bill is being actively pushed by the administration in its new determination to seek outlets for the surplus production of American agriculture and industry.

Secretary of State Hull had such a conception of his duties when the Roosevelt regime opened, but he was disillusioned speedily when his efforts to achieve international action on foreign trade barriers were opposed and obstructed by the President.

Mr. Hull has carried on, however, and today is said to be in a position to close negotiations already in final stages with several nations, once the President is given the tarif powers sought in the pending bill.

The secretary of state has reasoned through the last year that eventually the President would see that permanent recovery would lie in foreign trade, rather than in the schemes of the brain trust.

Singularly enough, some of the strongest support for the foreign trade program is now coming from a leader of the brain trust, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

ROB SIX HOTELS; 4 ON WEST SIDE NEAR EACH OTHER

Six hotels, four of them in the same neighborhood, were held up early yesterday and a total of $345 was taken. All of the robberies were committed by pairs of armed bandits, but police were unable to state whether the same men were involved in each.

In the robbery of the Sheldrake hotel, 4512 Clarendon avenue, two men forced the night manager, A. L. Hill, to turn over $233, the contents of the cash drawer. Four hotels on the west side, all within a few blocks of each other, which were robbed are the Hoover, 3358 Jackson boulevard; the Guyon, 4000 Washington boulevard; the Westlane, 4507 Washington boulevard, and the Columbus Park, 311 North Central avenue. A total of $100 was taken in these holdups. The Belpark hotel, 3244 North Cicero avenue, was robbed of $12.

Levi Levingood, 24 years old, who gave his address as 9 West Harrison street, was arrested yesterday by the Des Plaines street police and confessed to being the "two gun bandit" who has robbed five small hotels within the last month, obtaining $143. Ralph Madia, owner of the Little Caruso restaurant, 515 South State street, was also held when Levingood said that he borrowed one of the guns from Madia in return for part of the robbery proceeds. Madia is an ex-convict.

HORNER AND 20,000 ATTEND HERRIN, ILL., FESTIVAL OF MUSIC

Herrin, Ill., May 6.—(AP)—Twenty thousand persons, said to be the largest crowd to assemble in this southern Illinois mining town since President Theodore Roosevelt visited here in 1909, attended a music festival at which Governor Horner was the guest of honor.

Among the thousands which thronged the streets as the chief executive's car proceeded along the route in the parade was former Governor Louis L. Emmerson, who, when seen by the governor, was invited to join the party.

At the end of the parade through the downtown streets the sixteen bands participating in the festival massed together on the high school campus and played "The Star Spangled Banner" and "Stars and Stripes Forever."

Governor Horner introduced his Republican predecessor to the crowd and then addressed the crowd briefly. Afterward he visited the proposed big Muddy river flood control project and expressed a keen interest in it.

JOBLESS, HE SHOOTS SELF.

Uno Kjellgren, 58 years old, 1421 Berwyn avenue, died early yesterday in the Alexian Brothers hospital of a bullet wound which, police said, was self inflicted during despondency because of unemployment.

LOSES HIS LIFE IN FIRE WHICH SWEEPS FLAT

Frank Szurna, 43 years old, a caretaker, lost his life in a fire in a three story flat building at 1657 West Huron street last night. Five families were routed by the flames and smoke, and about $1,000 damage was done. The fire broke out on the second floor.

After the blaze was extinguished, Chief John A. Grove, of the 5th battalion, and Lieut. E. J. O'Donnell, of Engine company 30, searched the premises and found Szurna. He was still alive. After an inhalator squad had attempted to revive him he was taken to St. Mary's hospital, where he died. Both hands were burned but it is believed he was suffocated by smoke.

BANDITS INVADE TWO MEETINGS; FLEE WITH $877

Four armed men yesterday invaded the meetings of two fraternal societies in the school building of St. Michael's Roman Catholic church at 83d street and Brandon avenue and escaped with $877 after terrorizing 100 men and women. From the St. Michael's fraternal society the bandits took $600, and from the St. Adalbert's society they took $277. The members of the societies, who had brought the money for the society funds, were lined up against the wall while the robberies were in progress. The bandits fled in an automobile in which two companions had been waiting.

NRA'S OWN BODY TO CHARGE NRA SLOWS RECOVERY

Consumers Assail Price Fixing Codes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 6.—[Special.]—Charges that the NRA is actually impeding recovery by the price control provisions of its codes will soon be lodged with Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson by the NRA's own consumers' advisory board, it was learned today.

The forthcoming report of the consumers' board, based on a study of 58 codes, will be the third recent attack on the NRA which has charged that the codes are fostering monopolistic prices and retarding recovery by jacking up prices faster than the purchasing power of the country can stand.

Clarence Darrow, as head of the National Recovery review board, is reported to have told President Roosevelt that the price provisions of codes are being used to squeeze out small businesses for the benefit of trusts, and the American Federation of Labor charged that price increases have been so great that they have nullified all wage gains which workers have obtained under the Blue Eagle.

Snell Assails Program.

Pointing to these attacks on the NRA and to the criticisms hurled at the new deal by the recent United States Chamber of Commerce convention here, Representative Bertrand Snell, Republican leader in the House, today denounced the Roosevelt recovery program.

Representative Snell said that he had been told that the Darrow report charged the NRA with fostering eight great monopolies. He charged that the President and Gen. Johnson had both tried to gag critics of the new deal, citing the President's note of warning to the chamber of commerce convention.

"It is obvious that government control of the lives and pursuits of our citizens does not sit well in this country," Representative Snell declared. "It appears just as obvious that the policy must be either modified or completely abandoned. Neither the American business man or the farmers will longer stand for the check this regimentation is placing upon our return to prosperity."

Expect Roosevelt to Act.

Because of the piling up of criticisms against the NRA price policies, predictions are that the White House may soon force Johnson to modify his plans. Economic experts in the department of commerce and agriculture see a definite crisis this summer unless this is done.

High prices under NRA codes are causing consumers to cut down their buying, the experts hold, and goods are again backing up into surpluses and inventories. Soon these inventories will be forced on the market at sacrifice prices and the country will have another wide open break in its price structure unless something is done to lower prices and move the goods in an orderly fashion, economists are warning.

Both the consumers' board and organized labor have struck at the NRA on this same point. Price increases under the Blue Eagle have been easy because of collusive practices which the codes permit and have been so rapid that they exhausted the renewed purchasing power of the country.

Conscious of the growing criticism of his price policies, Gen. Johnson recently said that he believed the solution was open posting by all companies of their prices with a provision that the prices shall be immediately effective. Such posting is not required, but there is a lag before the prices become effective which allows all other companies to adjust their prices up to that of the leader in their industry. The consumers' board has discovered, it is reported, that companies actually conspire to bring about this stepping up of prices.

The board also differs from Johnson on the solution, holding that the mere posting of prices, regardless of when they become effective, can not solve the situation.

Presentation of the price report of the consumers' board to Johnson may bring a crisis in the NRA. He has frequently tried to gag the board for its critical attitude, and another attempt may bring a wholesale defection of his board to the new consumers' organization being set up under the independent national emergency council.

Fire Sweeps Brennan Packing Co. Buildings

Fire of unknown origin yesterday swept two buildings at 4021 Normal avenue, owned by the Brennan Packing company, and caused damage estimated at $7,000. Most of the two story building fronting on the street was destroyed and a one story wooden building in the rear was completely demolished. Several of the company's trucks in the larger building were burned. No one was on the premises at the time.

Man and Woman Found Dead in Basement from Gas

Sterling, Ill., May 6.—[Special.]—Miss Myrtle Koberstine and Addison Capp were found dead in the basement of the former's home here this afternoon. They were last seen alive a week ago today. They evidently had started to wash some clothes when overcome by gas. The gas range still was burning.

CODE CONTROLS FEDERAL HOUSE REPAIR FUNDS

No Eagle, No Contract for Builders.

Washington, D. C., May 6.—(AP)—Building companies must be under the Blue Eagle to obtain any of the 200 million dollars' worth of business which the government will create in extending aid for reconditioning homes, including those on which the government takes over the mortgages.

It is possible, also, that a similar restriction will be imposed on the program to stimulate the private spending of one billion 500 million dollars for other than distressed homes.

Inspection Reveals Plan.

This became known today with the examination of plans of the Home Owners Loan corporation for setting up special agencies in the corporation's 300 offices to advise home owners in need of money how to obtain funds for reconditioning.

This operation will be directed by Donald H. McNeal, formerly manager of the National Homes Finance corporation which is operated by the building industry.

The distribution of the corporation's 200 million dollars falls definitely under the President's ban again non-Blue Eagle firms and the ban may be extended to the new project for encouraging the spending by home owners of one billion 500 million dollars, with the government making a partial guarantee of loans to carry out the work.

Limited by Guarantee Policy.

Where the guarantee is not sought, the government has no right to impose any restrictions, but the guarantee is what will make many of the loans suitable collateral.

The 200 million dollar fund will be available to any home owner in distress, whether or not he has received previous aid from the corporation in refinancing indebtedness. It had been generally understood that only home owners already aided could get additional help for reconditioning.

The Home Loan corporation has adopted the policy of encouraging the use of local facilities to the greatest extent possible, including labor, purchase of materials, etc.

The lists of contractors are to be made up on the basis of answers to questionnaires which will be given to contractors requesting them, and which require the contractors to agree to certain minimum standards of building material and work.

The attendants said the noted Catholic educator appeared "to be growing weaker."

PACKING CO. WORKERS STRIKE IN CEDAR RAPIDS

Cedar Rapids, Ia., May 6.—(AP)—Twelve hundred employés of the Wilson & Co. packing company of Cedar Rapids were on strike here tonight because of company union difficulties.

The strike was called at 10 p. m. after an earlier meeting of workers. Failure of the company to recognize the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, with a membership of 1,287, was reported to be one of the complaints of the strikers.

End Two Auto Strikes.

Kansas City, Mo., May 6.—(AP)—Richard L. Byrd, labor member of the national automobile board, utilized an airplane to successfully end motor car strikes here and at St. Louis today. Strikers here voted tonight to return to work tomorrow.

Byrd played a major part in settling a strike of employés of the St. Louis Chevrolet and Fisher body plants, then hastened by plane to deal with a strike at the same plants in Leeds, Mo., a suburb.

Byrd said the employés will return to work without discrimination, and workers who were given a lay-off will be reëmployed.

WORLD RACE TO ARM ON; NATIONS PREPARE FOR WAR

Laid to France, Germany and Japan.

GENEVA, May 6.—(AP)—Alarming signs that the much feared armament race is in full swing the world over are seen by statesmen in recent developments in the capitals of virtually every major power.

From the nerve centers of the world come reports that the nations are buckling on more armor; that every branch of armament—air, water, and land—is being strengthened.

Under a placid surface in England there is concern over the future. France has announced new precautions despite her present great military power. The Russian bear is fixing new spikes to his mighty claws. Germany is in rebellion against the fetters of the Versailles treaty. Japan is increasing her armaments. The United States is looking after her naval and air forces, and Italy talks of modernization and enlargement of her fighting forces.

Ascribed to Two Causes.

In this international center the condition is ascribed by expert observers principally to two things: The failure of France and Germany to reach an armaments agreement and uncertainties regarding Japan's policies in the far east.

France during the last three years has increased her fighting forces by 65,000 by employing civilians to perform work formerly done by soldiers, and is considering pushing up the figure by 125,000 more through a lengthening of the period of conscript service.

Germany, in open rebellion against treaty restrictions, has increased her army and navy budget for 1934 from $268,000,000 to about $358,000,000, and her aviation budget from $28,000,000 to $84,000,000. She also has allotted $100,000,000 to the Nazi storm troopers, who Chancellor Adolf Hitler has said he would be willing to disarm under an agreement with France.

Russia Adds to Army.

Russia has increased her armies in the last two years from 562,000 to about 678,000, most of the new strength going to the east.

Japan, in January, 1934, increased her land, naval, and air forces by 100,000 to a total of 456,000 in three years.

Italy in two years has increased her forces by 43,000, mainly in the air and naval branches, and although her armaments budget shows a reduction for 1934, the saving will be through administrative economies. The king of Italy in opening parliament declared that his country has no intention of being "caught napping."

Poland has pushed her army up from 280,000 to 341,000.

The only two nations in Europe which show a decrease in army strength are Switzerland and Great Britain, but Britain has made up for her smaller army with increased sea and air forces.

Air Armaments Up.

Increased strength in the air is playing a big part in armaments in many nations. The best available figures show Japan has increased her military airplanes by 450 to 3,324, buying most of the new equipment in Great Britain and the United States, and that France has now 4,760 war planes, representing an increase of 500.

Russia recently has increased her air force to close to 2,700 planes, buying 432, and Great Britain, Italy, Poland and Czecho-Slovakia likewise have added new craft.

Development of artillery also is reported increasing. Swiss army officers say there has been a material pickup in the business of munition factories, mentioning guns for Japan and anti-aircraft guns. France is reported to be building a new type six-inch army gun which will be a sensation on a larger scale equaling that of the famous "seventy-fives."

In their armament the nations also are giving attention to new and stronger fortifications. France has completed a chain of fortresses along the German frontier and is finishing a like system on the Italian border. Belgium, alarmed by the failure of disarmament moves, is constructing powerful forts along the entire German border.

Poles and Czechs Build Defenses.

Poland and Czechoslovakia are building defenses on the German border, and Poland on the Russian side. The French claim that the Germans are violating the Versailles treaty by establishing in the demilitarized Rhineland zone airdromes, firing positions and underground shelters and by fortifying the Polish border.

From a naval standpoint, the picture is no less discouraging to disarmament proponents. Great Britain has built or authorized war craft up to 94 per cent of treaty strength, and Japan up to 98½ per cent. The United States is considering appropriations for a treaty strength navy.

ARTIST REBUKED BY ROYAL ACADEMY FOR HECKLING MACDONALD

LONDON, May 6.—(AP)—The Royal Academy of Arts has written the octogenarian artist, Adrian Stokes, rebuking him for interrupting a speech of Prime Minister MacDonald at the academy dinner last Thursday.

Stokes interrupted the prime minister, who was talking about national and world affairs, to ask him why he did not say something about the academy's show. The president of the academy council has written MacDonald apologizing for the incident.

Stokes, however, showed no penitence and remarked today he was still "very glad" he had been "discourteous."

JAPANESE ARMY OFFICER KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

Lieut. Col. Kinoshida died in the Milford hospital where his companions were treated, but Maj. Iida was discharged.

Textile Interests Call for Severe Action.

LONDON, May 6.—(AP)—Despite the delicate situation created by her controversy with Japan over the textile trade, Great Britain is making a supreme effort to maintain the friendliest relations with Tokio.

The attitude of the government was revealed authoritatively as being one of determination that there must be no political rupture whatever.

Lack Japanese Reply.

"Britain will not permit a trade fight to develop into a political break of any sort," this authority declared, "nor can far eastern political problems cause any degree of trouble between us and the Japanese."

A statement of the British policy, with particular reference to the trade conflict, is expected to be made in the house of commons tomorrow or Tuesday. The presentation to Japan of what amounted to an ultimatum threatening empire restrictions and open trade war as a result of Japanese trade expansion, has brought no reply so far, but it was regarded as likely that one would be at hand within a day or two.

The policy of waiting for a reply drew fire from the textile interests, but the government apparently is unwilling to take summary action at this time.

Need Friendly Relations.

Although officials are inclined to laugh off Sino-Japanese political problems, and assert that Japan's assurances that treaties will be respected are sufficient to convince Britain there will be no further difficulties in China, there is known to be considerable apprehension under the surface.

As a result Britain was represented as "leaning over backward" in its relations with the Japanese empire.

The federation is a member of the Chicago Council of Affiliated Tag Day Organizations, comprised of four groups who may legally tag on the city streets. Mrs. A. H. Brumback, chairman of the educational committee of the Chicago Women's club, is president of the federation and will be in charge of the campaign.

Nobody Will Take Trotzky; France Finds Him an Iland

BORDEAUX, France, May 6.—(AP)—The French government, despairing of getting another country to accept Leon Trotzky, is seeking a kind of St. Helena for him. It was reported today that authorities had decided to send the Russian exile to the tiny Island of Daix, opposite Rochefort-sur-Mer. The iland is less than three miles square and has a population of only one hundred.

INCOME OF NEW YORK CITY DURING 1933 IS MORE THAN BILLION

New York, May 6.—(AP)—Despite tax delinquencies and reduced real estate levies, New York city's 1933 income amounted to more than a billion dollars, the finance department's annual report showed tonight.

The report, one of the last official documents prepared by Controler W. Arthur Cunningham before he died of heart disease while horseback riding yesterday, listed cash receipts, including borrowings, at $1,023,993,148. This was exclusive of transactions between city departments and transfers of funds from one account to another.

The net cash payments amounted to $982,380,237, leaving a total cash balance on Dec. 31 of $70,610,310, as compared with $28,997,400 a year ago.

HOMES BURNED AS FOREST FIRES PERIL MOSINEE

Wausau, Wis., May 6.—(AP)—Seven families were made homeless tonight when forest fires which all day menaced the village of Mosinee, 10 miles south of here, destroyed their homes and one schoolhouse.

Hurriedly recruited fire brigades, although hampered by inadequate supplies, endeavored to keep a wall of water flowing around the outskirts of the village of 2,000 inhabitants and site of the Mosinee Paper mills, one of the leading plants of the region.

Several families fled from their homes to take refuge in the country as newly kindled flames leaped 50 feet or more over treetops to send shoots of fire across the town into other cutover lands.

Three fires started within the yards of the paper mill during the day, but the mill brigade managed to check them without serious damage through the help of volunteers. All the mill buildings as well as several Mosinee residences, parched from the long dry spell, were soaked with water to remove the danger of flying sparks and leaping flames.

Stevens Point, Marshfield and this city sent fire fighters into the section throughout the day to beat back the flames. Near Phillips, in Price county, to the north of here, forest fires today were so numerous that smoke and dust hid the sun from the village.

HOODLUMS SHOOT POLICEMAN TO AVOID ARREST

Motorcycle Policeman James L. McNamara, 37 years old, 4217 West End avenue, was shot in the left cheek last night when he tried to question three men in an automobile following a long chase. His wound is not serious.

The policeman started chasing the trio at Lake street and Ogden avenue when he noticed their car had no license plates. He overtook them at Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue, a distance of several miles.

When the suspects stopped their car McNamara stepped off his motorcycle and walked up to them. When he was about 10 feet away one of the men fired at him. As Policeman McNamara fell to the street the hoodlums escaped. McNamara was taken to the Garfield Park hospital.

Take Butter and Eggs in Holdup; Spurn Milk

Three bandits who yesterday halted John Dominik, 4449 North Laramie avenue, a driver for the Borden Farm Products company in front of 1917 Milwaukee avenue, took $3, five pounds of butter, and five dozen eggs but spurned the milk on the truck, saying "we aren't babies."

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

PERSECUTION OF JEWS IN RUSSIA BARED BY WOMAN

Claims They Are Terrorized by the G. P. U.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, May 6.—French Jewry, which for the last year has been absorbed in caring for victims of the Nazi program, is now seriously preoccupied by the situation of Jews in soviet Russia, it is learned.

It is now recognized in Israelite circles here that although the communists have officially abolished all racial distinctions and have actually entrusted some of the most important administrative posts in Russia to Jews, a systematic, if disguised, persecution of Jews is being carried on.

A violent anti-Semitic faction exists in the G. P. U. [soviet espionage system], it is alleged. Some of the reports of atrocities against Jews in Russia as such rival anything that has come out of Germany.

Woman Invited to Lecture.

Owing to persistent reports of sufferings of Jews in Russia received by private individuals here, the Jewish community in Paris the other day invited Mme. Tatiana Chernauvina, former curator of the Hermitage museum in Petrograd [now Leningrad] to relate her personal observations regarding conditions of the Jews in Russia. She was sentenced as a "saboteur" to a soviet prison camp and escaped with her husband after a 20 day march across arctic swamps.

The woman's lecture was given under the patronage of Baron Gunzburg, internationally known Jewish leader. The grand rabbi of France, Israel Levi and many other prominent Jews were present.

After the lecture a number of prominent Jews declared they were appalled by Mme. Chernauvina's revelations. Consequently, it is possible some organized effort will be made on behalf of victims of soviet anti-Semitism.

One of the cases cited by Mme. Chernauvina, which recalls singularly some of the tales of German refugees, was that Jewish inmates of Krest prison were forced by the G. P. U. judge to run for hours from one end of the corridor to the other shouting, "I am a dirty Jew."

Makes Other Revelations.

Some other sensational revelations made by Mme. Chernauvina follow:

The percentage of Jews in Leningrad prisons is from 10 to 20 per cent, while only 2 per cent of the Russian population is Jewish. In certain special cells in Leningrad prisons, 80 to 90 per cent of the prisoners are Jewish. Anti-Semitism, though officially reproved, is very strong in all ranks of the G. P. U. The only place in Russia where the expression "dirty Jew," is regularly heard is in the G. P. U. bureaus and prisons.

A disguised form of anti-Semitism occasionally crops up among workers excited by official propaganda. There have been cases where Jewish workers have been beaten to death by comrades not because they were Jews but because they belong to the "Jewish bourgeois nation."

Soviet newspapers have sometimes been allowed to attack Jews in general on the ground that the whole race belongs to the bourgeois class.

Approaches Nazi Policy.

Mme. Chernauvina prefaced her lecture by recognizing that anti-Semitism is forbidden by law and that most of the economic and moral suffering of Jews is simply due to the general misery of the whole population and the uniform persecution of all religions.

She went on, however, to cite exceptions to this rule which sometimes, as in the foregoing examples approach the Nazi spirit of racial intolerance.

She explained that in theory Jews who are persecuted do not suffer because they are Jews but because Jews have the misfortune of practicing traditionally certain trades which inevitably get them into trouble with soviet law. In addition, the hereditary Jewish bent for mercantile and artisan trades automatically places them in one of the most unfavorable brackets in the soviet social scheme.

Dentists and Jewelers.

Jews have always supplied Russia with most of her dentists and jewelers. Since dentists and jewelers by the nature of their business are obliged to handle gold they have been a special target of G. P. U. gold sleuths who, according to Mme. Chernauvina, remorselessly hunt down all citizens suspected of having any jewels or precious metal.

Possession of gold is not an offense in itself, the woman said, but under soviet justice it is usually possible to convict anyone who possesses anything as a speculator. The tactics of the G. P. U. is to bring in the luckless Jewish artisans and, by threatening and torturing them, compel them to make "voluntary contributions" to the five year plan, she explained. It is the fact that G. P. U. men have dealt almost daily with the Jewish in these cases that has given birth to the hatred for Jews prevailing in the G. P. U.

The most sensational part of Mme. Chernauvina's lecture was devoted to eyewitness descriptions of how prisoners, chiefly Jews, were tortured for days in G. P. U. prisons. She said they were crowded into tiny cells where they cannot sit or lie down for days on end, are forced to run the gauntlet of guards who beat them, and are repeatedly put through a third degree by the judges.

Commenting on the lecture, Baron Gunzburg said Mme. Chernauvina's observations were unquestionably accurate and that they had had a crushing effect "on the audience."

Grand Rabbi Levi expressed a similar point of view and added that Jews in Russia could not obtain kosher meat or matzos. He said that for the first time this year at Passover soviet authorities allowed packages of matzos to be sent to Jews in Russia, but added sorrowfully that funds were not sufficient to send matzos to all Russian Jews who desired it.

SOVIET HALTS U.S. TRADE ORDERS ON DEFAULT RULING

Credit to Russia Shut Off by Johnson Act.

MOSCOW, May 6.—(AP)—Attorney General Cummings' ruling that the soviet government is a defaulter under the Johnson act appeared certain today to intensify resentment aroused among soviet officialdom by passage of the bill, shutting off American credit to Moscow.

This sentiment has already crystalized into actual retaliatory steps in the form of a recommendation that all soviet economic organizations refrain from planning any orders from America with the exception of such items that cannot be had elsewhere. This recommendation was made recently by the organ of the commissariat of heavy industry and, it is understood, already has been put into effect.

Disowns Kerensky Debt.

Soviet-American trade, for the time being, is in a state of deadlock because of such action and the soviet's protestations that it cannot be held to have defaulted the Kerensky debt to the United States.

Soviet officials thus far have refused to answer the direct question as to whether Moscow is prepared to negotiate for a settlement of claims between the two countries, but apparently at present the Russian temper is not calculated to produce immediate steps in this direction.

American business men who have had a chance to gauge reaction of high economic authorities here to the new law describe it as one of mingled surprise and bitter indignation.

Agent Recalled.

That some concern for new soviet enterprises, planned on expectations of large American credits, is not unmixed with this feeling is evidenced by the fact that Peter Bogdanoff, head of Amtorg, Russian trading organization, was summoned to Moscow after passage of the bill to report personally on it to Kremlin authorities. He is returning to New York shortly.

A possible explanation of the soviet attitude—which is summed up in the press with the statement that the government will not be coerced into a Kerensky debt settlement—lies in the fact that if it consents to negotiate the question with America, it will be compelled under the Rapallo treaty to consider German claims for payment of pre-bolshevik debts to that country on a basis of equal terms.

LORD ROTHSCHILD QUITS 'CABINET' OF BRITISH JEWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 6.—Lord Rothschild, one of the leaders of British Jewry, has resigned the vice presidency of the "Jews' parliament" board of deputies, the News Chronicle will announce tomorrow. In addition B. A. Zaiman, secretary of the board, also has resigned.

Behind the resignations is believed to be a long and bitter struggle on the question of the board participating officially in the boycott of German goods.

When the boycott was organized official Jewry was represented by the board, but did not participate. At least one other body was formed to intensify boycott arrangements but after a debate on the subject at a meeting of the Jewish board of deputies, it was decided not to back the boycott of Germany.

GERMANY BEGINS CAMPAIGN TO WIN BACK RICH SAAR

100,000 Cheer Goebbels in Palatinate Rally.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ZWEIBRUECKEN, Germany, May 6.—The benefits which a restoration of the rich Saar basin to Germany would bring to the people of the Saar valley were stressed by Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda, today in a monster demonstration in this Palatinate city. The rally was attended by a crowd of 100,000 Germans, many of them residents of the Saar.

Thus, Nazi Germany began its active campaign to restore the Saar to the reich in next year's plebiscite under the league of nations.

Goebbels told the cheering throng that plans to help the Saar "after the reunion" are already being drafted.

Tells of Nazi Plans.

"We'll expand the coal mining area with more pits," he said. "We will modernize the old pits. There will be technical improvements and the creation of ample sales possibilities for Saar coal. In this process, the regeneration of the Saar will be incorporated in the great labor creation program of the reich."

Turning to agricultural problems, the propaganda minister promised that the entire population of the basin would also be incorporated in the reich's comprehensive settlement work. Referring to the Saar's unemployed, he said:

"We will give work to the Saar's 40,000 unemployed. That is for us a question of national prestige. It will be our first task after the reunion."

Goebbels urged Germans in the Saar valley not to lose their courage in the last month before the plebiscite. Assuring them that victory is ahead, he proclaimed that 66,000,000 Germans are determined that there shall be no compromise on the Saar question, whatever there might be in other foreign political questions.

Claims Saar Will Stay German.

"The Saar is German and will remain German," he cried. "We will never rest until the despotic barriers are torn down, and we can welcome you as our blood brothers in the union of the reich. Come what may the reich will stick to you. The Germany of dishonor and disgrace is a thing of the past, and the new reich is resting on honor and power."

Goebbels bitterly attacked the activities of German émigrés now in the Saar and warned the population not to heed their tales.

"If they returned to Germany the government would not need to deal with them—they would be killed by their former comrades," he exclaimed. "They are going among the people of the Saar declaring that the Catholic church is in danger—atheists become pious servants of God. They do not tell how we saved the church from themselves."

Denounces Catholic Clergy.

"To the stake with these traitors," one section of the audience shouted.

The minister also denounced the Catholic clergy in the Saar, who, he said, are opposing the Nazis.

A proclamation issued by the "German front" in connection with the demonstration said that 455,174 German voters are now organized in the front and are entitled to cast ballots in the plebiscite. The proclamation added that this figure constituted 93 per cent of the qualified electors.

Reed Seeks Return to U. S. Senate.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 6.—(AP)—Old guard Republican rule in Pennsylvania, unmoved for years, is facing a double challenge.

Both the Democrats and Gifford Pinchot seek to upset the old order established by Boies Penrose. Thirteen candidates seek the Republican nomination to succeed Pinchot as governor, while Pinchot wants the Republican nomination for United States senator.

David Reed is campaigning as a critic of the new order in Washington. Pinchot calls Reed "the messenger boy of the Mellons and the international money lords." Reed calls Pinchot a "common scold."

Joseph F. Guffey of Pittsburgh, an original Pennsylvania booster for President Roosevelt, has the indorsement of the Democratic state committee in his campaign for the senatorial nomination.

Among the thirteen Republican candidates for the governorship nomination in the primary May 15 are these three high state officials:

E. C. Shannon, now lieutenant governor.

William A. Schnader, attorney general.

John A. McSparran, secretary of agriculture, long a leader of the Pennsylvania drys. He is running on both the Democratic and Republican tickets.

POSTOFFICE PAYLESS FURLOUGHS TO END ON JUNE 30, NOT MAY 1

New York, May 6.—[Special.]—The payless furloughs forced for economy on employés of the postoffice department will end June 30 with the fiscal year, Vincent Burke, first deputy assistant postmaster general, said today in Brooklyn.

His announcement revealed that Postmaster General Farley had not carried out his promise, made on April 15, to end the furloughs on May 1. At that time, the postmaster had said, postal revenues had increased so substantially that he felt he could revoke the payless furlough plan and restore postal service to its full measure.

Mr. Burke spoke today, as the postmaster general's representative, at the annual communion breakfast of the Brooklyn postffice Holy Name society.

"Insofar as the postoffice department is concerned, we have turned the corner," Mr. Burke assured 800 men. "The depression is at an end for us."

Customers Pay Checks, Flee Fire in Loop Store

More than 40 customers in a Walgreen drug store at State and Randolph streets were driven to the street last evening when a paper sign caught fire, igniting wooden paneling and filling the store with smoke. Firemen extinguished the blaze with chemicals. The damage was slight and the exit of the customers was orderly, many of them paying their checks before they left.

3 Present at '33 Ritual Are Dead.

It was a warm, spring night back on May 4, 1886, when 176 policemen marched out of the Des Plaines street station to quell an anarchistic riot that was taking place in Haymarket square. A few minutes later a dynamite bomb was hurled into their ranks, killing nine of them and injuring more than seventy other officers and pedestrians.

Yesterday afternoon five survivors of the 176 who answered the riot call climbed the rickety stairs of the same old station at 120 North Des Plaines street to relive in memories that famous tragedy. They met in the police court room, transacted a few pieces of business in the name of the Haymarket Riot Veterans' association, and spent the afternoon indulging in reminiscences of the riot.

Three Die in Year.

Since the association met a year ago the ranks have been thinned by the deaths of three members, Sergt. Freeman Steele, and Patrolmen John Gibbons and Edward Hanley.

The roll call yesterday was made by Capt. Frank Tyrrell, 75 years old, president of the association. Others present were: Sergt. John J. Brown, 78; Patrolman Andrew O'Day, 80; Patrolman John Sisk, 85, and Patrolman George Roycraft, 87. All have been retired from duty for many years.

Robert Jampolis, 79 years old, former assistant state's attorney, who prosecuted and obtained the convictions of the anarchists responsible for the riot and the throwing of the bomb, was unable to be present for the first time in a number of years, Bert Cowdrey, who was the operator at the station the night of the riot, was present in an unofficial capacity.

Recalls Incident.

Capt. Tyrrell recalled that a few seconds before the death dealing missil was hurled by an anarchist zealot, Capt. Ward had ordered a mob of 10,000 persons to disperse. In an alley a short distance north stood Rudolph Schnaubet, the bomb concealed under his coat. Capt. Ward had just spoken the words: "In the name of the State of Illinois I command you to disperse," when the bomb exploded in the midst of the police. There was a barrage of bullets following the explosion.

After the meeting the five veterans journeyed to Randolph and Halsted streets. There at a police call box they went through the annual ritual of making the "last pull." Tomorrow they will be feted at a dinner to be given in their honor by the Kiwanis club at the Midwest Athletic club.

PRESIDENT RETURNS AFTER RESTING ON OVERNIGHT CRUISE

Washington, D. C., May 6.—(AP)—President Roosevelt returned to the capital tonight refreshed by an overnight cruise down the Potomac aboard the Sequoia.

The chief executive boarded the yacht last night after his return from a trip to New York to attend the funeral of the former secretary of the treasury, William H. Woodin.

Tired by the pressure of business and numerous conferences, Mr. Roosevelt took it easy today, lolling on deck in unseasonable heat.

The President was accompanied by Secretary Morgenthau, Senator Connally of Texas, Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator; Kirk Simpson, and two of the presidential secretaries, Stephen T. Early and Marvin H. McIntyre.

ARAB WARRIOR'S SON IN COMMAND OF SEIZED PORT

British Subjects Assured They Are Safe.

CAIRO, Egypt, May 6—(AP)—Assurances that British subjects will be safe in Hodeida, captured Yemen seaport, came today from the Emir Feisal, as the troops of his father, King Ibn Saud of Saudi, Arabia, pushed on to complete the conquest of Yemen by attacking Sana, the capital.

The emir sent a message to Kamaran iland, where a number of British Indians had been taken on the Sloop Penzance. Tho Emir Feisal was placed in command of Hodeida, the message said, and his forces had restored order in the Red sea port disturbed by the disorganized retreat of Yemen defenders.

To Put Son on Throne.

Messages from the war zone told of the capture by the Saudi soldiers of a consignment of arms and ammunition sent from Europe to the Imam Yahya of Yemen, who has been reported to have been assassinated as his army met defeat.

King Ibn Saud, it was indicated, intends to place his son, the emir, on the throne of Yemen if the capital is taken. There will be no pause in the military operations, messages from Feisal said, until the gates of Sana have been beaten down and the city occupied.

France Sends Warship.

PARIS, May 6.—(AP)—Following the lead of Great Britain and Italy, the French government today dispatched a naval vessel to Hodeida to protect her interests in the war zone. The destroyer Turbine was ordered to the Arabian port.

AUSTRIA TO HAIL STATE TOBACCO MONOPOLY BIRTH

VIENNA, May 6.—(AP)—With the work of putting into practical effect provisions of Europe's newest constitution getting underway, Austria will turn Tuesday to observe the sesquicentennial of one of her most stable institutions—the state tobacco monopoly. Joseph II, who established it in 1784, was a reform monarch who was, however, forced to withdraw most of his innovations.

But while revolutions succeeded abroad, they failed in Austria. As the Hapsburgs won and lost wars the country passed from a great empire to a small republic and finally to the present Fascist state. Through it all the tobacco monopoly continued.

Suppressed Nazis have attempted to organize a smokers' strike but with little success.

The papal nuncio will celebrate mass at the opening ceremony and President Wilhelm Miklas and Chancellor Dollfuss, whose photographs appear on new cigar bands, will speak at the tobacco exposition. An evening gala performance will be held in the Burg theater, another old institution which has managed to carry on.

Last year the tobacco monopoly sold 122,000,000 cigars, 5,109,000,000 cigarets and employed 6,500 persons. whereas before 41,200 were employed.

BOMBS DAMAGE THREE RAILWAY DEPOTS IN VIENNA

VIENNA, May 6.—(AP)—Bombs concealed in suitcases exploded this afternoon at three of Vienna's most important railway stations, causing great property damage.

Police investigations revealed that the suitcases had been deposited in baggage offices of the different stations yesterday. They contained more than two pounds of explosives and a half gallon of benzine, together with clockwork for setting off the charge.

Another bomb exploded last night in the Palmhof café smashing all windows in the building.

The railway stations explosions—at the West, East, and Aspant stations—were obviously timed for an hour when not only passengers, but railway employés were scarce. Therefore, it was assumed that the object was an anti-government demonstration, with as much property damage as possible without injuring workers or passengers.

CAFE OWNER IS ROBBED.

George Horton, owner of a restaurant at 4356 Madison street, was robbed of $50 by two bandits early yesterday morning. The robbers escaped in a car which was later found to have been stolen.

INDIAN MOUNTED POLICE SIFT 'RIDE' DEATH OF BRAVE

New Force Confronted With First Murder.

Gallup, N. M., May 6.—(AP)—Modern police methods were combined with the cunning of the Indian today as a squad of Navajo "mounties" combed their immense reservation for clews in the brutal slaying of Sam McCabe, 38, prominent member of the tribe.

It was the first murder mystery to confront the new mounted Indian police force, created several weeks ago to combat a wave of lawlessness on the huge Indian domain.

More close-mouthed even than their white brothers, the Indian police declined to disclose what clews they may have discovered. From county officials coöperating with the Indians, however, it was learned that the slaying had the earmarks of gang killing.

Shot and Stabbed.

The slaying occurred in an isolated region 10 miles north of here. The body was found Thursday but the discovery was not announced until yesterday. The Indian had been shot in the head; he had been stabbed and his throat slashed. His face was mutilated, apparently in an effort to prevent identification of the body. Automobile tracks led to the spot, indicating the Indian had been taken for a "ride."

Doubt Robbery Motive.

Although the clothing of the Indian had been searched and a pocketbook rifled, white men said robbery may not have been the motive. McCabe was not considered wealthy and it was not believed he had a large amount of money with him.

Mrs. Laura McCabe, nationally known for her leadership in Indian affairs and a relative of the dead Indian, offered her assistance to police in tracing the slayers.

SPAIN TO EXTEND MILITARY RULE IN WEST AFRICA

MADRID, May 6.—(AP)—Plans of the Spanish government to extend the occupation of territory in West Africa were revealed today.

The occupation of Ifni, undertaken last month, was said to have progressed to a point where government forces will go into the Cape Juby region.

The territory has long been recognized as Spanish, but without formal occupation. Negotiations with natives for peaceful establishment of the troops are being undertaken.

WORKER DIES OF INJURIES.

Andrew Dahl, 45 years old, 2115 South Harvey avenue, Berwyn, died yesterday in the Frances Willard hospital from injuries he is said to have incurred a month ago while working as a hammersmith in the plant of the Kropp Forge company, 5301 West Roosevelt road.

WHITE HOUSE TAKES PART IN RADIO CONTROL

Howe Aids Reversal of Board's Ruling.

through Huey Long and had appealed as a last resort to a near neighbor, the senator from Arkansas.

Senator Robinson says that he telephoned the White House, asking that something be done to save the Shreveport station. He does not remember whether he talked to the President himself or to one of his secretaries. At any rate the Arkansas senator's appeal soon lodged in the hands of Col. [Ky.] Louis M. Howe, the silent, elusive mystery man of the White House secretariat. Mr. Howe went into action without delay.

According to his version of the incident, Mr. Howe telephoned Herbert L. Pettey, secretary of the commission, that the White House was interested in seeing that no injustice be done to Shreveport. He denies that he went any farther than that. Of course, he would not need to. The merest hint officially conveyed of what the White House wanted would be sufficient. Incidentally, young Mr. Pettey was appointed secretary of the commission at the instance of Mr. Howe. Mr. Pettey handled radio arrangements for the Democratic national committee in the 1932 campaign. When Mr. Howe got the radio commission job for Pettey he remarked that the White House thus would be able to keep track of what was going on in the commission.

Mr. Pettey, who is a facile denier, denied that Mr. Howe or any one else at the White House had communicated with him about the New Orleans-Shreveport case or about any other radio case.

Calls Vice Chairman.

It turns out, however, that Mr. Howe concealed from me the most effective thing he did to procure a reversal of the decision in the New Orleans-Shreveport case. He summoned Vice Chairman Thad H. Brown of the radio commission to the White House. Mr. Brown was then acting chairman of the commission because of the absence of Chairman Eugene O. Sykes in Mexico.

Mr. Brown told his fellow commissioners what happened when he was summoned to the presence of Mr. Howe. The White House secretary told Mr. Brown that the White House felt it most essential to bring home the bacon for Senator Robinson. The majority leader of the senate, upon whom the President leaned most heavily in the hour of need, had earnestly requested that the Shreveport station be kept on the air and the White House was disposed to move heaven and earth to get what the senator wanted.

Mr. Howe painted a distressful picture of what would happen if Shreveport were taken off the air. The New Orleans station, which Mr. Howe said was under the thumb of Huey Long, would pour forth a stream of propaganda designed to injure Joe Robinson, whom Long bitterly hates.

Cites Unanimous Decision.

Vice Chairman Brown is said to have assured Mr. Howe that he for one would be willing to change his vote to accommodate the White House. But he pointed out that the decision in favor of New Orleans had been unanimous and that it would be necessary to change three votes before the finding could be reversed.

Well, that was exactly what happened. Mr. Brown and two other members of the commission changed their votes, the application of the New Orleans station for full time was denied and the Shreveport station was left on the air. The decision was then made public. In the meantime Rosel Hyde of the legal division of the commission had had to write and rewrite the decision to justify contrary findings on the same evidence. The Catholic dignitaries protested this without success.

TABLES TURN ON EX-LEGISLATOR IN FRAUD PLEA

Lawrence C. O'Brien, former state representative, who filed a petition in the Circuit court charging fraud in the nomination of Democratic candidates for state representative from the 29th senatorial district in the April 10 primary, was revealed yesterday as having had the same charge placed against himself on more than one occasion.

O'Brien's rubs with the law extend back at least as far as 1917 when he was indicted in connection with vote frauds in the old 18th, 20th, and 21st wards. He was a legislator at that time. In 1922, he was sought as the leader of a gang which carried away a ballot box from a Rush street polling place. More recently, he served 14 months in the federal penitentiary at Leavensworth, Kas., for income tax fraud.

In his petition filed Saturday, O'Brien asked for a recount and named as defendants the Democratic nominees, Edward P. O'Grady and Arthur J. Quinn and two other candidates, Fred H. Hart and A. J. Muffoletto. O'Brien ran third in the primary, receiving less than half the number of votes cast for O'Grady, who was second. O'Brien charged there were irregularities in the marking and counting of ballots.

LEGION OFFICIAL CALLS CANCELLATION OF 21 CHARTERS 'ROUTINE'

Indianapolis, Ind., May 6.—(AP)—The cancelation of the charters of 21 posts of the American Legion in New Mexico was described today as purely a routine procedure by H. L. Plummer, assistant national adjutant in charge of membership.

"As a matter of fact the national executive committee last Friday ordered the cancelation of 104 posts throughout the country," Plummer said. "It also has granted during the last year 231 new charters."

The assistant national adjutant pointed out that at a Legion trial late last year the New Mexico department and its officers were placed under suspension after it was charged that numerous posts had been established in order to increase factional voting strength in the state Legion convention.

At the hearing the state organization was charged with partisan political activity and with padding the membership rolls.

Plummer said today that the cancelations were merely a part of the reorganization of the department of New Mexico.

HOUSE EXPECTED TO ORDER DAIRY PRICE QUIZ TODAY

Washington, D. C., May 6.—(AP)—Why milk costs the consumer what it does in view of the prices paid dairymen probably will be investigated by the federal trade commission.

House adoption of the resolution by Representative Herman P. Kopplemann [Dem., Conn.] to authorize the inquiry is expected tomorrow. The farm administration is favorable, and the commission eager to start the job.

Large distributors forcing independents out of business by bottle exchange "racketeering" was suggested today by one farm administration official as just one of a number of lines an investigation might follow.

Other officials intimated they knew of many other methods and practices employed by distributors to keep prices up and expressed themselves as willing and eager to tell the commission what they called "the whole story."

The commission already is considering how it might procede with the inquiry.

BERNABE ROBLES OFFERS TO OBEY KIDNAPER ORDER

Tucson, Ariz., May 6.—(AP)—A plea to law enforcement officers and the public to stay in the background so that he may be able to carry out negotiations for the return of June Robles, his 6 year old kidnaped granddaughter, was reiterated today by Bernabe Robles, reputedly wealthy retired cattleman.

"When I say I think June is alive, I am merely expressing an opinion," said the elderly man. "I do not know. We have no assurance."

Robles would make no comment on the report that a retired army surgeon, for many years a resident of Tucson, had been named as intermediary.

The grandfather said the only contact had with the kidnapers was April 25. He was told then to have $15,000. He will obey the kidnapers' instructions implicity, he said today.

Fernando Robles, father of June, trudged wearily home early today after the third apparently futile attempt to contact the kidnapers.

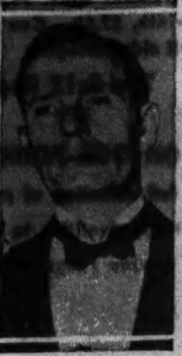
OZARK BOY WILL TELL OXFORD KEY TO STAR RIDDLE

Dr. Hubble's Light Studies Change Einstein's Mind.

Pasadena, Cal., May 6.—(AP)—He made Einstein change his mind.



DR. EDWIN HUBBLE

Now he is in England to tell about a key to one of the most profound riddles of the universe.

This tall, friendly chap, who came from the Ozark hills of Missouri, where the spark of genius was kindled when he gazed as a lad into the stars of the night sky, is Dr. Edwin Hubble, aged 43.

The riddle, to which at Oxford this week he is expected to present a key, is whether the whole universe is actually expanding and at explosive force.

One of the world's distinguished leaders in astronomy, Dr. Hubble makes his home here and presides at the turret of the world's largest telescope atop Mount Wilson.

They call him the greatest of explorers, for his realm is 3,600,000,000,000,000,000,000 miles wide. He has spent years in studying these frontiers, the most remote that science today can observe.

These objects are so far away that it takes 300 million years for light to span the distance, traveling six million million miles a year.

These vast distances are his virgin field by right of discovery.

It was a dozen or so years ago that Hubble was projected into international fame by the discovery that iland universes existed, when he found that the nebulæ, seen apparently as among the stars, were in reality different universes than that in which the earth and stars are a part.

Startles Scientific World.

A more intriguing discovery followed when Hubble studied the light emanating from these distant iland universes. Hubble found there was a shift in the lines of their spectrum toward the red end.

The astronomical world was amazed. Einstein had figured out that the universe was stable and static, unchanging. This "shift" raised the question that the universe might be expanding.

One method of analysis showed that the more distance the iland universe, the faster it was traveling away from the earth. Those figured to be 150 million light years distant appeared to be racing away from these parts at an apparent speed of 15,000 miles a second. Hubble figured there were some 30 million iland universes.

When Einstein came out here in 1930 he talked to Hubble and announced that he had changed his mind about the static universe. He said he became convinced that the universe was expanding.

For years the mystery has been most puzzling. But Hubble worked quietly, month after month, in solemn, tedious, mathematical calculation.

Then came the thought of the new key to unlock the mystery. This key deals with the measure of the energy and number of light quanta that come from the most distant universes.

The red shift shows at least that nebulæ fade with distance. If the rate of fading in the number of light quanta is found to be progressively greater than the amount of fading in the energy of the quanta, that, it was reasoned out by Hubble, would prove actual motion of the nebulæ.

He realized that if the difference in this quanta rate could be precisely determined, an answer to this greatest scientific riddle of the universe would be found.

So important was this research and study, that on Tuesday Hubble will be back at Oxford, England, where once he was a Rhodes scholar, to disclose, as the year's distinguished visiting lecturer, the results of his studies.

Seattle Cafes Say They'll Compete with Speakeasies

Seattle, Wash., May 6.—(AP)—Restaurant men of Seattle announced today their intention of competing with the speakeasies, even if it's against the law. The state liquor board has ruled that licensed establishments must cease selling beer and wine at 1 a. m. The restaurant men informed the board that speakeasies were selling liquor at all hours and the restaurants would do likewise until the board completes its machinery for enforcing the law.

INJURIES FATAL TO MOTHER HIT BY FLEEING CAR

Ex-Convict Driver Charged with Manslaughter.

Mrs. Mary Borrisch, 45 years old, 2347 Walton street, died yesterday in St. Mary's hospital of injuries suffered Saturday night when she was struck at Leavitt street and Augusta boulevard by an automobile driven by an ex-convict. Her seven month old child, Helen, who she was wheeling in a buggy at the time, was also injured and is now in St. Mary's hospital. She is expected to recover.

The accident occurred while the driver, Bernard Dziakdzic, 22 years old, 1720 West Erie street, a former inmate of Pontiac reformatory, and two companions were fleeing from a police squad. Dziakdzic swerved his car upon the sidewalk and struck Mrs. Borrisch and the child. He and his companions tried to get away on foot after the crash, but were nabbed by Policeman John Mocyn. The companions were Walter Dziakdzic, 24, brother of Bernard, and John Hudzima. All three are being held, Bernard for manslaughter.

Year's Toll Now 406.

Mrs. Borrisch's death and two others raised the Cook county motor toll since Jan. 1 to 406. The other victims are:

Sheridan Albord, 38 years old, 543 West 45th place. Died at the county hospital of injuries suffered May 1 when he walked into the side of an automobile at West 45th street and Union avenue. Charles Knight, 58 years old, 4205 South Union avenue, driver of the machine, was not held.

Mrs. Selma Rice, 78 years old, 6646 South Crawford avenue. Died in Holy Cross hospital of injuries received Saturday night when she was struck by an automobile at Crawford avenue and 63d street. The driver, Theodore Berman, 37 years old, 4307 West 63d street, was not held.

Shaken from Beds.

An automobile crashed into the interior of a roadside stand at Archer and Kean avenues, shaking the proprietor, Martin Vavrys, his wife and 7 year old son from their beds. The occupants of the car, Irvin Garbs, 29 years old, 1456 West Station street, Kankakee, the driver, and Orville Schiller, 21, 966 South East avenue, Kankakee, were arrested by county highway police.

Garbs was charged with reckless driving and disorderly conduct and the latter charge was also lodged against Schiller. Police said both men had been drinking. Garbs is alleged to have passed a stop light at Archer avenue before crashing into the stand.

STALIN ORDERS WATERWAYS TO AID RAIL SYSTEM

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, May 6.—Radical improvement in water transportation, to relieve overburdened railways, was ordered today in a decree signed jointly by Josef Stalin and V. M. Molotoff, as the heads of the communist party and the council of commissars. It is the latest move in a series of shakeups and drives for betterment of the transport system, the lagging of which has handicapped the whole economic program.

The decree provides for fixing responsibility, for planning, and for carrying out the plan all along the line, and announces that criminal prosecutions will be brought against slipshod officials. It calls for closer coöperation between the railway and water transport systems and, to encourage the use of waterways, orders cuts ranging up to 20 per cent in waterway freight rates, lower railway rates on freight that is sent part way by water, a reduction of 30 per cent in wharf charges, and one of 10 per cent in stevedore charges.

The decree contains a stinging rebuke to those responsible for the only 82 per cent fulfilment of last year's water transport plan. Plans are frequently drafted in a burocratic way, the decree charges, and this results in such inexcusable practices as sending 6 per cent of the ships empty on return voyages while the railroads are jammed with trafic.

INNOCENT VICTIM

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Joseph Novak, 65 years old, 2108 West 18th place, who was wounded in the right hand while he was standing at 18th street and Hoyne avenue Saturday when four gangsters in an automobile opened fire on a minor hoodlum, was reported recovering in his home yesterday. The target of the gangsters, Chester Kopzak, alias Geisler, 21 years old, 2009 West 18th street, said to be a minor police character, was shot seven times and fatally wounded.

2 KILLED, 16 HURT AS A BUS SKIDS ONTO CAR TRACK

Blame Blowout for Clyde, O., Crash.

Fremont, O., May 6.—(AP)—A crash between a motor stage and an interurban car near here early today cost the lives of two of the bus passengers and the injury of 16 other persons. An inquest will be held tomorrow. All those killed or injured were bus passengers.

The dead are:

MRS. GRACELLA B. SHANK, 455 Hamilton avenue, Trenton, N. J.

MRS. GLADYS FREEMAN, 30 years old, 5692 Hudson boulevard, North Bergen, N. J.

Those seriously injured are:

JOHN CORAK, Braddock, Pa.; broken left leg and other injuries.

Bus Skids Into Car.

The accident occurred at Clyde, O., eight miles east of here.

Witnesses said the stage was proceeding at a nominal rate of speed as a car of the Lake Shore Electric railroad approached it from the east. The interurban tracks run along the center of the highway at this point.

E. C. Stotz of Fremont, motorman of the interurban, said the bus was on its own side of the road until it was within ten yards of the car. Then, he said, it suddenly swerved, shearing off its left side as it struck the interurban.

Blames Tire Blowout.

At Cleveland P. K. Wadsworth, president of the bus company [Great Eastern Stages, Inc.], said he presumed a tire on the bus blew out, throwing it out of control and into the path of the interurban. The left front tire was found flat after the collision.

The Clyde town marshal called ambulances and nurses to care for the injured a few minutes after the accident, at 4:04 a. m.

DEAN SPERRY OF HARVARD ASSAILS CHURCH DICTATOR

Dean Willard L. Sperry of the Harvard university divinity school last night warned against the "spirit of the dictator" permeating religion in an address to the Chicago Evening Club in Orchestra hall. He said that dictators like Mussolini and Hitler would undo the work of the last twenty years, when the tendency had been towards democracy.

LEONARD HOLLEY, WOMAN KILLED IN AUTO SMASH

Greenwich, Conn., May 6.—[Special.]—Margaret Olive Smith and Leonard M. Holley died in the Greenwich hospital today after an automobile accident on the Boston Post road early this morning. Holley was the son of a prominent family here. Miss Smith came from New York's Greenwich village.

Prescott Hubbard, an attaché of the Chase National bank and Richard Meany, former Olympic swimming champion, were not hurt, although they were in the back seat of the Holley car.

Holley's first wife, Rosemary Waver Holley, won a divorce from him and sued Nanette Gude Bayne, billboard heiress, for $100,000 in a love-theft action. The present Mrs. Holley became his wife a few hours after the divorce in 1927.

Holley's widow had some litigation against him a year ago, but dropped that and went on a second honeymoon with him last June.

ROOSEVELT PLAN TO READ ALL MAIL IS RESULT GETTER

Gets Jobs for Cripples and Aid for Needy.

Washington, D. C., May 6.—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, first President to tackle as a "psychological problem" all that the mail man brings, is getting some amazing results.

He saved a life by getting an anaemic, rural 10 year old girl in touch with an insulin supply. He found a lost trunk for a world war veteran who went from Chicago to California.

He got a life time printing job for a young paralytic.

The examples are but by products to the mightiest mail mill ever set up in this capital city. It turns out each week a detailed analysis of the volunteered thought the people, particularly about unemployment and relief.

Over the mail mill, Jasper J. Mayer presides, in a room that always sounds alive with clicking typewriters. Each worker is instructed to handle each letter as though it were the one important matter in the world.

Makes Map of "Advice."

Upon a map of the United States, Mayer has projected an analysis, proportioned as to population, of all the advice the citizenry has given the President on the economic situation and the civil works program from Jan. 10 to March 31, inclusive.

A dark blue line in each state tells how many people thought the civil works jobs went to loafers, and to the "rich" who didn't need them. Only Nevada is minus such a line.

By glancing at this map the President can see, among many other things the relative written demand for subsistence homesteads, the comparative number of graft charges.

What was learned from the mail is going to help a lot on a summer move for educational camps and residences for unattached women. But so far the President hasn't solved the problem of one of their number who pleaded: "Please, Mr. President, send me a man."

100,000 Messages a Month.

A few summarizing figures were given by Mayer. About a half million pieces of mail have been handled since Dec. 15. The largest number of people working on it at one time was 82. The present staf is 68. The top day on telegrams was 7,000—the day the Civil Works program was discontinued. The maximum on post cards was 19,432 in one day, all concerning the Chicago school teachers. Public utterances, like the Wirt controversy, move the mail in tides like waves breaking on the seashore. President Roosevelt himself reads as many as fifty or sixty relief case letters a day.

Thirty or forty letters a day, which might be termed "neediest cases" mail, come to Mayer from the White House, with notations from the President's secretaries, Mrs. Roosevelt, or her daughter, Anna Dall.

It's Mayer's job to start the relief investigation and aid machinery in motion, and he says it's amazing the number of times something really constructive is done about these cases. "Thank you" letters come pouring in.

RECALL GOLDEN DAYS OF CITIES NOW SKELETONS

Idaho Springs, Colo., May 6.—(AP)—Seventy-five years ago this month the first flake of a $300,000,000 fortune in gold and other ores was discovered in the Clear Creek country.

Today veterans and fledglings placed their feet under a banquet table and toasted the occasion. The cities built by that gold rush are mostly ghosts now.

Two hundred guests attended and drank to George Jackson, who in 1859 discovered the golden flake.

Since that time, says a legend painted on a billboard in a conspicuous place near here, more than $300,000,000 was dug from the mountain country of the Clear Creek. Banquet speakers recalled the days when Idaho Springs, Blackhawk, Silver Plume, and Central City were rip-roaring mining camps in a country not long before wrested from the Indians.

Wyoming Dinosaur Hunt Will Open This Month

New York, May 6.—[Special.]—The American Museum of Natural History will send investigators into the Big Horn basin in Wyoming this month in the hope of discovering a new species of the dinosaurs which lived in that part of the world 120,000,000 years ago. The expedition is to be headed by Dr. Barnum Brown, curator of fossil reptiles at the museum. The work is being financed by Harry F. Sinclair.

HAROLD TEEN—SALLY'S PROTECTOR

Pioneer Patriot Priest Is Honored.

Vincennes, Ind., May 6.—(AP)—At the portico of the venerable cathedral here, Roman Catholics from Indiana and nearby states gathered today to celebrate the centennial anniversary of the diocese of Vincennes. The see of the diocese, established here on May 6, 1834, by Pope Gregory XVI., has since been removed to Indianapolis.

Beneath blue skies and a burning sun, the most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, apostolic delegate to the United States, celebrated pontifical high mass at an outdoor altar on a plaza which later in the day was dedicated to the memory of Father Pierre Gibault, pioneer patriot priest, who played a prominent part in the acquisition of the Northwest Territory by the United States.

Ten thousand persons gathered about the plaza remained reverently silent while the apostolic delegate conducted the liturgical ceremonies of the mass.

Hear University Head.

The Most Rev. James H. Ryan, bishop of Modra and rector of the Catholic university of Washington, who accompanied the apostolic delegate, delivered the sermon. In his address he paid tribute to Simon Brute de Remur, the first bishop of Vincennes.

A bronze medallion, the official memorial of the diocesan centennial, bore on the obverse side the likeness of Bishop Brute and on the reverse side the old Vincennes cathedral. Copies of the medal were blessed for the public by the apostolic delegate during the procession that followed the mass.

The dedication of Gibault plaza, a broad expanse in front of the church and connected with a magnificent memorial erected to Gen. George Rogers Clark, conqueror of the Northwest Territory, was held in the afternoon.

Governor Principal Speaker.

Gov. Paul V. McNutt was the principal speaker at this ceremony. The Indiana governor recounted the aid given by Father Gibault to Gen. Clark at the critical time in the nation's history when the destiny of the Northwest Territory was determined.

From the Plaza Gov. McNutt looked out over the Clark memorial and the Lincoln memorial bridge which spans the Wabash river at the point where Abraham Lincoln in his youthful days left Indiana and crossed to his future home in Illinois.

Special trains brought hundreds of visitors here for the ceremonies and many more came by automobile from Illinois, Kentucky and Ohio.

Citizen Swindled by Fake Property Tax Collector

Dominick Retti, 1144 Orleans street, reported to the police yesterday that he was swindled of $40 Saturday by a man who said he was a deputy county tax collector and threatened to foreclose on his property if the money was not paid.

HALF A MILLION MORE FILE FOR U. S. INCOME TAX; TOTAL 4 MILLION

Washington, D. C., May 6.—[Special.]—Four million people filed income tax returns last year, compared with less than 3½ millions in 1932, Commissioner of Internal Revenue Guy T. Helvering announced today.

The number of returns filed in Illinois increased from 281,591 in 1932 to 299,829 in 1933, Commissioner Helvering revealed. In spite of this increase Illinois dropped from second to fourth on the list of states. In 1932 only New York reported more income tax returns from individuals than Illinois, but in 1933 both Pennsylvania and California outranked Illinois.

The figures for other Chicagoland states are:

Indiana, 57,099 returns in 1932, and 66,851 in 1933; Wisconsin, 89,992 in 1932 and 97,805 in 1933; Michigan, 129,300 in 1932 and 135,790 in 1933; Iowa, 31,495 in 1932 and 45,477 in 1933.

These returns, which were filed in 1932 and 1933, were on 1931 and 1932 incomes respectively.

VETERAN GROUP URGES REVAMPING OF PENSION LAWS

New York, May 6.—(AP)—Repeal of all present veteran legislation, in order thoroughly to overhaul the federal pension system, was recommended in a report made public today by the American Veterans' association.

The report and recommendations, which followed a study of the last bonus bill, was made by a special committee of the association, headed by Roger Burlingame, and included veterans of the Spanish and world wars and the Philippine insurrection.

The last veterans' law was declared to be "as devoid of justice as any yet conceived."

SHERIF MEYERING TESTIFIES TODAY AT BAULER TRIAL

Will Tell of Shooting at N. Side Tavern.

Sherif William D. Meyering is slated to testify today in the trial of Ald. Mathias [Paddy] Bauler of the 43d ward for the shooting of Policeman John J. Ahearn. Assistant Sherif Frank Wright, who was wounded in the gunplay between Bauler and Ahearn, and Deputy Sherifs Joseph Merrion and Frank Faragoi, who were present, are also on the list of today's witnesses for the state.

Assistant State's Attorney Emmett Moynihan, in charge of the prosecution in the case, which is being heard by a jury in Judge Donald S. McKinlay's court, said the state would probably conclude presentation of its evidence today. Policeman Ahearn and his companions, Policeman Edward Hayes and Miss Mary Tyler, testified last week.

Meyering Sees Shooting.

"Sherif Meyering was on the sidewalk in front of Bauler's tavern at the time of the shooting," Mr. Moynihan said, "He saw the shooting. Faragoi pulled Meyering out of the line of fire. He had been between Bauler and Ahearn. Merrion saw the shooting of Ahearn as well as the shooting of Wright. Later he took Wright to a hospital.

"The defense claims there was a scuffle on the sidewalk but we expect to prove there was a lapse of time between the scuffle and the shooting."

Defense Attorney Benedict J. Short said Bauler will claim self-defense. The attorney waived an opening statement. Under the new practice act he may not make such a statement at the conclusion of the state's evidence, which was formerly the custom of some defense attorneys.

Outlines Defense Case.

"We expect to have testimony from some people who were in Bauler's place at the time of the shooting," Attorney Short said, "and some witnesses who were at the Christmas charity party given by Ald Bauler at the hall across the street before the shooting. Sherif Meyering and his party were at the benefit.

"Our witnesses will tell about the policemen kicking at the door of Bauler's place and demanding admittance and of the fight that began when Bauler ordered them away. They were in plain clothes and not on duty and had no right in the place. Ald. Bauler will show that he acted in self-defense."

ANOTHER N. YORK POLICEMAN SLAIN IN BANDIT FIGHT

New York, May 6.—(AP)—Another New York policeman died today from bullet wounds incurred in a gun battle with bandits, and the police department was spurred in its search for his slayers by angry comment from Mayor La Guardia.

"Make it unhealthy for bandits in New York," the mayor demanded, suggesting a revival of the old weekly "dragnet" for known criminals.

Lawrence Wood, 31, the officer who died, was the third member of the department slain within the last ten days. A blaze of gunfire greeted his effort to question the three suspected arsonists. Another officer was wounded as was a bystander.

The same day another trio of bandits killed an officer, wounded another policeman, and shot down a baby and two children.

CONVICTS KNOW SPRING IS HERE; TWO WALK AWAY

Two convicts felt the lure of spring weather last night and walked away from the honor farm at Joliet penitentiary. Chicago police were notified. The fugitives are Nicholas Skrynick, 31 years old, who was sent to prison from Du Page county in July, 1932, for a term of 1 to 20 years for automobile larceny, and C. A. Barnes, 34, who was committed last October from Platt county for a term of 1 to 14 years on a charge of forgery.

AN EXAMPLE TO ILLINOIS DEMOCRATS.

There are a number of men on the Democratic side in the house of representatives at Springfield who in their private belief are opposed to the state NRA, but Miss Mary Davidson, Democratic member from Carthage, is the only member of the party to hold her own political opinions in respect and show her independence by refusing consent to a bill she knows is bad for the state, hurtful to its citizens, and inconsistent with the principles of the party to which she belongs.

Miss Davidson is a better Democrat than those who have laid aside the principles not only of their party but of their country, principles in other times common to all Americans, to support an expedient already tried and found wanting.

Gov. Horner has decided that he must stay in line with the administration in Washington. He is determined now that the state must submit to policies laid down by various administrators who are themselves at sea and uncertain what to do next. It is often the case that when a man of public affairs has decided upon a course of action against his better judgment he develops a strong stubbornness of error. It would seem to be so with Gov. Horner now.

Legislators of the governor's own party must protect the state from the consequences. States which have their own NRA are discovering that it is full of mischief and injustice. Small fellows in independent business are prosecuted and severely punished, not because they are sweating children or grinding down employés or are dishonest, but because they are scratching for a living and trying to earn it as best they can in their shops.

It is a strange American philosophy which holds that these citizens may be arrested and sent to jail when they have done nothing contrary to any just law of the land. States which have opened their doors to federal invasion will regret it. If more Democrats in the Illinois legislature show the courage and independence of Miss Davidson Illinois will not make this surrender. It will remain free. It will not have this law to regret and repeal.

THE TWO-WAY MILLENNIUM.

If the reader does not watch his date lines he'll fall into error. It was not New York where the police put padlocks on grocery stores because the grocers charged too much. That was Rome. It was New York where thirty-nine tailors were summoned into the Commercial Frauds courts. They charged too little. The genius of government in Italy and in America agrees as to methods, but not as to purpose. One wants the prices down, the other wants them up. No doubt they are both right. Neither can be wrong.

In Italy the police will visit the citizen who marks his price tag up. In America the police will be on the doorstep of the man who marks his down. Both governments know precisely what they are doing and why and both are undoubtedly all-wise, although it is all very perplexing to the average run of men.

Mussolini should send the Italian grocers to the United States, where they would be in line, and our poor tailors should go to Italy, where they could conform.

CANADIAN KNIGHTS.

It may at times require some courage for reflective democracy to hold confidently to its convictions. Its faults appear and clamor. So often when it should be well served it is served poorly and so often with the apparent consent of the people injured. When it escapes mediocrity it finds perils in an unbalanced intelligentsia. Its politics produces experts who are not good public servants and when experts in other lines try their hands they have no sense of the highest political considerations. Nevertheless the courage of convictions is required.

True democracy is more than political. It is human. It is social. Its forms proceed from feelings as well as from thought. They reject caste and they reject dictation. Democratic progress has been human progress. It has raised the moral and spiritual stature of man. It is an elevation of the inner person and if sacrifices are required in affairs of government they must be made. Democracy rejects the cult of the superior person. If in that rejection it includes the able and dependable person the misfortune is considerable, but there is nothing unfortunate in the refusal to indulge citizens in fictitious distinctions by government fiat.

The persistence of social caste in British political democracy can draw upon historical explanations among a people whose genius for orderly conduct is only one indication of their traditional stratification. They have gone through revolutions without shaking off some of the decorations and devotions of feudalism. They would deny that it has kept them from having a real democracy, but Americans will assert that it has. There may be less, but there is still some truth in the witticism that dukes are to be contemplated, not criticized.

When Canada comes under this caste system of titled distinctions used as rewards for public service, ostensibly public, the break with better usages of democracy must be painful to many citizens of the dominion. They rejected the distinctions once but the present governing party decided to renew them. Recently the first investiture in fifteen years made twenty-two knights of various orders in Ottawa. The chief justice led off the list and, kneeling before the governor general, arose "Sir Lyman Poore Duff."

Our neighbor's business is our neighbor's business, but it may be predicted that Canadian democracy will again resent this reuniting with the shadow of the feudal system, a reunion designed, as it must be seen, to give Canadian citizens less worthy reasons for decisions affecting Canada in the British empire.

HELP FOR PUBLIC EDUCATION.

Friends of public education in Chicago and elsewhere will make every effort to obtain authorization from congress for loans by the Reconstruction Finance corporation to school systems whose revenues have been impaired by tax delinquencies. While there is much to be said against federal loans for local purposes, the fact remains that billions of dollars are being distributed among local governments for projects of dubious value. The theory is that the distribution of the money increases purchasing power and therefore serves the national interest.

Under these circumstances it cannot be said that loans for education create a precedent for federal aid to local governments and it certainly cannot be argued that loans such as that desired by the Chicago board of education are in any sense of dubious value. The money will move at once into channels of distribution. The security for the proposed Chicago loan is far better than has been offered for most of the federal aid advanced. Chicago offers as collateral not only its tax warrants but also millions of dollars' worth of real estate owned by the school board but not used for educational purposes. With the reduction in local government costs and the improvement in tax collections, the repayment of the money which is to be borrowed is hardly in question. Private lenders have been prevented from advancing the sums required because of uncertainty regarding the time when their money will be repaid, but that is a consideration of relatively small importance to the RFC.

The teachers and other employés of the Chicago school system have earned the money which the loan would give them. Such loans will keep schools open where otherwise they must close and will improve the morale of the teaching forces wherever salaries are in arrears. It is difficult to understand how a congress which has thrown money about without stint can withhold relief from the common schools.

THE PROFESSORS AND THE DEMOCRATS.

Mr. Bulwinkle's Democratic end of the Wirt committee reaches the conclusion briefly to be stated as "Yes, this is not a revolution; no, there is a brain trust." The conclusion is unsatisfactory to Mr. McGugin and Mr. Lehlbach, Republican members, and is puzzling to many citizens who do not like to distrust the word of so many important administrators saying that it is a revolution and that it has come to stay.

Mr. Roosevelt has gone no further than to say that if it is a revolution it is a peaceable one. Many of the administrators go further, advising the country to like what it's got because it will get more of it. Mr. Bulwinkle was able to prevent a general investigation of the new purposes of government, but little was hidden thereby. There is so much free-will testimony given on every speech-making occasion that there cannot be much mystery in the New Deal.

When the Fletcher-Rayburn stock exchange control bill was under consideration in the house of representatives, Mr. McGugin was able to point out its authors sitting in the gallery, Mr. Corcoran of the RFC and Mr. Cohen of the PWA, young intellectuals known to congress as two of Prof. Felix Frankfurter's Red Hots. Mr. Rayburn denies that they wrote the pending bill. They merely wrote the original one. They didn't write it. They only laid down its foundations and framed its walls.

The Democratic members of congress thought their party won the election. They must realize that they were mistaken. The professors won it. The Democratic congressmen can take a choice. They can be semi-animated statuary along the back drop or they can sing in the chorus, words and music by the professors. A party has often been licked when it lost an election. The Democrats of today were licked when they won. They are now bond servants.

Editorial of the Day

LIGHT FROM THE EAST.
[Daily Oklahoman, Oklahoma City.]

To meet a returned business man fresh from the eastern markets one year ago was a most depressing experience. And two years ago. And three. And four. Each and all of those who came back from the great market centers of the east had a single story to tell and that story was of a nature to create the direst misgivings.

All of those reports were of one tenor. The substance of all of them was that, serious as Oklahoma conditions were, conditions were infinitely worse on the Atlantic seaboard. Occasionally we heard that Oklahoma in comparison with the eastern states had hardly been touched by depression.

It is different today, and so happily different. Men and women bring back from eastern markets a story of confidence and reassurance and good cheer. Apparently the nightmare is ended. The easterners at least feel that it is ended. They rejoice in the unmistakable return of better conditions. They behold a future that is full of promise and they face that future with enthusiasm. A mighty change in economic circumstance and popular psychology has been wrought in a single year.

Whether credit for this apparent recovery is given to the President or to better world conditions or to the inherent power of American business to recover from its maladies is altogether beside the point. What interests all of us now is that most of us believe that the night is ended and the light of the dawn is upon us. It is enough to experience the thrill of feeling that depression's iron grip is broken and that we are emerging from economic bondage. The time for assigning credit for recovery will come in its own good time.

Meanwhile, there is thanksgiving for the symptoms of almost certain recovery. And there is gratitude for deliverance from the greatest evils our generation has known.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

YOUNG JOHN JACOB ASTOR III. is much distressed and airs his woes in public over the fact that the lady to whom he was engaged a year or two ago has not returned his engagement ring, although it was decided by all concerned some time ago that there would be no wedding bells. It is always considered bad form to demand back one's presents and causes vague hints of "Indian giver." However, young Mr. Astor says his ring is a family heirloom and is worth between one hundred and two hundred thousand dollars. And millionaires today, those who are left, prize considerably things valued at between one and two hundred thousand dollars. A millionaire could hock that ring at the pawnshop for enough to defer his trip to the poorhouse for quite a while. However, the point is again raised, should a gentleman demand that a lady return his engagement ring? Perhaps the only lesson to be learned from the sad case of young Mr. Astor would be that the ring should be bought on the installment plan. Then if the lady doesn't return the darned thing the gentleman could say to the jewelry company: "Don't expect me to pay any more installments on that ring. The lady has it and you'll have to get your money from her." In which case the lady would send the ring back in a hurry.

AFRAID.

Is spring as beautiful this year?
I grow afraid to look, my dear.

Afraid to look lest I should find
That something has been left behind;

Some loveliness of earth or skies
Which we have seen with lovers' eyes

In other springs. I could not bear
To gaze upon a May less fair.

Look forth upon the blossoming
And give me tidings of this spring.

My face is toward the winter snow;
I stare at frosts until I know

What you must say, until I learn
From your own lips that I may turn.

ADELAIDE LOVE.

AND ONE OF THE MINOR CALAMITIES caused by the Derby last Saturday was the inquiry, "Are you going to the Nudist races, too?" And the proper answer was: "Never heard of 'em. What is a Nudist race?" To which the waggish reply was: "Oh, that's where you go around in nothing." Dear, dear! Must such dreadful things happen?

THE GRAVEDIGGERS are reported on strike at a Chicago cemetery. Gravediggers ought to mind their step. Some day they won't have to quit their jobs because they won't have any. People will be wise enough then not to have expensive funerals and floral wreaths and meaningless eulogies and dolorous choirs singing "Shall We Meet Beyond the River?" because the dead will be quietly cremated. And then the mobs can't surge around the casket tearing each other's clothes off in a wild scramble to grab the lilies. And, anyhow, if I'm nicely cremated I know that the time will never come when horny handed men with spades will move my grave to dig a sewer.

"And Good in Everything."

Sir: Children should be taught the facts of life. How else are the poor kids going to know what the moving pictures are all about? FESTE.

"PRESENT DROUTH in Midwest Worst in Years."—Headline. What, even worse than it was in the Hoover administration, or the Coolidge or Harding days? It seems impossible! Wasn't AAA supposed to regulate all conditions relating to the farm? They plowed under the wheat, the cotton, and the little pigs. How come they don't provide sufficient rainfall? We pause for a reply.

NOW OFFHAND I would say that credit for the best joke sprung last week should go to Dr. Dodds, president of Princeton, who pulled this one: "The traditional American policy has been that government governs best which governs least." Ha, ha! Doc, that's a good one! Now wait; I've got one—now stop me if you've heard it!

"STOP SALE of Whisky in Miniature Bottles."—Headline. I don't think they ever sold any. Any one who has sampled the contents of those miniature bottles would say at a rough guess that the stuff might be either hair oil, tanning fluid, or kerosene. Certainly it could not have been whisky.

DAY IN SPRING.

This is no day to look at
From inside!
You must be out where frisky
Winds collide,

Where you can have the whole
Sky and the sun
Above you as you lift your Heels and run,

And all around you, earth—
The smell of it,
Still damp from rain!—the score
Of birds that flit

From branch to branch, the buds,
The bursting green!
Oh, this day must be felt
And heard and seen,

And part of it you will Take back with you.
Perhaps a song, perhaps
A dream or two.

FERRY ADAMS.

ANYHOW, I won five bucks on the Derby. Not so bad. I won it by not betting on a hunch. The dog I would have bet five plunks on isn't in yet. Well, as they say, five bucks is five bucks.

OLD MEN AND OPERATIONS.

MANY letters are received from elderly men which tell of symptoms caused by prostate disorders and which state that operation is not possible because of age. Some of these letters are from men who are just finishing half a century of life, and most of them relate to men who are not beyond three score and ten.

Assuming the statements that there are no reasons for not having an operation except age, and that the case calls for surgery, then failure to undergo operation is bad judgment. The writer has in mind two friends who have had the modern prostate operations within a year. The average age of these gentlemen is eighty years, one being somewhat over and the other somewhat younger than that age.

One, in addition to his prostate trouble, has had to be confined to his bed for several months on account of heart trouble besides having some serious tumors for which operation was done.

The other had an infection of the urinary tract, probably involving his kidney and causing a high fever. In this attack he had to have two nurses and a physician for two weeks.

Within a year of these serious experiences they had to have their prostates operated on. The elder was back at work within a month. He is a very busy man and, in spite of his operation and his age, he works long hours, carries large responsibilities, is active physically, and has time for some social diversion. The other is the head of a large commercial enterprise and functions actively as such. He now weighs more than he did ten years ago, stands as straight as an Indian, has pink cheeks, and looks as young as he did in the years immediately following the world war.

Probably not every man of eighty could have stood as much operating as they have, but their experiences go some distance toward proving that old men can stand more than they think they can. If a man 65 to 75 years of age cannot stand a prostate operation it is because of something besides his age. The fact is that old men have considerable capacity to withstand shock and to repair bodily injury. When an old man is in an automobile accident and breaks his leg we hear such remarks as, "He is too old for his bones to knit." Nevertheless, the bones grow together again very satisfactorily after fractures in elderly persons.

There is one fracture to which people of this age are subject which does not heal well, and that is a break in the thigh bone within the capsule of the hip joint. But that failure is due to causes other than age. The general run of fractures in the aged heal very satisfactorily, provided such complications as pneumonia do not develop.

Patience and willingness to bear suffering, fatigue, and frustration with equanimity are important elements in recovery from fracture and these qualities are more likely to be found in the elderly.

The tissues of the aged have a reasonable tendency to make bone. In fact, a rather overdeveloped propensity in this direction is responsible for some of the stiff joints and some of the crooks and twists of old people.

REDUCING.

B. P. writes:

1. I am 51 years old, 5 feet 6 inches tall. I have large hands and feet. I have reduced from 178 pounds to 148 pounds. How much more should I lose?

2. I exercise every morning, also take Epsom salts baths. Do you think it does any good?

3. What do you think of Turkish baths?

REPLY.

1. About 13 pounds to make your weight ideal, without clothing, for a woman of your height and age. Weight is somewhat dependent, however, on build, size of bones, and nationality.

2. Exercise is good enough in principle, but it generally leads to increase in appetite, and increased eating leads to increase in weight. Taking Epsom salts baths is a waste of raw material.

3. Turkish baths cause loss of weight, due principally to loss of water. The lost weight is apt to be regained when the subject reaches the water cooler. For most fat people dieting is the only satisfactory method of reducing. It calls for a diet to bring about loss of weight, and after that for a set of habits that will keep the weight where it should be. Where obesity is due to ductless gland disorder and to low metabolic rate a combination of medication, dieting, and new muscle habits is called for.

SWELLING EYELIDS.

Mrs. M. Y. C. writes: I was troubled with swelling, itching lids off and on for years. I consulted several doctors about it, and finally one said it was caused by too much protein. I dieted for several weeks, eliminating eggs, meats, and nuts from my diet. It helped me immediately. Now when my lids begin to itch I cut down on those items and have not been troubled seriously for several years. In some one else it might be cereals and breads which cause the trouble.

PAINS IN HEELS.

Nurse G. writes: For some time I have been taking care of an elderly man who was troubled with pain in his heels at night, causing him to lose a good deal of sleep. Recently he has had almost complete relief by wearing socks made of soft flannel, with the seams outside, and over those his felt bedroom slippers. In this way the pressure on the heels is relieved and he has been able to sleep in comfort. Some one else troubled with poor circulation may find this helpful.

SAFEGUARDING LOAN.

Chicago, May 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Two years ago I loaned A $3,000 on a small farm worth about $8,000. Being good friends, no mortgage was made. Recently he injured B with his auto and is being sued for damages. This farm is all A owns. 1. How can I protect my investment? A is willing to give me a mortgage for the $3,000 now. 2. If B gets a judgment on the farm would the mortgage be any good? 3. Can A lose everything, such as his auto, farm and household furnishings? K. R.

1. Have him give you a mortgage now.

2. Yes, if you can prove that it was for a valid debt as distinguished from being merely an attempt to defeat a creditor.

3. The homestead exemption on real estate is a $1,000 life interest. The personal property exemption to the head of a family is $400 worth.

INHERITANCE TAX.

Chicago, May 3.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please give me rate of state and [1] federal tax in [2] Illinois on estate of about $50,000 in stocks, bonds and real estate. 3. What basis is used for computing value of a house and lot for these taxes? 4. Can a man, given about three months to live, according to doctor's opinion, transfer at least a part of the above estate to four heirs? This would be necessary to prevent a forced sale of most of it at a sacrifice to meet inheritance taxes. J. H. B.

1. There would be no federal tax.

2. The state tax would depend on the size of the gifts and the degree of relationship to the deceased.

3. Appraisers would determine the fair market value.

4. Yes, as far as the bare facts are concerned. We advise the employment of an attorney. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

BROKER'S COMMISSIONS.

Quincy, Ill., May 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I saw an article in your column regarding commission of brokers, but have misplaced same. If I am correct, your information stated that a real estate broker's commissions were due at the date of the signing of the contract. I take it that he need not wait until the consummation of the deal. Are both parties to the contract liable whether such deal is consummated or not? P. H. B.

If, as is usually the case, the broker is employed simply to find a purchaser, then he has earned his commission when he has produced a purchaser ready and willing to buy at the stated terms. Of course, it would be possible for a broker to be employed on some other agreement, and, in any event, the agreement would control.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany.—The new German super-Zeppelin, the L. Z. 129, is nearing completion at the Zeppelin works here. Its builders claim that it will represent the last word in aerial safety, comfort, and luxury.

For the first time in the history of airships the L. Z. 129 will be equipped with crude oil Diesel engines, which will make the dirigible practically immune against fire hazards. Four motors, generating 1,200 horse power each, will give the air liner a cruising speed of 85 miles an hour, as against 80 of the old Graf Zeppelin.

Experiments are now being conducted with the new Diesel motor at Untertuerkheim. Confidence is expressed by Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Zeppelin dirigibles, that the engine tests will soon be successfully concluded.

The space allotted to passengers is four times as large as that of the Graf Zeppelin. The ship can accommodate 50 passengers in 25 double-bed cabins. Each cabin is equipped with hot and cold water. The used water is pumped into tanks and used as ballast. The crowning luxury is, of course, the smoking room, which is unique in the history of airship construction. It is fitted with a bar.

The bartender will have a wary eye on smokers who might possibly try to leave the room with a burning cigar in their hands. Automatically closing doors, with a corridor in between, shut off the smoking cabin from the rest of the ship.

A crew of 40 is accommodated as comfortably as the passengers on the Graf.

The new air liner will be equipped with a short wave and a long wave transmitter and facilities for wireless telephoning.

If the engine tests prove successful the ship will be ready for service in autumn. Together with its smaller sister, the Graf, it will operate between Friedrichshafen and South America.

Friend of the Insured

Des Moines, Ia., April 30.—[Friend of the Insured.]—What is meant by extended insurance? Do you consider this to be a very valuable feature of a life insurance policy? E. E. P.

This is a form of option providing protection on the term plan for the full face value of the policy, for that period of time which the cash will buy when used as a net single premium. Most policies provide another option called automatic extended insurance, which keeps the insurance in force automatically when a premium has not been paid. This option is a valuable asset to any policy in that the cash value is automatically applied on the premium, even though it is not sufficient to pay the entire annual premium, the cash value being credited on a pro rata basis.

There have been many instances where the insured, due to some accident or illness, or possibly due to forgetting about his premium when it came due, allowed his policy to lapse, but the automatic extended insurance feature kept the policy in force, and even though death occurred several years later but within the extended period of time, the full amount of the policy was paid.

THE GLORIES OF PARK FALLS.

Chicago, May 3.—In reading your reports of the Dillinger hunt I have several times noticed with astonishment that your correspondents are either trying to be funny or else they are demonstrating an abysmal ignorance of one of the most advanced and delightful spots in the whole world.

The effrontery of these cheap reporters in referring to the vicinity of Park Falls as being "the backwoods"! How do they get that way?

Park Falls leads in culture. They raise more culture to the acre in that vicinity than any part of the country. Park Falls leads in beauty. You can see more beauty in a dark night in Park Falls than you can in Chicago in the daytime. Park Falls leads in naturalness. In Park Falls they think that mascara is some kind of fruit.

Park Falls leads in truth. They only need one newspaper there to find out what is going on. They do not get six or seven versions, as they do in Chicago.

Park Falls is honest. They really believe that politicians are supposed to work for a living. You would hardly believe it, but the mayor drives his own car.

It is flattery to call those assassins of the English language "reporters"; they are libelists! Don't they know, as every one else does, that in Park Falls the flowers are larger, the skies are bluer, the sunshine brighter, and the moonshine stronger? INDIGNANT.

INSUFFICIENTLY SECRET.

Chicago, May 3.—Just a few days ago I read an article in THE TRIBUNE that there was a poor vote cast in the primary election. Why? Because the voters, I think, feel about it the same as I did when I went to the polls to vote on primary day the first time after I moved here from Milwaukee, where they have clean politics. I felt as though the clerk had slapped me in the face when he asked me what do I want to vote, Republican or Democrat? I told him it was none of his business; that I was voting a secret ballot. "Well," he said, "if you want to vote you will have to declare yourself." Well, you know what I told him? I told him to keep his ballot and go plumb to h——.

I stand on my constitutional right and vote only when I can cast a secret ballot. If my boss that I work for is a Democrat, and I want to vote Republican on primary day, I am checked by a clerk and the next day my boss and all next door neighbors know what I vote. Do you call that a secret ballot, I ask you? Something should be done about it if you want more votes in primaries. S. M. P.

THE BALANCE SHEET.

Chicago, May 3.—Once again in today's editorial, "The Balance Sheet," THE TRIBUNE either through ignorance or purposely seeks to mislead its readers.

It points with pride to the fact that the British balance sheet shows a substantial surplus, but it fails to state that in the British budget no provision was made for the American war debt.

Again, when the proposed income tax reduction is made in Britain and the contemplated boost is made here, the British tax rate will still be considerably higher than the American. It also failed to state that a married man in England with one child, and an income of $2,500 per year, must pay $125 income tax, while a man similarly situated here pays no income tax. Also England has made greater recovery because it felt the depression far less than America.

H. L. WARREN.

A FRIENDLY CITY.

Kansas City, Mo., May 3.—I am a traveler. More kindness has been shown me in Chicago than in any other city. "Love thy neighbor as thyself" seems to have sunk deeper into the soul in Chicago than elsewhere. A. N. KERR.

THE HYDE PARK COLLEGE.

Chicago, May 3.—The federal government appropriated funds for the establishment of the Hyde Park Junior college. It is the first college of its kind, being free to the students. It is an experiment to determine the value of such colleges. Any one who visits this experimental college and observes the work done by the students and listens to some of the lectures from the capable instructors will realize that the experimental stage has been passed and that the school is now on a very sound basis, being a model for the other schools that will be established in Chicago.

The importance of the Hyde Park Junior college cannot be overestimated. It is the first important development in many years directed towards the attainment of a higher intellectual level in America. It should be encouraged not only by the federal government but by the citizens of Chicago as well.

The cause is noble, the work well done. It should be encouraged by another appropriation by the federal government, so that it may continue again next year for the benefit of hundreds of students who will appreciate and profit by the opportunity. It is fervently hoped that the government will not fail the Hyde Park Junior college.

SHORTS ON THE TENNIS COURTS.

Chicago, May 4.—So we can't wear shorts on the tennis courts! Well, why not? We've listened to every reason given us and so far there isn't one that has an ounce of logic in it.

They aren't quite decent? We've yet to see a girl wearing shorts that didn't look considerably more comfortable, neater, and quite as respectable as one who wore a dress. We want to be able to move around freely on the courts and play a game that is a game, and no one who has ever tried playing in skirts will deny that they are a handicap.

Helen Wills didn't need shorts to win tennis championships? Perhaps she didn't. It takes some people a long time to adjust themselves to changes. In the recent western indoor tournament not only practically all the girls but a considerable number of men wore shorts.

There is nothing immodest about shorts. If any one wants to see legs, all they need do is go to a bathing beach if they object to paying money to see shows. We object to skirts flapping around our ankles—even around our knees. Why can't we have shorts?

COMPARATIVE TAXI FARES.

Chicago, May 3.—I saw the letter of J. R. Hoffman in today's TRIBUNE with reference to taxicab fares in Buffalo, N. Y.

Apparently Mr. Hoffman's memory is not very clear, because it just happens that the cab rate in Buffalo is 25 cents for the first one and one-half miles and 5 cents for each one-third mile thereafter and conducted in small cars.

As long as Mr. Hoffman was writing, it is certainly strange that he did not compare Chicago with New York, where the cab rate is very much higher than in Chicago, as they are now charging 20 cents for the first quarter mile and 20 cents per mile thereafter. That seems to me to be a reasonable cab rate for people in a large city like Chicago which covers so much territory.

THE NATIONAL LEAGUE DEFENDED.

Chicago, May 3.—May I inform the blatant American league fan, Mr. Hand, that he needs to go no further than the last world's series to see the answer to his outburst? The National league hopes it will not have to repeat last year's annihilation again this year.

FAIR VISITORS TO SEE ROMANCE OF WORLD'S ROADS

Exhibit Will Reproduce 19 Famous Lanes.

The romance of roads and the parts they have played in the progress of civilization will be shown at A Century of Progress this year. Duplicates of sections of nineteen famous highways are being built for the Ford exhibit, it was announced yesterday.

From the earliest roads — "The Street Called Straight" in Damascus, which is mentioned in the Bible, and the imperial roads of ancient China—the story of man's progress as his need for highways increases is carried through the middle ages to the modern concrete road. The surfaces of the roads will be built to exact detail and visitors to the Ford exhibit will be able to ride over them.

Roads of the Orient.

The imperial roads of China will be shown to have been constructed of stones of all shapes and sizes, uneven, badly spaced. It was said of these roads that they "are good for seven years and bad for the next 4,000."

"The Street Called Straight" was built of stone blocks with gravel between. Another exhibit is Watling street, an ancient English road, built in southern England in pre-Roman times and later rebuilt by the Romans. Portions of this road have been uncovered by excavation in recent years and are now part of the macadamized system of the Great North Road from London to the north of Scotland.

Reproduce Romans' Work.

The Appian way, begun by the Romans in 312 B. C., runs from Rome to Brindisi. This highway was built of freestone blocks, 18 inches square. Another Roman road to be shown is the Antioch-Bagdad road over which Caesar's legions once marched.

The Great Caravan route, a beaten track across the Sahara desert, is another part of the exhibit. This road has been traveled over for thousands of years and it is now lined with the white bones of millions of dead animals.

For centuries the marching feet of men and animals and the weight of wheels beat a path across India. This route is known as the Grand Trunk Road of India, and includes Khyber Pass, made famous in the prose and poetry of Rudyard Kipling.

Napoleon's Famous Road.

La Grande Corniche, the military road begun in France in 1806 by Napoleon for his passage to Italy, will also be shown. This road was surfaced with hand cracked stone. Other European roads are the Kleinpflaster pavement, a German highway of broken rock; the Belgian Block road, built of granite cubes; the Wood Block road, made of cross sections of trees laid on sand or gravel, which originated in eastern Europe, and the Route de Quarante Sous, built of asphalt and connecting Paris and Deauville.

The Lancaster Pike, the first metalled road in the United States, now a part of the Lincoln highway, is another exhibit. Sections of the Wilderness road, which was the trail marked by Daniel Boone into Kentucky in 1775, and an early brick road, first used in Ohio, are also shown. Cobble stone paving, introduced into Mexico by the Spanish Conquistadores, and used in many of the early streets in this country, will also be exhibited. The crowning achievement in highway building—the modern concrete road—is shown as the typical motor route.

The Streets of Shanghai, a part of the Chinese exhibit at the Fair, will be dedicated today. Robert Kah, Chinese consul in Chicago, and Rufus Dawes, president of the Fair, will be among the speakers.

OWNERS TO GIVE VIEWS TODAY ON TAXI ORDINANCE

Taxicab operators are expected to present their views on the proposed new rate ordinance today before a city council subcommittee which has agreed to recommend that meter rates be fixed at 15 cents for the first one-third mile and 10 cents for each additional two-thirds mile, with a charge of 5 cents for each extra passenger. The present rate is 15 cents a mile.

Opposition to other features of the ordinance, such as a city tax of 3 mills per mile on each cab, has been expressed privately by some of the operators. But, if the subcommittee members do not change their minds after hearing the operators, they will submit the ordinance to a joint session of the local transportation committee and the committee on trafic and public safety, and, if approved there, present it to the council on Wednesday

The sales-making power of THE NEW YORK TIMES – and of other newspapers as well – is now exactly measured for you – with new, accurate information on how to use it profitably and effectively.

If you want a greater share of New York's business, begin sales effort at New York's Top 4/10ths families. They compose a greater money-total market than the remaining 6/10ths . . . respond faster . . . buy more and buy more often . . . and can be economically reached and sold.

THE NEW YORK TIMES (weekdays or Sundays), carries an advertising message into the homes of New York's able-to-buy families – the Top 4/10ths – at lowest comparative cost. This fact, from the impartial, scientific Polk investigation, is of importance for advertisers interested in quick, satisfactory results.

Only home-effective circulation of newspapers is considered in this Consumer Census . . . circulation that the women buying-heads of families report comes regularly into the home.

On this true productive basis THE TIMES reaches the bulk of New York's Top 4/10ths homes at a lower cost, per home, than any other New York newspaper the weekday TIMES 15% lower than any other newspaper; 80% lower than the average of all. Figures for the Sunday TIMES are equally startling

These facts explain the unique power of THE TIMES in making sales and building business for advertisers – something long known, now measured, and proved to you!

It's worth immediate study

This Consumer Census shows how New Yorkers spend their money, the household equipment they own, the rents, the number and kind of automobiles they drive, their life insurance protection, preferred brands, and the prices for clothing. All these vital sales factors are cross-tabulated by the home-effective circulation of newspapers. They will help any advertiser to work more effectively and sell more economically, in the New York market.

We offer to place the findings of this Census before advertisers and agencies. Ask THE TIMES Advertising Department to arrange it at your convenience.

CAN YOU ANSWER THESE QUESTIONS ABOUT YOUR GREATEST MARKET?

What are the preferred brands of canned goods in the homes reached by each New York newspaper? Preferred soaps? Toothpastes? Breakfast foods?

How many families have no brand choice in your line, and are still to be sold a definite brand loyalty?

How do the prices of coats and dresses differ among New York City women reading each newspaper?

The Polk Consumer Census of New York contains the answers to these and thousands of other vital selling problems. Make it your guide in the nation's richest market.

Three Parties at Fair Opening to Lure Society

Colonial, Parisian, Mexican Events Announced.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WITH no fewer than three major attractions planned for the night of May 26 in celebration of the opening of the 1934 World's Fair, party-going Chicagoans are called upon to decide whether they want Parisian festivity, old Virginia charm, or Mexican gayety.

At tea at the home of Mrs. John Alden Carpenter last week it was announced that the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society would mark the opening of the Streets of Paris with a benefit ball either the evening of May 25 or May 26. Now the 26th has been definitly chosen and committees have gone to work.

In addition, this morning Benjamin H. Marshall is making the first announcement of a Martha Washington ball to be held the night of the 26th at Mount Vernon in the Colonial village, and Mrs. Hubert Burnham is telling the preliminary plans for a Mexican fiesta the same night in the Mexican village.

A word picture of the Martha Washington ball promises it will be a lovely, glamorous affair with the charm of old Virginia combined with the Puritanism of New England. All of the guests are to be asked to come in costumes in keeping with the character of the party which insures a striking array of Betsy Rosses, George Washingtons, Paul Reveres and Miles Standishes, to say nothing of the John and Priscilla Aldens. If any guest forgets about a costume, there will be one of cellophane awaiting him at the door.

Village Green to Be Center of Party.

The village green in front of Mount Vernon, that replica that has been built for the Fair this year by the Daughters of the American Revolution with the hope that their receipts will make possible a handsome Lincoln monument for Illinois, is to be the fc al point for the party. But it is a sure guess that the guests will want to ramble throughout the village, for it is to be completed by the 26th even to the last tree and flower.

At the far end, at the end of the "Meeting" street, as the main highway is to be called, will be the Old North church with the tower and two lights, then the House of Seven Gables, the Paul Revere house, the Wayside inn, the Virginia tavern, the birthplace of Washington and at least a half dozen more houses that have been authentically reproduced.

Thomas E. Tallmage, who has written several books on the colonial period in architecture and is a member of the Rockefeller staf for the restoration of Williamsburg in Virginia, has been the supervising architect for the village.

Mexican Fiesta to Be Rehersed Friday Night.

There will be a preview and rehersal of the Mexican fiesta to be held May 26 in the Mexican village Friday evening of this week at "A Night in Mexico" party at the Medical and Dental Arts building. Many of the Mexican entertainers already here from the southwest, a marimba band, and a host of brunette singers are all to be present to provide an air of romance and glamor. Mrs. Baur is interested in this party. And so are Mrs. R. Townsend McKeever, Mrs. Alexander H. Revell, Mrs. George B. Woodruff, Mrs. Carter H. Harrison, Mrs. Katherine Linn, and Mrs. Marco Androgna.

Five thousand—not one more—is the attendance deadline the directors of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society have set for their benefit ball the night of May 26 in the Streets of Paris. How to enforce this deadline—there were more than 7,000 at the Streets of Paris ball last year—is now their immediate concern.

"Since we are unable to throw the gates wide open," explained Chauncey McCormick, the society president, "and take in every one who will come clamoring that night, we have decided to send out invitations to the old friends of the Children's Home and Aid society.

"In addition to these patrons of our charity, we will welcome by arrangement as many Chicagoans as may be admitted. But it is not our idea to turn the evening into a mere money making plan. We want to preserve the atmosphere of a private ball

Nearly Score to Compete in Evanston Church.

Almost a score of church choirs in the Chicago area will assemble in Evanston tomorrow and Wednesday evenings to compete for prizes offered by the church and choral department of the school of music of Northwestern university, it was announced yesterday.

The contest will be held in the great hall of the First Methodist church, Hinman avenue and Church street, and will begin at 7:45 o'clock. The public is invited without admission charge.

Prominent Chicago musicians have been named as members of a jury which will decide the winning choirs. Each choir will appear three times before the jury and each will sing a selected hymn, a selected anthem, and another anthem to be chosen by the individual choir director. Gross percentages accumulated during the three performances will determine the final ranking.

The competition has been divided according to church membership, it was announced, to make the competition fair for churches with small memberships. Choirs composed of volunteer or paid singers or a combination of both are eligible, and the director may be either a professional or an amateur musician.

The church whose choir wins an award in any of the three classes, it was announced, will be permitted to select a member of college age to utilize the school of music scholarships, totaling $450, which are offered as awards.

The test anthems in class A, churches with memberships exceeding 500, will be "Open Our Eyes," McFarlane, and the hymn "The Church's One Foundation." Choirs from class B churches, membership 251 to 500, will render Woodward's "The Radiant Morn" and the hymn "From All That Dwell Beneath the Skies." In the class C churches, membership below 250, the choirs will sing "God So Loved the World," from Stainer's "Crucifixion," and the hymn "Faith of Our Fathers."

Stay Home with Children on May 15, Parents Urged

Chicago parents were asked yesterday to spend the evening of Tuesday, May 15, at home with their children as part of the observance of Youth week, designated as May 13 to 19. That particular day has been set aside as Youth's Day at Home. The appeal was issued by Mrs. Holland Flagler, president of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, one of the organizations sponsoring the day.

Front Views and Profiles
By June Provines

THE retort of a delightful Chicago woman whose hospitality to a visitor from other shores was unappreciated, judging from the thinly veiled account of it in the current number of a popular magazine, is being repeated with relish.

Retort—Honesty—Painting.

The visitor was taken by her host to one of the most beautiful houses in Lake Forest for Sunday night supper, to which the hostess, a charming looking woman with great elegance of taste, had asked some other friends she thought the visitor would enjoy meeting. The visitor—an English author—wrote an account of her American visit, and, in describing the Sunday evening in Lake Forest, sounds distinctly irritable. Mentioning that she twice had to refuse offers of assistance from a maid while she was dressing for dinner, and quoting her affirmative reply to her hostess who showed her to bedroom, sitting room and bath suite, that she was sure she could "manage," she writes:

"Looked at myself in three different mirrors and decide, rather ungenerously—that I am better looking than my hostess and on this nourishing reflection proceed downstairs.

"Hostess now waiting in the drawing room—has gone into mauve chiffon, a triple necklace of uncut amethysts and at least 16 amethyst bracelets. Do not think much of mauve chiffon, but am definitly envious of uncut amethysts and think to myself that they would look well on me. . . ."

THERE is more, not too appreciative of the evening, or of the guests. The attention of the hostess referred to was drawn to the article and she read it. Then, obviously recalling the rather long and attenuated profile of the visiting author, she commented with humor and amusing feminine malice:

"Well, I am surprised that a woman who looks so much like a horse could act so much like a cat!"

HONESTY is the best policy obviously is the slogan of the North Clark street hotel whose sign under the name of the hotel says in large letters: "MODERATE CONVENIENCES."

SEEING the article entitled "The Matisse Myth" in a current magazine brings to mind the story of "The Left Handed Matisse," one of the paintings by William Welsh now being exhibited in his one man show at the Tavern club. Mr. Welsh and John Holabird were discussing modern art one day and the artist said, with admirable clarity, that he thought it was lousy.

"What about Matisse?" asked Mr. Holabird.

"He's terrible," asserted Mr. Welsh.

"O, you think you could do a Matisse, I suppose," replied the architect.

"I think anybody who knows anything about painting at all could do a Matisse," stoutly affirmed the other.

"Well, why don't you do one then?" persisted Mr. Holabird.

"I'll tell you what I'll do. Next time I don't have anything important to do on a Sunday I'll paint you a Matisse that no one in the world but Matisse would know is not a Matisse. And furthermore," Mr. Welsh continued, "I'll do it with my left hand."

So he painted the Matisse and Mr. Holabird liked it so well it hangs in his home, from which it was removed for the Tavern exhibition. And there, my lambs, you may see it if you can get a Tavern club member to take you up.

Movie Players Announced for Exhibit at Fair

Hollywood Group Includes Chic Sale's Sister.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., May 6.—[Special.]—A group of motion picture players has been selected by the Thalians, organization of the younger actors and actresses, to represent Hollywood at the movie exhibit at A Century of Progress Exposition this summer. They will "show how the movies are made" and stage acts at the Hollywood-at-the-Fair exhibit. In charge of the group leaving to appear in their first performance May 27 are Arthur and Florence Lake, brother and sister stars, and Lincoln Stedman, Myrtle Stedman's son, who is president of the Thalians. Lake has been directing and supervising the group's rehersals here.

Others in the Chicago cast will be Virginia Sale, comedienne and Chic Sale's sister, from Champaign, Ill.; George Lewis, who was in many of "The Callegians" series and is now in "The Merry Widow"; Donald Dilloway; Mary Carr, beloved player of "mother" parts remembered from "Over the Hill"; and Mrs. Carr's two sons and daughter, Tom, Steven, and May Beth Carr; Claude Gillingwater Jr.; Francis X. Bushman Jr.; and Shirley Dempstead, who recently was in "Harold Teen" and "Wild Boys of the Road."

Participation of movie folk in any authorized capacity was not approved for Hollywood-at-the-Fair by the influential film producers last year, but the 1934 undertaking will be inaugurated with the magnates' opposition withdrawn.

Take it from a friend of William Wellman, director, Hollywood has had several untrue versions of a physical encounter between Wellman and Lee Tracy. This is Wellman's friend's version of what happened:

Both were in the locker room of Lakeside Country club. Both were feeling frolicsome. They began playfully jousting around. Tracy happened to pop one on one of Wellman's old injuries (Wellman was a war flyer and was cracked up). The pain caused Wellman momentarily to lose control of his good nature and he lashed one to Tracy's jaw.

Good nature returned as suddenly as it had departed, according to this friend of Wellman. As for Tracy's lying abed later and departing for Palm Springs, they were due simply to a recurrence of a bronchial ailment.

Greta Garbo sneaked into the Westwood village preview of "Murder at the Vanities," picture recently completed by a rival studio. She went to see how Carl Brisson, Danish actor, singer, and ex-boxer, did in his American film debut. Her blue glasses, brogans, and knowledge of side entrances enabled Garbo to evade photographers on the way out. Everybody else in the Hollywood Scandinavian colony was at the preview, Brisson being a favorite with all the Hollywood Danes, Norwegians, Swedes, and Finns.

Mrs. Hattie Margolis, who first sued Paul Muni for $9,000 for damage allegedly done to her oriental rugs and furniture during Muni's lease on her home, has filed an amended complaint raising the ante to $35,000 claimed. Muni's dogs damaged her valuables, including a rug once belonging to Sultan Abdul Hamid II., she charged.

The first award and findings handed down by the motion picture code authorities grievance board here directed the National Soldiers' home at Sawtelle, a suburb, to desist at once from permitting the public to attend free showings of movies which are lent to the home by the studios as a favor to war veterans. Movie houses in the neighborhood had protested.

House Coats Can Be Worn to Beaches

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The designers are tailoring cotton house coats that can also be used for trim beach coats—tailoring them with long suave lines, and clever collars that will hug the back of your neck.

Two pockets are patched to the hipline sectors and the printed patterns or designs are small, terrifically smart and easy to wear in or out of doors. Some big squares come in bright colors of red, blue, and other equally effective "white and" get togethers.

Crinkled seersucker stuff has burst into print with color contrasts that are eye filling, but they are just what you want for a hot summer morning, as they are coolest looking things in town. They stand washing well and do not require ironing. The moderate price tags will delight you.

Look for them in red and navy, plaids, some tan and brown, and some green numbers that are as crisp and fresh as an ice cream soda.

If the tailored models do not please, you will find some very decorative dotted swiss negligees made with rows of ruffles around the shoulders and a ribbon sash. They are long and feminine, the dots being pin specks for size. Cherry red, madonna blue and a few other pastel shades are available, with sashes of the same shade as the dots.

The fashion photograph offers smart dramatics in black and white. . . from a new collection of exciting summer ensembles. The dress is black crêpe with a snappy short jacket of novelty weave cotton, with a black and white squared gilet and tie in front. A very different white fabric hat competes with a white handbag and white sandals for summer chic.

Good Morning!

It has several unusual plot twists, sufficient suspense and a laugh here and there for good measure. Its drawbacks lie in a stupid ending and in the scenario writer's unfamiliarity with audience psychology. Certainly no woman who views the film will be pleased with what happens to Paul Lukas, who glows romantically through two-thirds of the action, and then goes out—pss-ft—like a sky rocket.

The heroine is a little extra girl whose newspaper reporter lover has told her all must end. He's out of a job and refuses to ask her to share what he hasn't got.

In a daze, the lady, accompanied by a sister extra, drives off in a studio car and a studio fur coat. Studio luggage in the back bears the inscription—Countess of Monte Cristo. . . .

The two pull up at a winter sports hotel. . . .

Enough of the story.

Miss Wray and Mr. Lukas are excellent in the straight leads. Reginald Owen does some neat turns as the affable crook—a magician of sorts who causes sumptuous raiment to bloom in Miss Wray's bare closets, and ducats to load her purse. Patsy Kelly is funny as the muddled accompanying extra. Supporting players are able.

Sets, scenery, and photography please. Dialog is far from bad. The newspaper office scenes are nerts.

All in all, however, I'd say that "The Countess of Monte Cristo" has considerable audience appeal.

See you tomorrow.

SYNOPSIS.

Dorinda Quarles is found stabbed to death after a dinner party in her Paris apartment Unscrupulous, Dorinda had served a drug to her fourteen guests. Helen Roderick, who was a friend of Dorinda's mother, Lady Agatha, discovers the crime early next morning, and all the guests, except Dinah Blake, young American artist, lying about in deep sleep. Tommy Rostetter, a journalist, was Dinah's dinner partner. Dinah's engagement to Christopher Loughton, in the American embassy, was, according to rumor, broken on account of Dorinda. Dinah returns two days later, her memory a blank, to the apartment she shares with her cousin, Hallie Pemberton. She had been sleeping in the studio of absent friends. Tommy persuades her to pretend an engagement to him, to prevent a jealousy motive. Basil Jethro, Dorinda's stepfather, celebrated Oxford scholar, was her guardian and trustee. Tommy suspects Jethro and searches for proof. Bannister Mowbray, one of the fatal dinner guests, commits suicide. Tommy confides to Loughton his suspicion of Jethro. Loughton volunteers to go to London for further investigations. He meets Rank Rostetter. Tommy's nephew, who is attending Oxford. Rank has a friend, Bilfilian, who claims, while on a vacation in Paris, he saw Jethro in a Montmartre dive. Tommy believes that Jethro registered as two persons in the Stanislas hotel, where he stopped the night of the murder, one in disguise, as Jethro had not been seen leaving the hotel. A Dr. Klauber from Prague had the room next to Jethro's. Jethro learns of Tommy's inquiries. When Loughton returns from London Tommy has disappeared and Dinah has been arrested for murder. Their engagement has been discovered to be a hoax. A reconstruction of the crime is held to try to force a confession from Dinah.

INSTALMENT XLIX.
BELIEVED GUILTY.

The orange shaded candelabra poured their mellow light upon snowy napery and engraved crystal. In the center of the board was a dish heaped high with fruit. Benedetto put the chairs in their places and stood aside, awaiting commands.

In a corner of the room the inspector and the judge d'instruction were holding a whispered conference. They had just received a statement signed by two eminent physicians to the effect that Ronald Cleeves was quite unfit to be present. Already three police supernumeraries had been commandeered to replace those of the fourteen who were missing—the victim, Mowbray, and Rostetter. Now another gap must be filled—but by whom? The inspector, following a message telephoned from the neighboring commissariat, was disinclined to borrow either of the two sergeants now stationed outside the entrance.

"I warn you, monsieur," he said in a low voice, "if that American fellow gets in we shall have trouble with him."

"Have it your own way," broke in the judge testily. "I'll find some one, only let's get on with it."

He signaled to the butler and withdrew towards the window curtains. The inspector joined him and the two, with suppressed excitement, watched the guests file into the dining room. All looked conscious and uncomfortable, a little like convicts under guard, but on each face was written a certain degree of relief.

Dead silence as Dinah appeared, her eyes staring straight before her out of a white face framed in mahogany red hair, the flounces of her green tulle frock billowing about her small figure. Behind her hovered a wardress, while from the archway to the hall a group of privileged onlookers, chief among

"So it was you I saw!" she exclaimed, as though speaking her thoughts aloud. "I passed you as I went out the door."

As the order was obeyed the vacancy beside the prisoner became apparent. A murmur ran around. Thirteen again. The three sergeants who were deputizing for the hostess, Bannister Mowbray, and Cleeves, glanced curiously at their superior officer, who was whispering to some one in the other room. Presently a tall figure detached himself from the distant group, came forward, and with a matter of fact air slipped unobtrusively into Rostetter's seat. It was Basil Jethro.

Out of the shadows the judge's voice instructed them to converse naturally, choosing if possible the topics discussed on the evening of Sept. 30. The nine free persons sat dubious, tongue-tied, till Cicely Gault's derisive laugh drew shocked attention towards her, but broke the paralyzing spell. Sporadic chatter flared up, died down, now and then leaving vast deserts of silence. Against the curtains the pair of lynx eyed Frenchmen studied the faces sharply. Gramont held a watch in his hand, and from time to time referred to a notebook.

Dinah heard nothing. From early morning she had passed through a succession of such crushing experiences that her brain had almost ceased to function. The deep lying horror within her had little to do with the fact that those surrounding her believed her guilty of murder. Things had happened to her which in her worst nightmare she would not have thought possible. To be locked in a prison cell was something which would not, because it simply could not, occur . . . yet it had occurred. She would be tried before a jury and a full courtroom, and even then, whatever the verdict, she would still know no more than she knew at this moment.

Was she a murderess? With Tommy to lean upon she had managed to shut her ears to this persistent question, but now that support was taken from her—how, why was another stupefying puzzle which increased her mental confusion—she wondered why she did not rise up, declare she had stabbed Dorinda in a fit of jealous rage, and have done with the mockery. As they were sure to get her in the end it would save a great deal of trouble, but she lacked energy to take any active step. She was like a rock sunk at the bottom of a stream, waiting for some current strong enough to dislodge it. Meanwhile she must continue to endure.

Who was this seated beside her? O, yes—Basil Jethro. She had never seen him nor did she feel the slightest curiosity to glance in his direction.

A dish of fruit prodded her arm. She roused to see, directly under her eyes, a bone handled dirk—a new knife, which caused her no emotion.

"Mademoiselle," said a voice at her elbow, "the witnesses state that you examine this knife very closely. Show us exactly what you did."

She picked up the dirk and turned it about dully in her hands. From the right a man's slender hand reached out and took it from her. She heard as from afar off Soukine's gentle voice murmuring, "Be careful, it is very sharp." No one, least of all herself, realized that this was not what the painter had said on the former occasion. She sank again into a blurred revery.

Biscuits? What were they for?

"If I were you I would not take any of this. It may have a bad effect on you."

She had not heard the whispered promptings from behind which had led to this formal, parrotlike repetition. She did, however, start at the sound of a man's totally unfamiliar voice, and turn to gaze straight into the eyes of her left hand neighbor, Basil Jethro. A gasp of astonishment escaped her.

"So it was you I saw!" she exclaimed, as though speaking her thoughts aloud. "I passed by you as I went out the door."

Why this electric tension, eyes, eyes, protruding at her out of tense faces? The judge had drawn near to bend down and examine her expression. She caught Jethro's politely puzzled interrogation of "I beg your pardon?" followed by a suggestion thrown over his shoulder, "perhaps it might be as well to ask the lady what she means."

"Mademoiselle," hissed the judge sharply, "when did you see this gentleman? What door was it? Where?"

"At the Baroness Waldheim's reception," she answered simply. "The cloakroom door. I didn't know who he was then."

A woman giggled. The atmosphere, an instant ago charged with breathless expectancy, broke up into stirrings and comprehending nods. Gramont gave a brusque grunt and pointed to the plate of biscuits in front of the prisoner.

"That," he said, "represents the drug. Take one. Pretend it is your allotted portion. Now! What did you do with it? Don't fumble, answer quickly. Did you eat it, or——" His eyes bored into her. "Did you drop it into your companion's pocket?"

The idea that she had eaten none of the drug but concealed it had been so driven into her brain that morning that now she almost believed what this bully had told her was fact. She wavered, on the brink of falling in with the suggestion, but within her she felt faint stirrings of her old spirit.

"I ate it," she replied, and helped herself to a round, dry biscuit.

"All of it?"

"Yes, all. Why do you want me to tell a lie about it?"

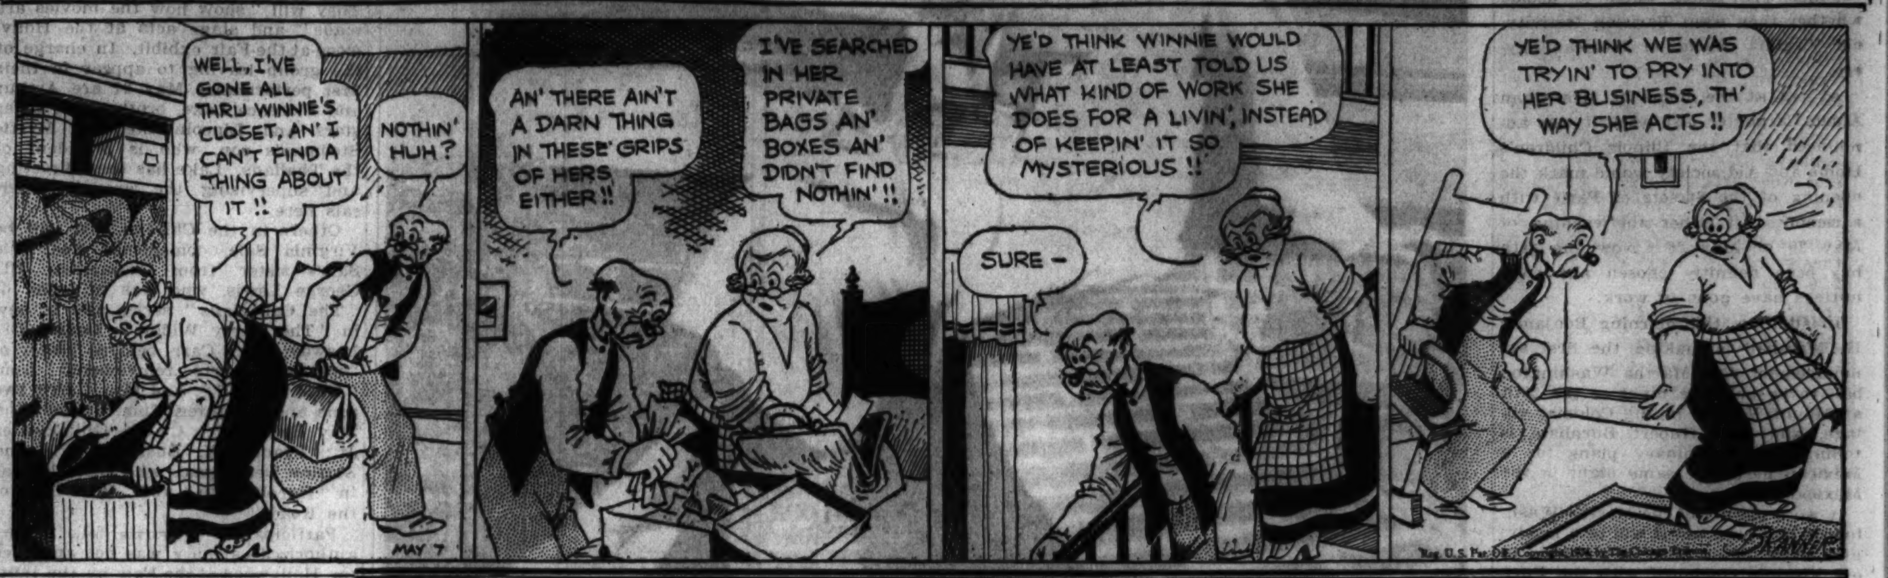
GASOLINE ALLEY—CATCH ME FIRST

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: If Once You Don't Succeed, Pry, Pry Again



CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

ADAPT YOURSELF TO YOUR ACTUAL PARTNERSHIP.

Though I believe in the precise and methodical bidding of powerful hands on constructive lines, I have learned from long experience to take into consideration the innate characteristics of different partners with whose tendencies I am thoroughly familiar and to adapt my bidding accordingly.

When You Play Against Me You May Call Me Inconsistent.

I hope that many who read these articles will become tournament addicts, and that they may give me the pleasure of meeting them and playing against them in duplicate games for club, state, sectional or national championships. You may on such occasions find that when my partner has opened with two no trumps I have responded with only three in my suit, although that suit was of five cards headed by two of the top three honors and the hand contained a clear primary trick besides.

With a sensitive, responsive partner who will not miss any subsequent inferences, I like to save a round of bidding at this stage and make my jump bid or bids later, as thus I allow for my partner's hand being of the one suited type of two no trumper. This is also a wise safeguard if your partner has a tendency to bid two no trumps on slightly weaker hands than I have advised. There are some players who never rid themselves of the fear that their partner will pass out a game hand and who, therefore, cannot help shading the requirements for this bid, to some extent unconsciously and always with the best intentions. When the partner rebids the minimum three no trumps over your bid of three in the suit, you can now make the mild slam try of four no trumps with the satisfaction of feeling that there is a safety margin in your eventual contract, inasmuch as you have underbid your hand slightly and thus allowed your partner some leeway for his opening bid.

When Your Partner Tends to Timidity.

On the other hand, when your partner's tendency is toward extreme caution or pessimism so that he is always fearing the worst and dreading a double in high contracts, you may expect his opening two no trump bid to meet in full measure every requirement that I have laid down and you may also have reason to fear that he will undervalue the support you bring him unless you are somewhat dictatorial in driving the bidding forward and upward. In these circumstances, make your immediate jump raise on the lines advocated in the last few articles. Leave your partner no room for doubt or hesitation when your hand justifies the immediate jump takeout and you have reason to fear that an eventual loss is more likely to result from too low a contract than from optimism regarding slams.

Let My System Be Your Servant.

System is no substitute for judgment. In my own game I have a horror of rigidity and wooden submissiveness to textbook tyranny when there may be some advantage to be derived from introducing a little elasticity into the situation. I want you to do the same. Take the standards I have given for these responses to two no trumps as the normal ones by which slam or near slam hands can be safely and reasonably bid as an operating unit of twenty-six cards toward or to a slam. If you feel you have reason to shade them on the conservative side to allow for a partner's weakness in bidding or play, the system will still serve you and work for you faithfully. You are the navigator, the ship's master on the bridge—not the figurehead on the prow.

Three Parties at Fair Opening to Lure Society

Colonial, Parisian, Mexican Events Announced.

as much as possible. For that reason no one will be admitted who does not come with an invitation."

Invitations for this party, which cost $5 and include admittance for one person to the World's Fair and the Streets of Paris [not food], are to be mailed out this week from the newly opened office of the society at 946 North Michigan avenue. Mrs. John V. Farwell III., Mrs. J. Aldis Browne, and Mrs. Chauncey B. Blair have been made the office managers.

Mrs. Chauncey McCormick and Mrs. Francis Johnson are co-chairmen of tables for the ball, the publicity is being handled by Mrs. Eames MacVeagh and Mrs. Orville J. Taylor, and Mrs. Jacob Baur is the ticket chairman.

The British consul general, Lewis Bernays and Mrs. Bernays and several other prominent folk will be making a trip down to the Fair grounds tomorrow afternoon for the official ceremonies that are to open the Globe theater in Old England. The time is 2:30 o'clock.

Junior League Elects New Officers Today.

The Saddle and Cycle club will be the scene today of the annual meeting, luncheon and election of officers of the Junior league. Two hundred or more of the town's smartest yet hardest working society girls and matrons will attend the meeting.

A smaller but equally fashionable group of women will lunch together at the Casino at 1 o'clock today at the annual business luncheon of the Farmington Alumnae society. Miss Louise Dewey is president of the alumnae—her mother, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, was educated at Farmington, too—and Miss Barbara Eldridge is vice president. Other officers include Mrs. Ezra Warner Jr., Mrs. Gordon P. Kelley and Miss Betty Smith. Among the older members of the Farmington alumnae are Mrs. Charles Garfield King, Mrs. A. Watson Armour, Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes, Mrs. Philip Shumway, and Mrs. Alden B. Swift, whose daughter, Lydia, also attended the school. Miss Peggy Hixon and Miss Louise Forgan are among the most recent additions to the alumnae, and Miss Gwendolyn Bowen, the junior Joseph T. Bowens' daughter, and Miss Mary Wood, Gen. and Mrs. Robert E. Woods' daughter, are there now.

Italy-America Juniors to Have Dinner Tomorrow.

At 7 o'clock tomorrow night eight young women will be dining in a new Italian restaurant, chattering Italian among themselves. They are the junior members of the Italy-America society, and call themselves the Giovinezza. Dr. and Mrs. William D. Cutters' three charming daughters, the Misses Katherine, Dickie, and Margot Cutter, form the nucleus of the group. The other members are Miss Betty and Miss Eleanor Coit, Mrs. A. Merrill Coit's daughters; Miss Mollie Brown, daughter of Col. and Mrs. George C. Marshall, who speaks Italian with a delightful southern accent; Mrs. Norman Johnson and Miss Elizabeth Hoffman.

The Cutter girls and Mrs. Johnson were in school together in Florence a few years ago when Mrs. Johnson was Edith Thomas. Her wedding to the son of the William B. Johnsons of Evanston took place last December in Greenwich, and Miss Margot Cutter was the honor maid. The Misses Coit have lived abroad a good deal with their mother, and Miss Brown, too, attended school in Italy.

Miss Brown and her mother and stepfather and brother, Clifton Brown, arrived in Chicago from the south last November when Col. Marshall was made head instructor of the 33d division of the National Guard. Mrs. Marshall and Miss Brown will go east about June 15 to spend the summer on Long Island, and in the fall Miss Brown will have a trip around the world, if all goes as planned.

Mrs. William A. Edwards, only sister of the late President William Taft, is arriving in Chicago this morning for a 24 hour visit with her good friends, Mr. and Mrs. Carter H. Harrison. Three months ago Dr. Edwards' death in California came as a great shock to his family and many friends. Mrs. Edwards has now decided to spend the summer in the east with the Tafts, among them the former President's sons, who live in Cincinnati, and her brother, Henry Taft, whose home is in Connecticut. Mrs. Harrison will take Mrs. Edwards on a preview of the Fair today, ending up with luncheon with Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes at the Administration building.

With all of the resourcefulness and courage that has filled her life with happy satisfaction, Mrs. Stephen Garretson Browning, 97 years old, is back at the apartment of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Loesch, in the Drake recuperating from the appendectomy she sustained Easter Sunday at St. Luke's hospital. "She is getting along beautifully," Mrs. Loesch reports, "and is hoping that we may all get off to Cooperstown early in June."

Mrs. Russell P. Kelley and her children, who have been spending the winter in Sarasota, Fla., with her parents, the Stanley Fields, are arriving at home in Lake Forest today. The Fields are also expected at home this week.

Howard Elting Off to the East Today.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Elting, who have been here at the Ambassador for a few days on their way from Santa Barbara to their farm in Ulster county, N. Y., are leaving today for the east. They are anxious to see their son, Howard Jr., and his wife and baby, who are spending his two months' leave from his post as vice consul in Istanbul, Turkey, in New Rochelle.

Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler and her daughter, Miss Winifred Wheeler, who have been on a cruise through the south seas, landed in New York last Wednesday. They reached Chicago Saturday.

Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, Mrs. Frank B. Mulford, Mrs. Arthur Meeker, and Mrs. George Rasmussen, as well as the consuls of several nations, have taken seats for the Polish Symphony concert, sponsored by the Polish Arts club and the Polish consul general, Titus Zbyszewski, tonight at Orchestra hall. The concert is being given for Ignacy Moscicki, son of the president, who is in Chicago visiting. Jerzy Bojanowski, formerly of Warsaw, will conduct.

The Renaissance society of the University of Chicago is opening a historical exhibition of bookbinding today in Wieboldt hall, 1050 East 59th street. The show will be open to the public from 2 until 5 o'clock every day until May 20.

It's Orchestra hall, not the Blackstone theater, in which Fray and Braggiotti, the internationally famous piano team, will perform the evening of May 17 for the benefit of Emerson house. The publicity chairman for the Emerson board made the mistake in giving out the new plans for the concert last Friday.

Victor Eltings to Pass the Summer in Chicago.

It is with pleasure that Chicagoans have learned that Mr. and Mrs. Victor Elting [Helen Stanley] will live in Chicago this summer. They recently spent a few days with Mrs. Elting's parents, the W. Edwin Stanleys, and are returning here again from their Cedar Rapids, Ia., home in a week or so to decide on a place to live, either on the north side or in the suburbs.

The Stanley's younger daughter, Miss Barbara Stanley, will be graduated from St. Timothy's in June and will visit friends in the east, later joining her parents at their summer home in Desbarats, Ont. She will not make her debut in the fall, but will have another year of study, perhaps in Europe, before being presented to society.

The Mitchell D. Follansbees' son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Helmuth von Erffa, hop around so much from one part of Europe to another that it is difficult for the Follansbees to keep track of them. However, Mrs. von Erffa is in Greece now and will join her husband shortly either in Cairo or in Spain and go with him to his place, Castle Ahorn, in Saxe-Coburg, to spend the summer there. The Follansbees will go to their Michigan home as usual for the summer.

The Averill Tildens and their son, Baylies, returned recently to Winnetka from a three weeks' visit with Mrs. Tilden's father, former Judge R. M. Baylies, who lives at Hollywood. Their daughter, Ruth, who attends Bishop school at La Jolla, will be graduated this June at the same time that the Tildens will be going east to see another daughter, Miss Harriet Tilden, graduated from Vassar.

Mrs. Edward C. Crossett, who is back from a winter in California, will be leaving in about a month for her summer place at Wianno, Mass. The three daughters of the family, Miss Carolyn Crossett, Mrs. John Mothershead of Boston, and Mrs. Edward S. French of Crossett, Ark., each will spend at least a part of the summer with their mother and father at Wianno.

Parisiennes Wear Flowers in Summer Chapeaux, Frocks and in Their Hair

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Gardens are not the only ones to wear flowers this summer. Women are wearing garlands of posies around their summer hats, putting bouquets at the belts of their summer frocks, and sometimes even sticking a flower in the hair with evening dress.

For a long decade we haven't felt romantic enough to carry flower trimmed hats. Today, however, some of the allure of romance has come back, and women, sensing it, feel right in the new hats that are laden with blossoms.

The evening hat that is gay with varicolored flower garlands is shown at the top of our sketch. It is a favorite in Paris and comes from Suzanne Talbot, who makes it of black tulle and puts a flaring face veil on it.

At the bottom is a beautiful Maria Guy model of transparent pastel pink straw with the wide brim tilted way over the face in front and turned up and split at the back. It is trimmed with a garland of pink roses.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., May 6. — [Special.] — President and Mrs. Roosevelt were joined last evening in the White House by the former's mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt. She accompanied Mrs. Roosevelt to the morning service in St. Thomas church today.

Mrs. Roosevelt had a small company, as is customary, at supper tonight in the White House and left at midnight for New York, where she will be for the remainder of the week.

Attorney General and Mrs. Cummings entertained at dinner tonight in their suburban home Ruthven in compliment to their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Bacheller of New York, who are on their way home from their winter place at Winter Park, Fla.

The secretary of the treasury and Mrs. Morgenthau, who were in New York yesterday for the funeral of former Secretary Woodin, are spending the week-end there.

The secretary of agriculture, Henry A. Wallace, and his sister, Mme. Bruggeman, are motoring through Virginia over the week-end after a visit to their mother, Mrs. Henry C. Wallace, in Des Moines, Ia. Mme. Bruggeman will leave for New York immediately after their return here tomorrow and sail to join her husband in Europe.

This Is Season for Femininity and Its Appeal

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It's your year, girls! Cash in on it for all you are worth. If you can't garner strong eye-appeal unto yourselves this summer, there must be something radically wrong. Your feminine soul must be dying of some strange malady. Even so, for its sake, look about and see the magic aids on every hand to give it new life.

We may not have another so-becoming season again for a long time, what with styles jumping crazily from one thing to another every year. Who knows but the next summer there won't be any of those fascinating cartwheel chapeaux. There may be none of the washable evening things that this season presents in such ravishing form. There may be none of the brilliant sports plumage. Anyway, this is your year to capitalize 100 per cent on the girl-appeal stuff.

From toe to crown this season, everything carries a banner shouting: "Look at me. Am I not a gorgeous eyeful?" Make every little trick of allure pay you toll.

If the waist line is crowding you a bit, now is the easiest time of year to reduce it. You can live on salad dishes at noon each day. You can get along for a couple of weeks without your usual starch food quota, and you can get up a few minutes earlier these bright mornings and give said waist line a bit of exercise punishment, jumping immediately into your tub for your cold shower. You can take with you the scent of a delicate flower with perfumed bath salts and dusting powders and the like. Make it the cleanest, crispest year you've ever known, with those collars and cuffs and fancy jabots, next to your person, as your best ad.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

First rumbles of the growing gift excitement over Mother's day: The new sachet bags that make their official debut in some Chicago shops today. They're cunning things, packed six in a box and each in a jaunty cream jacket with a familiar design in red. The sachet itself is really more than that. It's compressed lavender blossoms, its English makers would have you know, and its fragrance lasts for months and months.

Each bag is small and flat and dangles from a cord, an ideal arrangement for slipping them over the hooks of coat and dress hangers. The mater can tuck them into drawers or glove boxes, into her purse—or she can even wear one! Lots of women do, you know, and these flat, sweet smelling trinkets adapt themselves well to the feminine trick of tacking a sachet bag into a coat lining or inside a frock.

Also for Mother's day: If she's the least bit frivolous she'll adore it; if she's too much the other way, pay her the subtle compliment of pretending that she's a pretty gay girl with a place in her heart for feminine fripperies.

Hand her, next Sunday, a little peach and blue bonnet box tied with a perky blue bow. Inside are three cut crystal bottles of perfume, each scent an exciting one. It isnt expensive, and it might be a perfect gift thought, especially if your mother, like most modern ones, doesn't like to be relegated completely to the modes and manners of an obviously older generation. You'll find this pretty bonnet box of perfumes in several department stores.

BY MARY MEADE.

I don't care how much of a flag waver you are about your great juicy steak and the jolly old roast beef. And you may sing pæans to fat fowl or rhapsodies to the legs of lambs, with me as a willing booster. But, just the same, there do come times in the march of the meals when it seems that there is nothing that would be quite so appropriate and tempting as a meatless meal. And those occasions are the times I would speak about.

First and foremost, don't let them be "bird bath" vegetables. No excess juice at all has a right to come to the plate with a vegetable if it's going to go visiting the other foods on the plate, starting trouble. Melted butter is the ticket for anointing the top of almost any hot vegetable I know, with plenty of salt and pepper for zest. And it will take little extra time and just average skill to consider your menus for color schemes, and mentally taste them for interesting contrasts in textures as well as in flavors.

Likewise, meatless dinners often are best if we can serve them all from the kitchen, where each food can continue to stay hot in the oven and additional salad keep chilly in the refrigerator. Main dish, vegetables, salad, and often relish will all go on this one main plate, and just think of the dishes you won't have to wash!

So here, quickly, are a few menus I've enjoyed on days when meat took a meal off:

They're Weary of Being Asked About Marriage

BY DORIS BLAKE.

They are each 25 years of age and say they cannot afford to marry because of the depression. They haven't a dollar to their names, nor a stick of furniture, nor a piece of linen; nothing, in fact, for the new home. But the lack of money and possessions is not what bothers the pair. It's the query so frequently put to them: "Why don't you two get married?"

"The queer part of it is," the girl adds, "that those who ask us are always grumbling about how hard it is to get along, how difficult to keep well dressed, keep the children properly nourished, and take in a show once in a while."

The girl thinks she detects a note of insinuation in the voices of some of her "why-don't-you-two-get married" questioners. And she doesn't like it. She thinks the world ought to be informed, the inquiring friends particularly, that it is possible for two clean-minded, decent people to keep on being decent even though they are in no financial position to marry.

The world is already well aware of the fact that decent folk can go on forever maintaining the highest moral code. Inquiring friends are equally capable of understanding decent people. So the mental discord is not there. It is with the young couple themselves, reading insinuations into a perfectly normal question. To put it more concretely, it is the girl's supersensitiveness born, no doubt, of a very deep desire to be married. Women do not enjoy being in a position of doubt and, until the marriage date takes concrete form, there is generally the shadow of doubt enveloping the long-engaged pair.

Over nothing, it's true, does the world act more the busybody than over a love affair. But the motif is not unkindly. It's sort of a reliving of the person's own romance or a wish to be party to a lively romance that inspires the curiosity. So, a couple who cannot see immediate prospects of marriage needn't get themselves all worked up over imaginary hurts and flings.

Most Mothers Have Much the Same Troubles

Remember Your Child's Not Unique in His Faults.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Have you ever wondered why we print the letters written by correspondents in this column?

Instead of answering your unspoken question, let me quote from a recent letter:

"I have twins, two boys, 8 years old and a wee girl of 3—and it seems the problems arising become more complex each day. Your column acts as a sort of measuring rod. It makes me realize that I have normal children who are going through the same stages that all the other children of the world have gone through and will in generations to come. Surprisingly, this thought gives me strength and a strengthening of patience that nothing else can accomplish."

This is one purpose that is served by the using in this column of letters which describe the troubles of parents with their children. And it is an excellent purpose. You would see just how good it you could read some of the letters I receive.

For if you think when your child tells an untruth that he is worse than others; if you believe there's something radically wrong with your child when he takes a pencil from another child's desk; if you think he lacks character because he dawdles at the age of 8 or is irresponsible at the age of 14, then you're going to take him much too seriously. You may get all worked up about it unnecessarily—which is not good for either you or him.

But if when yours dawdles you learn that others do; if other mothers describe an othewise truthful child telling a lie; if another woman is beside herself over the one-shoe-on-and-a-long-pause method of dressing, then you begin to realize that some behavior is universal at certain ages and you no longer get emotional over things. You no longer think your child abnormal or yourself a failure. You realize that it's all in the picture and so you are able to deal with it, modify or correct it with understanding and calmness.

CAVALCADE TO GET REST FOR WINNING DERBY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 6.—Cavalcade's reward for winning the Kentucky Derby is a two weeks' vacation. The fast running English bred colt will not be asked to go to work in the Preakness stakes at Pimlico next Saturday afternoon.

There are more reasons than appear on the surface why Trainer Bob Smith made this decision here this morning. The main one is that Trainer Smith has saddled three horses for Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane which have gone out and captured the four principal 3 year old races run this year.

He sent Time Clock to win the Florida Derby. He sent High Quest to capture the Wood Memorial stakes in New York. He sharpened up Cavalcade to take top honors in the Chesapeake stakes in Maryland and the Kentucky Derby here yesterday.

It's Up to High Quest.

So this stable, a comparatively new one in American racing, but one whose 3 year olds for two seasons have run roughshod over all rivals, will depend on High Quest to win the $25,000 Preakness prize. High Quest wasn't asked to run in the Derby.

Then, too, Cavalcade is not a rugged colt. He is delicately put together, of the fragile, "handle with care" type. He appeared tired and in need of some rest this morning, and this no doubt caused Trainer Smith to come to the conclusion that a short vacation would not do him any harm.

Cavalcade will depart from the scene of his Derby triumph tomorrow morning, going to New York. His traveling companions will be Time Clock, Sergt. Byrne, and Speedmore. The only colts moving from Churchill Downs to Pimlico for the Preakness will be Singing Wood, Spy Hill, Agrarian, and Discovery. The next start Cavalcade makes probably will be in the American Derby in Chicago June 2.

Except for the gayety of a few Derby parties which lingered on for a week-end of it, the Blue Grass country was just about back to normalcy today after its week of Derby hilarity.

An Alibi for Bazaar.

An alibi for some of the also rans in the big race was established by the trainers today. Trainer Dick Thompson, who saddled Bazaar, blames the stable fire of Friday night for Bazaar's failure.

Most of the horses which had been turned loose when the flames were discovered later were stabled in the open paddock adjoining the Bradley barn for the night. The confusion disturbed most of the Bradley horses, including Bazaar. The Bradley filly, according to Trainer Thompson, got no rest on Deby eve and was still nervous and fretful at post time.

Peace Chance, which finished with a rush to be fifth, displayed the only wounds of the race this morning. He was kicked while at the post, and there was an ugly gash on his right hind leg. However, it will not keep him out of training for many days.

Likes Mata Hari's Race.

Trainer Clyde Van Dusen was highly elated over the race Mata Hari ran. "She did everything I expected of her, and in my mind she is easily the best 3 year old filly of the year," he said.

In the crowd leaving Louisville tonight was Col. Matt J. Winn, president of the American Turf association, who for years has directed the presentation of the Kentucky Derby. He was en route to Chicago to take charge of the renewal of the American Derby at Washington Park.

"Financially, this was the best Kentucky Derby since 1929," he told a group of friends. He believes the American Derby will show the same sort of an increase in interest and attendance.

Log rollers opened the entertainment features of the Outdoor Sports and Motor Boat show at the Navy pier yesterday. On logs brought from northern Michigan the lumber jacks performed difficult feats of balancing and played games characteristic of the lumber lands. In the WAKE of the NEWS

CAVALCADE CHATS.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 6.—Around the barn of Cavalcade, which The Wake visited this morning on our round of stables at Churchill Downs, was unmistakable evidence that his victory in the sixtieth Kentucky Derby had been celebrated the night before.

Empty glasses in profusion could have contained only mint juleps. With the contents drained, there remained the telltale withered mint leaves, the red cherry and the small slice of orange, tall straws still projecting from the glasses.

Sauntering up to Cavalcade's stall, we thought he looked tired and worn. We did not voice that impression, but said instead, "Well, Cavy, you told me to come around and interview the winner, so here I am. You look great."

"Thank you, but I don't fell that way. It's not from those empty glasses, either," he replied, following our gaze. "Those were for my friends. I had only two to sort of brace me up. You know there is a nervous reaction following such a strain as the Derby and I suppose that's what ails me. I'm elated but tired.

"I'm not a particularly robust type, as you have noted, and I also thank you for calling me such a good looker. You remarked how calm I was at the barrier, as if without nerves. That's all on the outside. I'm like some of those oldtime plungers who never moved a muscle, but burned up inside.

"I've been in three hard races in a row now. So I'm rather relieved that Trainer Bob Smith doesn't intend to start me in the Preakness. That suits me fine, but I would like to come back for the American Derby at Washington Park on June 2. I will have had a nice rest by that time."

"Is there anything that finished behind you yesterday that might beat you later in the season?" we propounded.

Cavalcade, which had been in a bantering mood Friday in his pre-Dreby interview, perhaps takes his new responsibilities seriously, for he hesitated a second before replying soberly, "Why, I hardly think so, that is if I maintain my present form and none of them improves. Certainly on the race itself I held everything safe and was going away at the prevailing Derby distance.

"Peace Chance was kicked at the post, but he didn't sulk after it. Such injury affects us colts more after the race than during it because in the excitement we hardly realize it, unless we become provoked and refuse to run. He went on gamely and I think the rest of us were too good for him on this particular day."

At this juncture Time Clock, stablemate of Cavalcade, stuck his nose out from an adjacent stall and said, "Hello, Harvey, would you mind saying hello to an old also ran. I told you I'd congratulate Cavy if he won. He's a regular fellow and how he did run when Mack Garner called on him.

"I see some of the boys think the race should have been run faster and point to a comparatively slow last quarter. Why Cavy, there, could have run a second at least faster if necessary. I'm sorry I didn't do better, but there will be other days."

"Why, Clocky, you ran a marvelous race from the poor beginning you had," protested Cavalcade. "I'm proud of you. Most fellows would have quit. But you kept right at it and beat several, thought, in advance, to have better chances than you. You're a swell pal and you'll get your share before the year's over. Well, Harvey, I think we should take a little snooze, but both Clocky and I will see you at Washington Park or Arlington. We're leaving for the east Tuesday. Good luck and thanks for the nice things you've said about us."

M'LARNIN, ROSS FOE, APPEARS IN FIGHTING SHAPE

The Vancouver Irishman, who hasn't fought since he won his title by knocking out Young Corbett in San Francisco 14 months ago, explained he had been working out in the Washington woods and that he felt in condition to fight this week if necessary.

"My hands are in great shape," said McLarnin. They were brittle, but they're tough as rawhide now!"

While McLarnin and his manager, Pop Foster, didn't disclose the Irishman's weight, he obviously carried no surplus poundage and looked as if he were within the 147 pound limit.

Sport, Boat Show Opens on Navy Pier

Fishermen, canoeists, campers, trapshooters, and other outdoor fans gathered at Navy Pier yesterday for the opening of the fifth annual boat and sports show. More than 110 exhibitors had displays ready, showing nearly every accessory a sportsman could desire.

Speedboats, canoes, fishing rods, new 1934 fishing lures, guns, outdoor clothing and many other products have been assembled at the pier to make this year's show one of the most comprehensive ever held in this city. In addition to displays of outdoor equipment, the show also has many exhibits from the resort and vacation areas of Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Ontario.

Log Rollers Open Show.

The opening of the show was featured by log rolling contests, speedboat exhibitions on Lake Michigan, casting demonstrations at the big casting pool. K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner, was the first Chicagoan to pass through the gates. He was waiting at the pier for the show to open and was given number one ticket to officially start the event. Judge Joseph Sabath, Col. T. A. Siqueland and Dr. Joseph A. Jerger of Chicago were presented with the first rainbow trout received at the Michigan state exhibit.

Joseph Kriz of Washburn, Wis., was given a ducking by William Girard of Gladstone, Mich., in the first log rolling contest. Girard, famous for his balancing stunts on a log, thrilled show visitors when he skipped rope on a log and then stood on a chair placed on top of the round floating tree trunk.

Casting Starts Today.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock the first preliminaries in the casting contests sponsored by THE TRIBUNE will be started. Tomorrow night amateur tournament bait casters representing the numerous casting clubs in Chicago will participate in exhibitions and instruct beginners in the art of thumbing a reel and shooting at targets.

Wednesday night the casting contest for girls and women will be held at 7:30 under the sponsorship of THE TRIBUNE. Cups will be awarded to winners of first, second, and third places. Throughout the week there will be contests in horse shoe pitching, rifle shooting, badminton, and trapshooting. The show continues through May 13.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 6.—Tommy Thomas, a White Sox pitching castoff, with Moe Berg, another former Sox, catching, gave the Chicagoans their first whitewashing in the 13 games of their 1934 campaign today. Tommy held the tailenders to six hits, half of them by Al Simmons, to turn in a 5 to 0 triumph in the opener of the four game series with the league champions.

It was Thomas' fourth victory of the season, as compared with no defeats. The Baltimore blond found his task very easy in almost every respect, except keeping Simmons off base.

Rumor Raises Its Ugly Head.

The Sox played a dizzy sort of game, appearing at times to be staggering about without any direction whatsoever. The discouraging plight of the lads, incidentally, is becoming more marked each day and causing the rumorsmiths to become more eager than ever to revive the rumor concerning personnel replacements, at which Owner Louis Comiskey hinted during the poor showing of the club in its visit to Detroit late last month.

The angle which gets the most play is the possibility of Manager Lew Fonseca being replaced by Jimmy Dykes or Muddy Ruel. While the rumorsmiths have been at their anvils for ten days fashioning this possible development, Owner Comiskey, making his first eastern trip with the club in 22 years, repeatedly has refused to commit himself one way or another.

Each listless loss, of the type played today, probably brings nearer some big batch of changes, but there have been no new developments since the team left Chicago.

Simmons Is Star.

The one ray of sunshine today, from the Chicago viewpoint, was the continued effort of Al Simmons. Al's first hit came in the second inning and a few seconds later he was

(This is the first of a series of golf articles, written by ten of the leading professionals in the game, which will appear daily in The Tribune. Leading off is Tommy Armour, the Silver Scot of the Medinah Country club, one of the most colorful characters and able stylists golf has ever seen. Armour has won every major championship within the reach of professional golfers, including the American, British, Canadian, and Western opens, and the national professional title.)

BY TOMMY ARMOUR.

When THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE asked me to write a story about iron shots it reminded me of the old proverb that it is only necessary to give a dog a bad name and it will stick to him. For example, I have never met Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs' baseball team, but I have always imagined him to be a loquacious person. My opinion is founded entirely upon newspaper stories. In all probability Mr. Hartnett is a very quiet, retiring person, but he has the name of Gabby, and it will probably stick to him forever, whether he deserves it or not.

About 15 years ago a well known golf writer, in his cups, saw me hit a drive, which he mistook for an iron shot. He rushed breathlessly into the press tent, exclaiming that he had never seen such an iron player. Being a very convincing talker, he had his brother scribes agreeing with him after an hour's forceful dissertation. As the cups went down the marvel of the iron shot grew, so that in the space of one day I became "Armour, the Great Iron Shooter."

It's Embarrassing When Folks Crowd Around.

From that day to this the name has stuck to me. Every place I go and every place I play people hang around expectantly to see me produce one of those famous iron shots. They usually go away disappointed and shaking their heads, saying: "He wasn't playing them well today."

The strain of living up to this reputation in actual contest is bad enough, but, unfortunately, being listed as a golfing nonentity [I mean celebrity] I am often asked to write about iron shots. The reader has no idea of the horror I live in day after day, fearing some of my friends or acquaintances will ask me to tell them my great secret.

THE IRON MAN

His Greatest Shot—and Nobody Applauds.

So you can imagine my despair when good friends on THE TRIBUNE asked me if I would cast the light upon this intricate part of the much maligned and slandered game of golf. So I came to a showdown at last—I had been found out—my carefully concealed inefficiency would now be exposed to the public. What increased my embarrassment was that they asked me to describe two great iron shots I had played during my career.

From the time my friends made the request, I have paced the floors of my house desperately trying to think of one great iron shot I had played. After miles of walking, one came to my mind; but, alas, after days of further walking, the second great shot still eludes me. The shot I considered great was witnessed by several thousands and drew not even a ripple of applause. It was a shot that allowed me to win a match against my arch enemy the Spaghetti King, Gene Sarazen, and to have my name on a cup I had always wanted to win, one em-

Italians Lead Candidates for Golden Gloves Team

BY WILFRID SMITH.

With the exception of the heavyweight and lightweight divisions, Chicago might very easily be represented by a team of Italian amateur boxers in the international Golden Gloves bouts with the champions of Poland May 23. In each of the six weight classes there is at least one Italian boy and when the trials at the Illinois Athletic club are over it is very likely that at least half of Chicago's representatives will be of Italian descent.

But no matter racial antecedents, Chicago's boys are intent on repelling the invasion of the Poles. Among those who will report May 13 at the I. A. C. is Danny Farrar of Youngstown, O., Cleveland's welterweight champion, who also won the National A. A. U. title at St. Louis, Mo., last month.

Danny Has Winning Habit.

Dominic Alferdo Donato Rocco Farrara—yes, this is the Danny Farrar who sailed through the 147 pound division in the Tournament of Champions without a defeat—hasn't lost a fight since last summer. Long before last summer, however, Cleveland newspapers had amputated 80 per cent of Farrara's name, substituting Danny as a surname and dropping the final a in Farrara in the interest of headline writers.

Farrar was well known in northern Ohio long before this year's Golden Gloves tournament. His style of fighting is not flashy, but he's left handed, which is an asset in boxing, and his persistence in scoring points have kept him ahead of all rivals. He had several close bouts at the Stadium, but when the last punch was struck Danny received the diamond studded golden glove.

In his first match he defeated Percy Allen of Nashville, Tenn., according to the unanimous vote of the referee and judges. Later that same night he whipped Jules Sandraco of the State Health club of Chicago. Again it was a unanimous decision. Two of the officials cast the same vote, 15 points to 14. The other scored 14 points for each, but awarded the fight to Farrar.

Danny Marches On.

In the quarter finals of the Tournament of Champions, Danny defeated Dennis Jones of the C. Y. O., again by a 3 to 0 vote of the judges. This brought Farrar to the semi-finals. Here he disposed of Keith Graves of Peoria, Ill., and for the first time his opponent received the vote of one of the officials at the end of three rounds. Farrar then met Dave Clark of Detroit for the championship and won the title when the officials voted, 15-14, 15-13, and 15-14, respectively, in his favor.

There are no knockouts in this list, but Farrar's boxing was consistent. He paced himself excellently and finished just as strong as he started.

Danny was an honor student at South High school, Youngstown, O., where he now lives with his father and brother. Danny has a sister living with an aunt at Gary, Ind. When he finished high school he matriculated at Carnegie Tech, Pittsburgh, but found the road a bit rough financially and dropped out. Recently Far-

WARNEKE GETS 8 RUN LEAD, BUT IS BATTED OUT

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Phillies had one of their periodically funny spells yesterday, so the Cubs didn't have to do much more than hang around and watch runs accumulate in their own behalf. In their effort to earn an honest day's pay the visitors perpetrated six errors, and the Cubs mixed in enough hitting to accomplish an easy 11 to 5 triumph before 16,000.

The Phils did only one thing well, and it was entirely unexpected. After they had done enough clowning to give the Cubs an eight run lead, they became serious for a few minutes and knocked the usually steady Lon Warneke right out of the picture. This was done by the simple process of hitting the ball in the fourth when all their runs were harvested. Three of the five tallies were due to Don Hurst's feat of thumping one of Warneke's pitches into the right field bleachers for the lone homer of the afternoon. Warneke's dismissal was his first in five starts this season.

Tinning Is Winning Pitcher.

Warneke's enforced removal brought forth Bud Tinning in the rôle of a life saver, and he handled the job without trouble until misfortune caught up with him. He was forced to retire in the eighth because of reoccurrence of pains in his right shoulder. Gallant Guy Bush then was summoned, but Tinning was in there long enough to be credited with the day's winning performance. Warneke, until his collapse in the fourth, had surrendered only one hit.

The funny fielding of the Phils completely ruined manager Jimmy Wilson's idea that he would make the Cubs suffer with another dose of southpawing. He started Roy [Snipe] Hansen, but the slat-like southpaw was discouraged by having five runs scored against him in the first two innings. Three of these were unearned. Then when the Cubs scored three legitimately in the third Hansen decided to retire. Jumbo Elliott southpawed until the Phils cracked up again in the seventh, and George Darrow, another left hander, handled the eighth. He, too, was the victim of the Phils' mania for hilarity.

Trouble for Snipe.

Hansen didn't have to wait long to discover that his teammates were determined to throw him down. English opened the first inning with a two bagger to right and dashed to third on Billy Herman's fly to center. Klein walked. Cuyler bounced to Hansen, who scooped up the ball and tossed to Wilson at the plate. Wilson threw to Chiozza and the latter chased English toward the plate. He tagged the Cub captain, but then dropped the ball, so the run scored. Stainback was passed purposely, filling the bases. Jurges rolled into a double play.

The insanity in the second, when four Cubs scored, started with a pass to Camilli. Ruble got his hands around Hartnett's fly, but did such a lot of fancy dancing in the sunlight that the ball dropped. A fly to center finished Warneke and English would have been disposed of on a fly to right but Ruble lost his completely in the sun and it fell for a double, Camilli scoring.

Cubs Get Three More.

Hits instead of comics figured in the adding of three more runs against Hansen's record in the third. Stainback started it by beating out a bunt to Chiozza, who wasn't expecting such trickery. Stainback stole second, but

JOCKY HARBORT SURPRISES SELF AS AURORA STAR

Rides 40 Per Cent Winners in First Week.

BY BRUCE DENNIS.

Otto Harbort, a midget from the plains of Texas, is the leading rider of the Fox Valley Jocky club meeting which will open its second week at Aurora this afternoon. Otto has brought home six winners out of 15 mounts, giving him an average of 40 per cent. In addition, he finished second four times.

Harbort is no rookie at the riding game, but he is beginning to feel like one of those 95 pound apprentice stars who bob up every once in a while. His record for the Aurora meeting is nearly four times as good as his mark for last year, when he won 38 races with 361 mounts for a percentage of 11.

Keester in Second Place.

Paul Keester, the youngster whom Trainer C. E. Davison put to work when his regular jocky, Eddie Arcaro, was suspended for rough riding, is Harbort's chief rival. Last week he was hoisted into the saddle 16 times and 5 times he climbed out of it in the winner's circle.

Harbort and Keester won't have to worry about competition from Jocky Joe Guerra this week, for Joe, who rode four winners and was out of the money only three times, will be on the ground as the result of a 10 day suspension for cowboy tactics.

Two jockies accepted only one engagement during the week and each brought in a winner. D. Marshio rode Kink Pin Tuesday and C. Hainsworth scored with Tennywood Friday.

Keep Trying, Manifold!

The hard luck championship goes to H. Manifold, who rode 20 horses without being able to score. He was second six times and third three times.

Jocky—	Mounts	1st	2d	3d	Pct.
O. Harbort	15	6	4	0	.36
P. Keester	16	5	3	2	.31

The $3 combination tickets [$1 across the board] are more than twice as popular as were the $6 variety sold last year, the mutuel department reports.

Old Pigeon Hole, which won the $35,000 Arlington handicap in 1930 and was the victor in numerous other stakes while in his prime, may be about at the end of his career.

Now 9 years old, Pigeon Hole was entered in the eighth race Saturday by his owner, Dick Watts, who liked the way the old fellow had been working out. He was scratched because he was found to be suffering from periodic opthalmia, a growth over the eyes which is sometimes called moon blindness.

Jim Farley, the track handicapper and an old clocker, says the malady can be cured in some cases, but at Pigeon Hole's age the job will be difficult.

Each member of the new Illinois racing commission spent the day at the Aurora races last week. Leo Spitz was on hand Saturday and Chairman Peter B. Carey and Walter Peacock watched 'em run earlier in the week.

The shot that rang off the club of the famous [?] iron player was a mashie niblick from a downhill lie in the rough onto a plateau green. The ball could not be pitched to the cup as it was impossible to stop it on the green. A straight shot with run was impossible also, as a bunker on the edge of the green was directly between the ball and the hole. There was also a bunker on the right hand side of the green, so the only thing left for me to do was to play a low, hooked shot through the opening formed by the two bunkers.

The match was all-event, and we had only two holes to go. The genial Italian had played one of the most remarkable recovery shots I ever saw to put his ball on the green. Before he played the shot, it looked as if the worst I could get was a half. After he played it it looked as though the best I could get was a loss.

I gritted my teeth, threw back my long hair, puffed out my chest and played the shot with my reputation. For some unknown reason, the gods were kind, my reputation did not fail me and the ball went up on the green. We halved the hole in truly remarkable fours, and I won the last hole and the championship.

Now, Here's How the Stars Do It.

Now that I have told you about my great shot, and after my forced admission of my own real inefficiency, I will let you into the secrets of iron play by telling you how the really great iron shot players execute them.

First of the four things they tell me that they do is to grip the club firmly [not too tight] with the left hand. They are always slow at the top of the swing [don't mistake that for a slow backswing, for I never saw a really great golfer take the club back slowly]. They hit the ball slightly inside the line of flight [and hit with their hands]. That is the greatest secret, I understand—the dubs hit with their bodies and the great with their hands.

The weight is kept on the left leg when playing the short irons and gradually goes over to an equal distribution as the iron shots get longer. This is all I have been able to find out from the experts, and if this is wrong, blame them.

NORTHWESTERN GOLFERS OPPOSE ILLINOIS TODAY

Northwestern's golf team will meet Illinois at the Kildeer Country club today in a 36 hole match. Both teams have lost only one match this year and that to Michigan, last year's conference champion.

The Wildcats defeated Wisconsin Saturday, 12½ to 5½. The Purple players shot their best golf of the season in this match, Capt. Bob Brown equaling par, 71, and Saielli turning in a 72.

Illinois will start the same quartet that met Michigan at Ann Arbor Saturday. The players are Hoffman, Baker, O'Neil, and Hill. The Purple squad will consist of Brown, Saielli, Flynn, and Curtiss.

ENGLISH INVITE U. S. POLO TEAMS FOR JUNE GAMES

New York, May 6.—(AP)—International competition in indoor polo became a distant possibility today with the announcement that an invitation has been received from London's famous Olympia horse show and spectacle.

The English officials asked that men and ponies sufficient to form two good teams be sent over to play a series of exhibition games at Olympia, June 21 to 30.

The invitation has been taken under consideration. The chief obstacle to acceptance lies in the late date. American officials fear there would be too great a strain on the ponies after the long indoor season here.

Golfing Unknown Defeats English Walker Cup Stars

SANDWICH, England, May 6—(AP)—A 22 year old unknown golfer, Jim Penman of Midken, today left four members of Britain's Walker cup team behind as he won the St. George challenge cup with a 36 hole score of 153. Cyril Tolley and Michael Scott, British amateur champion and Walker cup team captain, landed in eighth and ninth places, with 159 and 160, respectively. Two other members of the British cup squad, T. A. Torrance and Roger Wethered, scored 162 and 165, respectively.

64 TO QUALIFY IN U. S. WOMEN'S GOLF TOURNEY

New York, May 6.—(AP)—The United States Golf association announced today that 64 players, instead of the customary 32, would qualify for match play in this year's national tournament, to be held at the Whitemarsh Valley Country club, Chestnut Hill, Pa., starting Oct. 1.

Under the new system the field will play an 18 hole qualifying round on Monday, Oct. 1, the low 64 scorers beginning match play Oct. 2. Two rounds will be played that day, so that the tournament can be concluded by Saturday. All match play rounds up to the final will be at 18 holes, the final at 36.

The U. S. G. A., announcing the change after consultation with the women's committee of the association, said it was occasioned by increased interest in women's golf and the belief that this would be further stimulated by enlarging the number of qualifiers for match play.

The change follows a revision of the conditions for the national amateur tournament, whereby the customary 36 hole qualifying round will be eliminated. The amateur, to be played at Brookline, Mass., starting Sept. 10, will be decided solely on a match play basis with the field limited to a maximum of 180 entries. Four rounds of 18 hole matches will be played the first four days, followed by the 36 hole semi-finals and finals.

FISCHER SHOOTS ROUND OF 72 ON EDINBURGH LINKS

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, May 6.—(AP)—Johnny Fischer, long driving star from Cincinnati, was the only member of the American Walker cup golf team to play today. A raw, rainy, blustery day made St. Andrews' old links a dreary sight. The course is closed Sundays, but the Americans wouldn't have played it anyway, so bad was the weather.

Fischer elected to accompany Johnny Dawson of Chicago to Edinburgh where he shot a fine practice round of 72, despite rain and high wind.

The other eight members of the visiting team, which meets Great Britain's picked amateurs here Friday and Saturday, decided to remain indoors. Lacking anything more attractive to do, most of them played hearts as a means of killing time.

The team will practice two-ball foursomes tomorrow. Capt. Francis Ouimet has not as yet decided how he will pair his players, and expects to try various combinations in an effort to find the most effective.

Brook Trout Feel Effects of Heat Wave

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Portage, Wis., May 6.—The midwest May heat wave has the brown trout completely upset in the streams which find their way through the meadows and woods in this part of Wisconsin. Here it is the early part of May, when ordinarily the trout brooks are high and roily. But this season trout are swimming around in streams which are just about at July and August levels.

The water is low and as clear as one might encounter on a fishing trip in late summer. With a bright sun overhead the confused brown trout have fallen back on their old habits of turning up their noses at lures during the day time, and then stirring themselves for a little fun around sundown.

They Buzz Along.

With Otto Beyer and Capt. John Gay, two Portage sportsmen, alternating at the wheel of the "trout pathfinder car" we have been buzzing along over dry, dusty roads to visit some of the trout streams in this historic section of Wisconsin.

Leaving the famous Fox River valley, where Father Marquette made his arduous voyage of discovery many decades ago, we went north to the Oxford, a stream which has yielded some whopping, big brown trout. It was hard to believe we were fishing early in May. The sun was turning on the heat to shoot the temperature well above the 80 mark and in our waders it felt as if it were closer to 100 degrees.

The Oxford was low and clear and the trout shy when we started to work this winding, fairly deep stream for big trout. It was four o'clock in the afternoon when we hiked through a stand of alders to size up the Oxford and it took only about 30 minutes of casting and changing lures to tell that the brownies were not going to do business with us until around sundown.

Locates Beautiful Spring.

This is one stream that is made to order for a fly fisherman who suffers from a May heat wave and wants to stretch out on the bank to listen to the grosbeaks sing after locating a cool spring of water. After an hour of wading in the Oxford and getting thoroughly steamed in a pair of waders, we found a beautiful spring at the side of the trout stream. The water from this spring travels about 100 feet through a bed of marsh marigolds [now butter-yellow in color] and then empties into the Oxford.

We sampled this cold water and then stretched out on the bank of the stream where red winged blackbirds and grosbeaks were putting on spring concerts above oak woods that are white with the blossoms of blood roots.

Beyer Beats Others.

Along toward sundown we left the upper part of the stream, where alders are a hindrance to fly fishing, and walked down the creek to the meadows. Here we had a good chance to toss flies while the twilight was coming on. However, the fly versus bait contest was won by Otto Beyer, who outscored the rest of us with his catch of browns from the lower Oxford.

NINE CONTESTS ON NOTRE DAME CARD THIS WEEK

Notre Dame, Ind., May 6.—[Special.]—The biggest sports week of the spring campaign, and what promises to be the most thrilling, faces Notre Dame track, baseball, golf, and tennis stars this week.

The track team will meet Michigan State on the local field. The baseball team will meet Michigan State Wednesday, Western State Thursday, and Indiana Saturday. Indiana will play here and the other games are away.

The tennis team, encouraged by a victory over Armour Tech, 6 to 3, will meet Detroit here Friday, and Michigan State at East Lansing Saturday. The next home match is with Michigan State here May 19.

C. was fourth in 35:57, and David McErlane, St. Anselm's A. C. finished fifth in 36:07. The Millrose A. A. won the team trophy.

DIVICH, INDIANA POLE VAULTER, SHOWS COURAGE

Quits After Fall, Then Returns to Win Title.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

When Froebel High school of Gary, Ind., sent Steve Divich to Indiana university he had almost as great a prep reputation as a pole vaulter as John Wonsowitz, also of Froebel, who matriculated at Ohio State. Johnny has vaulted higher but when an injury ended his competition it remained for his fellow townsman to win an undisputed Big Ten vaulting championship. Divich did this last winter at the University of Chicago when he cleared 13 feet 2 inches for first place in the conference.

Divich, now a senior at Indiana in the school of business administration, is 22 years of age, and 5 feet 10 inches tall. He's a likeable chap, president of his social fraternity, Phi Delta Theta, and a member of Sphinx, honorary upper classman fraternity. His success in track this winter is due to his courage, for last year he decided to quit the sport, which is a story in itself.

Refuses to Flip Coin.

In the Indiana state meet last spring, Divich nearly broke his back when he fell to the pit as a pole snapped under his weight. When he fell and was forced to discontinue he was tied for first place. His opponent, with laudable sportsmanship, refused to flip a coin for the gold medal, but gave it to Steve.

The mishap discouraged Divich, but this year he again came out to help Indiana in its fight for track honors. With only a few nights' practice he won the conference title. Bad fortune still pursues, however, and an injured hand prevented him from going to Pennsylvania relays a week ago.

Beats Title Vault Height.

Divich has jumped higher than 13 feet 2 inches, his title leap last winter. A year ago in the indoor competition his 13 feet 6⅛ inches was good only for third place. But no point ever was more valuable than the fraction Divich counted in his sophomore year in the Big Ten indoor games. By just that margin Indiana won its first conference championship from Michigan. Divich tied with two others for fourth position that night.

In the 1933 outdoor Big Ten meet Divich tied for fourth with Lovshin of Wisconsin, behind the three boys who divided first place, and which trio included Wonsowitz, his former prep school rival.

Among the other lesser known and promising athletes on the Indiana squad, which seriously threatens Michigan for the outdoor championship, is Duke Hobbs, a sophomore from Salem, Ind. His complete cognomen is Marmaduke, which is a good sized load to drag around the track for a mile, hence Duke. Hobbs has run the mile in 4 minutes 20 3-10 seconds and with two years ahead of him he may step into the shoes of Charles Hornbostel, along with Ivan Fuqua, the aces of Indiana's track team.

Duke Washes Dishes.

RED SOX GET 12 RUNS IN 4TH TO BEAT TIGERS, 14-4

Four Triples in Inning Rout Marberry.

Boston, Mass., May 6.—(AP)—A tempestuous fourth inning in which the Red Sox scored 12 runs off three Detroit pitchers paved the way for Boston to take the first game of the series with the Tigers, 14 to 4, before a crowd of 30,000 at Fenway park today.

With one out in the fourth, Reynolds, Solters, Ferrell, and Walters all tripled, driving Marberry from the mound. Hogsett replaced him and was hammered for five more hits, with Larkin ending the inning and yielding two hits.

YANKS, 6; BROWNS, 5.

New York, May 6.—(AP)—The Yankees took a 6 to 5 decision from the St. Louis Browns in the opening game of their series as Lou Gehrig's timely hitting proved the deciding factor in a close battle.

Lou accounted for half the Yankee runs, including the winning tally, which came with one out in the ninth. He smacked his third homer of the campaign in the fourth, doubled in another run in the eighth, and singled with the bases filled to score Earle Combs with the deciding run in the ninth.

Irving Burns hit a St. Louis homer in the sixth while Tony Lazzeri aided New York's eighth inning rally with a freak double which bounded off a ramp in left field into the bleachers. It was the first time a ball has landed there since the stadium was built. Score:

Although he was hammered for a homer in the eighth by Jimmy Foxx, who ran up his season total to five, Willis Hudlin, Cleveland hurler, was too good for the A's. Eight hits were all he surrendered, three of them made by Foxx.

Roy Mahaffey was hit for all four of the Indians' runs during his seven-inning stay and was charged with the loss. He and his rescuer, Johnny Marcum, held Cleveland to seven hits. Score:

MOON MULLINS—DOUBLE IDENTITY

Giants Hand Reds 7th Loss in Row, 5 to 3

Cincinnati, O., May 6.—(AP)—The New York Giants knocked Si Johnson off the mound with two runs in the first inning and then went ahead to give the Cincinnati Reds their seventh consecutive defeat today. The score was, 5 to 3.

Stout got along until the fourth inning when Mancuso hit a home run over the left field wall. After two were out in the seventh, Ryan was passed and scored on singles by Terry and Ott. Hal Schumacher bounced a triple off the left field wall at the beginning of the ninth and scored on Joe Moore's single. Score:

PIRATES, 8; DODGERS, 5.

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 6.—(AP)—A Sabbath crowd of 13,000 saw Pittsburgh win its third straight game today by defeating Brooklyn's Dodgers, 8 to 5, in the first clash between the two clubs this season.

Heine Meine permitted Brooklyn only two hits in five innings, while his mates were piling up a six run lead. Ralph Boyle's homer in the sixth seemed to shake the veteran, who lost his control and was removed in the next inning. Frey's homer off Swift in the seventh put the Dodgers within one run of the Pirates. Hoyt was rushed to the rescue, holding the Dodgers in check thereafter. Score:

St. Louis, Mo., May 6.—(AP)—Fred Frankhouse and Bill Hallahan pitched hitless ball for five innings today but neither was able to finish as the Boston Braves defeated the Cardinals, 3 to 2.

The Boston victory ended the Cardinals' winning streak at seven games and put the Braves back into the first division, St. Louis dropping to fifth.

Frankhouse was taken out in the eighth after allowing only four hits, and the Cardinals hammered Ed [Dutch] Brandt, who took over the pitching, for their two runs in the ninth on singles by Rip Collins and Burgess Whitehead and a double by George Davis. Score:

Italians Lead Golden Glove Candidates

rar was awarded a scholarship at Duke university and he intends to resume his college education this fall. He is ambitious to become proficient in mechanics and quite naturally has a bent for mathematics.

When Danny was in Chicago he aroused the envy of his fellow teammates by the many telegrams of congratulation which poured in, several from "unknown" friends, who said they had listened to the story of his fights over W-G-N.

Danny's favorite dish is spaghetti and he can cook it like an expert. If he fights against Poland, the night after the bouts you'll probably find him at Freddie Caserio's restaurant trading recipes with Freddie's mother, who also can put together a tasty dish of Italian food. Farrar was chief cook at a boys' summer camp a year ago.

Tyus Is Candidate.

There's a coincidence about Farrar's Golden Gloves and National A. A. U. championship fights. His opponent in both finals was Dave Clark of Detroit and each time, quite by accident, so his trainer says, Farrar put his boxing trunks on backwards. He's not at all superstitious, but he hopes he puts them on backward if he fights Misieurewicz of Poland for the international welterweight title.

Farrar's opponent in the training period at the I. A. C. probably will be Fred Tyus of Peoria, Ill., who is one of the best amateurs in the country. Tyus fought as a middleweight in the Tournament of Champions as a favor to Keith Graves of Peoria, who also is a welterweight. However, when the intercity team was assembled Tyus was chosen as a welterweight and he fought and defeated New York's champion.

No matter which one of these boys is named to fight Misieurewicz it looms as a victory for Chicago.

Cubs Start Lee Today, Holley Is Phillies' Choice

Bill Lee, the six foot plus right hander purchased from the Columbus, O., team, will make his first start as a Cub in the second of the series with the Phils today. This is Manager Grimm's first move in a search for a regular who can take the place of one of the veterans. A couple of the old timers haven't been doing so well lately. Ed Holley may be today's starter for the Phils.

The Cubs have fixed up a working agreement with the Peoria, Ill., club of the Central league. Young Cubs who need schooling will be shipped there subject to recall.

Manager Grimm was physically able to play yesterday, but his understudy, Dolph Camilli, had a couple of good days at bat so was permitted to continue at first base. He'll be there until he slumps.

Senators and Thomas Shut Out Sox, 5-0

knocked unconscious for five minutes when Joe Cronin's throw hit him in the head. Simmons came back to make a single in the fourth, was thrown out by an eyelash in the sixth, and led off the ninth with a double.

Sam Jones kept intact the Sox record of having had no pitcher go nine innings so far this season. He retired after seven innings in which the Senators made nine hits, including four doubles. Ted Lyons pitched the eighth and retired the batsmen in order.

Cronin Beans Simmons.

It was in the second inning that Simmons was knocked out. Al led off with a line single to center, after which Appling popped to Kuhel. Dykes then grounded to Myer, who tossed to Cronin to force Simmons. In an effort to complete a double play, Cronin cut loose with an underhand shot toward first. The ball hit Simmons in the forehead and bounced into left field.

Simmons flopped to the ground, and it was five minutes before he moved. With the combined ministrations of both trainers, a doctor from the stands and all the first aid gents on each team, Simmons was revived and assisted to the bench. Hayes then singled to left, but Shea popped to Kubel. There was another delay, during which Simmons decided to resume his post in left field.

The Boys Were Confused.

A single, double, and two errors netted the Senators only one run in their half of the second. Cronin singled to center and went on to second when Uhalt failed to pick up the ball. Schulte fouled to Shea, but Stone doubled to center, scoring Cronin. Shea threw the ball into center field trying to get Stone off second, Stone taking third. Boken popped to Hayes and Dykes threw out Berg.

Practically all the players of both teams and certainly Jones, Shea, Kuhel, Manush and Manager Cronin completely forgot the number of outs in the third inning, when it became necessary for the umpires to run about the field after the third put-out, telling the athletes to change sides.

Kuhel beat out an infield scratch with one out and Myer flied to Uhalt for the second out. Manush doubled off the right field signboard, Kuhel stopping at third. Cronin bunted straight and rather hard at Jones and a regular rundown play was launched when Jones headed off Kuhel at the plate instead of throwing to first to retire the side.

The Umpires Avert Trouble.

The Sox eventually had both Kuhel and Manush on third, but instead of holding them there for a certain third out, they obviously were trying to maneuver for a fourth out. Eventually Kuhel was tagged by Dykes and it was then that the umpires dashed around telling the Sox to go to bat and the Senators to take the field.

A single, a double and a walk were not enough to give the Sox a 1-all tie in the fourth inning. Simmons led off with his second single, but Appling fanned. Simmons and Dykes failed on the hit and run and Simmons was thrown out at second when he ran on a pitchout. Dykes doubled on the next pitch and Hayes walked. Then Shea flied to Manush.

Dykes Is Alert.

The champs scored a pair in the sixth, the second one on a wild pitch just before the third out was accomplished. Schulte led off with a double and scored on Stone's single. Stone got to third on two infield outs. Dykes then ran about the infield telling every one there were two out. But the warning did no good, for Jones made a wild pitch, Stone scoring. Thomas then fouled to Dykes.

The series of joke maneuvers was augmented in the seventh inning. Kuhel led off with a single to right, moved to second on Myer's sacrifice and to third while Manush was beating out a single to deep short. Cronin popped to Appling in short left and Kuhel broke for the plate after the catch. Appling made a perfect throw to Shea who had Kuhel down and blocked but he dropped the ball and sat down on it, still blocking Kuhel.

Dykes ran in and tried to retrieve the ball from under the seat of Shea's bloomers, but before he could do it Kuhel squirmed free and rolled over the plate for a score, Manush reaching second. Schulte walked, then Stone knocked his third hit and second double, Manush scoring and Schulte stopping at third. Boken flied to Haas.

The Sox filled the bases in the ninth on Simmons' third hit, a double to left, and walks to Appling and Pasek, but they drew their shutout when Swanson forced Pasek to end the contest.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 6.—The White Sox are here for a four game series—the only four game set of the current trip. Tomorrow Prof. Monte Weaver will pitch for Washington and Manager Lew Fonseca will draw a name out of a hat.

Cecil Travis, the youth who chased the veteran Ossie Bluege out of his third base job, remained in the hospital today as a result of having been beaned yesterday by Lefty Lee, Cleveland pitcher. It is expected he'll be able to get in one or two games of the series with the Sox.

No beer or other intoxicants are peddled in the Washington ball park. President Clark Griffith is against drinking.

Manager Fonseca announced after today's game that Pitcher John Pomorski will be returned to Montreal of the International league.

Phils' Errors Aid Cubs in 11-5 Victory was trapped off that corner on Jurges' roller. Camilli was plunked by a pitched ball and advanced with Jurges on a passed ball. Both scored on Hartnett's single. Hartnett went to second on Warneke's infield out and home on English's single. W. Herman also peeled off a single, but the fun stopped on Klein's fly to left.

Chiozza singled to right to open the fourth, and that was the beginning of Warneke's nose dive. He walked Allen. Hurst sailed his homer into the right field seats. Schulmerich popped out, Wilson singled and Cuyler flagged Ruble's liner. Jeffries revived the anti-Warneke movement by singling to center. Hendrick batted for Hansen and singled to right, Wilson scoring. Warneke vanished and Tinning stepped in to pitch to Bartell, who singled to drive in Jeffries with the fifth and last run of the inning.

Comedy Is On Again.

During the first three innings of Elliott's tenure the Phillies behaved themselves in the field, but that couldn't go on forever. They reverted to the comical side of life in the seventh and assisted the Cubs to one run. Cuyler opened the inning with a double to left. Bartell stepped into short center to grab Stainback's pop, but dropped it, Cuyler going to third and Stainback to second. Jurges flied to short left.

Camilli bounced to Elliott, but the ponderous southpaw couldn't untangle himself in time to make a good throw to the plate. The ball bounced off Catcher Todd's glove and Cuyler scored. Elliott twisted himself on the play, so quit, and Grabowski ended the inning on a freak double play in which Bartell trapped Hartnett's popup.

Shoulder Bothers Tinning.

Tinning, after adjusting Warneke's troubles in the fourth, pitched three innings that were just around the corner from being perfect. He yielded only two hits. He got the first man out of the way in the eighth and then walked Haslin, who batted for Grabowski. Tinning immediately asked for help because of his ailing shoulder, and Bush responded to the call. He allowed only one hit in his one and two-thirds innings of labor.

Two runs picked up by the Cubs in the eighth were at the expense of Darrow, a left hander from the Texas league. He walked English and W. Herman with one out. Klein doubled to right, scoring English, and when Bartell fumbled the return throw W. Herman also counted.

GRANT MAY WIN DIXIE TENNIS—IF LOTT IS BEATEN

Memphis, Tenn., May 6.—(AP)—Bryan Grant, Atlanta tennis sensation, is hopeful of winning the Dixie invitational tennis tournament, starting tomorrow, provided some one else disposes of George Lott Jr., defending champion.

Young Grant said today he never had defeated the big Chicago ace in a tournament, although he had beaten Lott in a few exhibitions. During an erratic season this year Grant has beaten both Lester Stoefen, Los Angeles wizard, and Frank Shields, No. 1 United States star.

Stoefen is entered in the Dixie invitational and was seeded No. 2 this afternoon by tournament officials who reserved No. 1 position for Lott.

WINS TITLE FROM BROTHER.

SANTIAGO, Chile, May 6.—(AP)—Salvador Deik won the Chilean singles tennis championship today when his brother, Elias, defaulted in the final round.

ROXY AND GANG WILL OPEN NEW W-G-N PROGRAM

Stars of Stage, Screen, and Radio to Broadcast.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

That veteran of the nation's air-lanes, Roxy [S. L. Rothafel], will make his first Chicago radio appearance at 9 o'clock this evening from the world's biggest broadcasting studio—the Chicago theater. With an audience of approximately 4,000 persons, three times as many as can be accommodated in Radio City's largest studio, Roxy and his gang of 72 entertainers and musicians will present a half hour variety show over W-G-N direct from the stage of this giant theater.

This broadcast, which will become a regular Monday evening presentation on THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station, will feature celebrities of the stage, screen, radio, and opera. Next Monday evening Gloria Swanson is to be the headliner. Quin Ryan will be master of ceremonies on these Balaban & Katz presentations.

Singin' Sam [Harry Frankel] is doing a Marion Talley. Like the Metropolitan soprano who retired at the peak of her career to enter farming, Frankel abandoned a successful radio career for rusticity at Richmond, Ind. Now he has changed his mind; he's coming back. And when he launches his new air series May 28 he plans to motor up to Chicago with his bride of last week. Mrs. Frankel was Helene Smiles Davis of Voluntown, Conn.

Sam's new CBS show will start on his wife's birthday. Chicago friends endeavoring to call him on the phone last week to offer congratulations had difficulty in locating a Harry Frankel at Richmond. However, when they identified him as Singin' Sam, he was quickly located at his rural home, Justamere farm.

Virginia Clark Under Option.

Virginia Clark, who plays "Helen Trent" on W-G-N and in about a dozen other shows each week, is likely to catch up one of these days with Dick Powell of the movies, who was her schoolmate in Little Rock, Ark. Warner Brothers have taken an option on her services.

Jascha Heifetz is making a trip from Europe to America for a single broadcast. He will arrive next Saturday in time to make an appearance on the Sunday evening Hall of Fame show. Then the violinist will take the first boat for South America to make a concert tour.

Here and There in Radio.

Richard Himber and his orchestra, an NBC band, have been signed for a new "Parade of Champions" series to run on CBS. There will be soloists. . . . The cigaret concern sponsoring the Metropolitan opera broadcasts the last season is reported considering going back to its "Magic Carpet" formula of rotating orchestras. . . . Jessica Dragonette will come from New York to Chicago on Sunday, May 20, just to sing three songs on the "Silken Strings" show with Charles Previn.

Plans to put Kate Smith back on the air, with an insurance concern footing the bill, fell through. . . . The Minneapolis Symphony series will be concluded on May 29. . . . Ed Wynn winds up his engagement the same day. There are persistent reports that he will not return to the air with the present sponsor. . . . Like Amos 'n' Andy, Max Baer is a taxi driver in his new radio sketch. It's on WENR at 6:45 tonight.

Following her broadcast next Sunday evening Mme. Schumann Heink and Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother of the President, will be guests of honor in New York at a Mother's day banquet. . . . Chief Justice Hughes will make one of his rare radio appearances at 10:45 a. m. next Thursday when he addresses the American Law institute. Outlets will be announced later. . . . Alice Joy, Radio's "Dream Girl," and Platt and Nierman, piano duo, whom W-G-N gave to the network last winter, will launch a new program at 10:15 a. m. next Friday on NBC.

BUDDHIST MONK, ONCE SPY AND IN COMMONS, BARRED BY BRITAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 6.—Abbot Chao Kung, better known as Trebitsch Lincoln, one time spy, British member of parliament, and curate, and now a Buddhist monk, arrived at Liverpool from Canada today and was immediately arrested on a deportation order.

He was held in the Bridewell jail at Liverpool tonight, and his disciples—five monks and five nuns—stayed at a boarding house. The whole party will be put aboard the liner Duchess of York Friday bound for Canada.

Representatives of the home office informed Lincoln that because the deportation order issued against him in 1919 was not canceled he could not land. "I want to preach Buddhism in England, just as you send missionaries to China," he said. Authorities, however, rejected the plea.

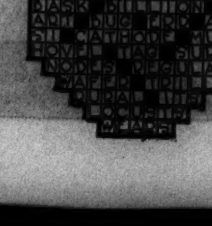
SATURDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



COLUMBIA PROF. URGES LESS PAY FOR THE WOMEN

New York, May 6.—[Special.]—Men teachers should receive a much higher salary than women teachers for equal work, in the opinion of Dr. J. Ralph McGaughy, professor of education and director of the elementary education department at Teacher's college, Columbia university. This conclusion was voiced in a survey of the economic status of school teachers by Dr. McGaughy, the results of which were made public today.

Unless men are paid more than women, the schools will continue to attract an inferior type of men and the children will thereby suffer, Dr. McGaughy said. Owing to the economic competition outside school, the best type of educator will not enter the teaching profession unless the salary is made more attractive than at present, according to Dr. McGaughy.

"Under equal pay, one or both of two unfortunate situations must exist," he said. "Inferior men will be drawn into our junior and senior high school teaching positions and the cause of good education will suffer, as it is now suffering in many communities for this very reason, or women teachers will be overpaid in the economic system.

"No board of education has the moral right to pay women teachers higher salaries than the economic demand for their services justifies. To do so is just as pernicious as to waste public money upon some other project for which there is no such well-organized sentimental propaganda."

New York City, Dr. McGaughy declared, is an "excellent illustration of this wasting of public money. He asserted that equal pay legislation "is costing the city of New York at least $3,000,000 a year more than would be expended under the natural workings of the economic law."

2 SHIPS CRIPPLED BY ICE IN LAKE; TAKEN IN TOW

PORT COLBORNE, Ont., May 6.—(AP)—Two vessels which stripped propellers in the ice where taken in tow on Lake Superior today. The steamers Royalton and Laketon rescued the disabled craft after receiving distress signals.

Capt. R. Scott Misener, president of Sarnia Steamships, today said he had received wireless messages stating the Royalton and Laketon of the Colonial Steamships had answered distress signals from the freighter Ten of the Minnesota Transportation company. The Ten stripped her propeller in heavy ice off Caribou Island.

The Royalton, bound from Fort William with a wheat cargo for Port Colborne, took the Ten in tow and brought her to Iroquois, where tugs met the vessel. The Laketon proceeded on her way to Fort William to load grain, but had journeyed only a short distance when she received distress signals from the steamer Damia, owned by Kenneth Scott of Cleveland. The Damia stripped her propeller in heavy ice about nine miles from Caribou Island. Capt. C. E. Misener of the Laketon will tow the Damia into Fort William.

The burial place is three blocks from the American Car and Foundry company plant in which he laid the foundation for his industrial career.

Flowers filled three trucks and were massed about the mausoleum. Mr. Woodin died Thursday in New York.

For an hour and a half before the service in the First Presbyterian church hundreds filed by the casket, which was draped with the daffodils, iris, and native spring flowers that Mr. Woodin loved.

Before and after the simple 19 minute church service the church organist played "The Unknown Soldier," a composition of Mr. Woodin.

WORLD WHEAT PARLEY MAY AFFECT TREND

Hope Bull Stimulus Will Result.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A new factor will make its appearance in the wheat market today with the reassembling of the international conference at London. Should present plans materialize it might prove to be the much needed stimulant to get world markets out of the rut of recent months.

Dry weather talk abetted a rise in price of American wheat last week but the failure of Canadian, Argentine and the English markets to reflect the upturns dampened bullish enthusiasm.

Despite reports of showers in the Dakotas official advices assert drouth still persists over a wide area. According to the corn and wheat region bulletin issued by the weather bureau there was no point in North Dakota from April 17 to May 5 that received as much as one inch of rain. Only two of the 15 stations had as much as ½ inch. South Dakota has fared somewhat better but it is believed steady rain is essential or crops in that state will deteriorate in the same sensational manner as last year.

Southwestern Crop Improves.

The winter wheat crop in the southwest has been materially benefited by rains. In Kansas precipitation was much more spotted.

Traders are decidedly apprehensive over the outcome of the spring wheat crop here and in Canada. This is based largely on the lack of subsoil moisture. Little attention has been paid to drouthy conditions in parts of Russia and the Danube river basin in Europe.

Wheat prices here had a range of around 3¾ cents last week and closed 1⅞ to 3 cents higher. May finished at 81⅝ cents, July at 79½ to 79¾ cents and September at 80¼ to 80⅛ cents. Range of prices follows:

Monday	78¼-80⅛	78⅛-79⅞	79⅛-80⅞
Tuesday	78¼-80	77 -79¼	78¼-80⅛
Wednesday	78 -79⅛	76⅝-77⅞	77¾-79

Corn Market Gains Friends.

There has been a marked change in speculative sentiment toward corn. Delivery of 11,000,000 bushels of cash grain cut the open interest in the May down to unusually small proportions for this season, and with a better cash demand there was a broadening in speculative buying.

Plowing for the new corn crop is practically completed, and much planting has been accomplished. The prospect of a severe infection of chinch bugs is held out by entomologists in some leading states, but at the moment apprehension is not great, however, although last year extremely heavy losses were sustained in parts of central Illinois and in Iowa.

Corn prices worked higher last week and closed 1⅜ to 2½ cents higher than the previous week. May finished at 46⅝ cents, July at 49⅛ cents and September at 50⅝ cents. Range of prices follows:

Monday	43⅞-45⅝	46⅞-48⅝	48⅝-50
Tuesday	44 -45⅛	46⅞-48	48⅜-49⅝
Wednesday	44⅛-45⅞	47 -48⅛	48½-50
Thursday	45⅛-45⅞	47⅞-48⅞	49¼-50
Friday	45⅛-46⅝	47⅝-48⅞	49⅛-50½
Saturday	45¼-46⅝	47⅝-49⅞	49⅛-50½
For week	43⅞-46⅝	46⅞-49⅛	48⅛-50½
Prev. week	43⅝-46	45⅝-48⅛	47⅝-49⅞
Last year	41¼-42⅞	43⅞-45⅛	45⅛-47
2 years ago	27⅝-30	30⅝-33⅛	33 -35⅛
Season	40 -82	43 -58⅛	45 -57
1932-'33	23½-42⅞	25 -45½	26⅝-47

Oats Need Rain Badly.

Practically no rain has fallen in Iowa and Illinois since the new oats crop went into the ground. A marked increase in reports of moisture needed was noted during the week. The two states have more than 25 per cent of the total acreage for the entire country and furnish a large part of the commercial grain.

Supplies of old oats on farms are light and there is little incentive for farmers to sell at the present time as the price is only a little over 20 cents at country loading stations.

Meet in London.

LONDON, May 6.—(AP)—The long-disputed scheme to fix a worldwide minimum scale of prices for wheat will be acted on finally by 21 governments in a conference opening here tomorrow.

All other proposals designed to improve the discouraging conditions facing wheat farmers of the world, discussed by the wheat advisory commission for the last half year, are expected to be tabled until the commission's regular bi-monthly meeting in London in June.

The commission, on which only 14 of the 21 nations adhering to the wheat pact are represented, has invited all countries to send representatives to this week's sessions because of the urgency of the problem of reviving the market and the far-reaching effects price fixing may have. Quarters of the American delegation, nonetheless are convinced that other measures must be adopted, contending that the dependence on recovery cannot be placed entirely on the price scheme.

Raps Government Interference.

Delegations were given an unfavorable sendoff for the important sessions opening in the morning in the form of a strong blast from the Liverpool corn trade association—in England the word corn means grain—attacking government interference.

It demanded restoration of freedom of trade, described the wheat price here as the lowest since the 16th century and lambasted "the lamentable results" of artificial adjustments through the government's regulation the last year.

Fire Hazard Cut by New Barn, Hay Tank

BY PAUL POTTER.

South Bend, Ind., May 6.—[Special.]—Two major problems of agricultural production—harvesting of hay and insurance rates on farm barns—were attacked by a group of men who met here last week. They were especially interested in studying the new steel dairy barns and hay keepers built on the dairy farm of St. Mary's college here, just across the road from Notre Dame.

Included in the group were officials of the Farm Underwriters' association, and members of its rate making committee. Technicians and officials of the Jamesway Manufacturing company of Wisconsin also were on hand to meet with experts from the Underwriters' laboratories in Chicago, in establishing the basis for reducing insurance hazards.

Fire, Tornado Resistant.

The new steel barns, designed to be both fire and tornado resistant, have low arched roofs that are insulated and reinforced with electric ventilation equipment. There is no haymow, the most frequent source of barn fires. The hay, instead, is kept in steel tanks about 40 feet high, nearby.

These tanks are the true innovations in farm equipment, for they are designed to overcome two principal forms of waste on the farm. These wastes are the loss of nourishment in the hay as it has been harvested for generations on the farm, and the molding or burning of the hay under unfavorable weather conditions in the field and hayhow.

Under the new system practiced here the hay is cut quite green and is put away when containing about 30 per cent moisture. A simple test for this percentage determination has been created for farmers to use. The hay, when containing this much moisture, still keeps its leaves, which hold most of the valuable feed nutriments of the largest single crop we produce.

Hay Is Canned.

Most hay must be dried to prevent deterioration or fires, in common practice. Large amounts of the valuable leaves shatter during the harvest or cause combustible dusts in the barn. Under this new system the hay is "canned." It is put through the ensilage cutter, chopped up and blown into the tanks.

These tanks usually have two large cylinders, one within the other. The inner cylinder houses the corn ensilage, which develops heat during storage. The outer cylinder contains the chopped hay. Air currents are kept going through this hay, which cures it and prevents spontaneous combustion.

On the St. Mary's farm the twin tanks will hold sufficient feed for the large dairy herd to subsist 300 days and produce a liberal flow of milk. It is claimed from experiments thus far conducted that less grain is required for herds using the kind of "canned" hay and ensilage the new steel equipment provides. The steel is heavily coated to prevent erosion.

Cut Fire Hazards.

Farm insurance men see the new type structures as valuable aids to reducing farm fire losses, now the highest risk in general property insurance. Even with fire fighting equipment, they have found, it is impossible to save even well built barns whose mows are filled with hay.

The loss of herds built up through years of careful feeding and breeding is even more serious from the farmer's point of view. Losses on farm fires have been so great in recent years that most insurance companies are operating their farm departments at a loss, it was reported here today, even though farm property insurance rates are well above city rates.

NEARLY MILLION FORECLOSURES AVERTED BY HLA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 6.—The home loan act has averted nearly 1,000,000 foreclosures in the nation, including nearly 100,000 in New York state, it was estimated today by D. E. McAvoy, secretary of the home mortgage advisory board, and Vincent Dailey, state manager of the Home Owners' Loan corporation, New York state.

"The home loan act of 1933—and I am happy to emphasize this—has brought a changed atmosphere in the home world—one of happier vibrations," said Mr. McAvoy. "The activities of the Home Owners' Loan corporation are stimulating the business world, too, for brokers are telling me that homes are once more selling with a margin to the equity owners; building and material dealers, that the repairs and modernization feature in the act is permitting them to rebuild their shattered organizations and to reëmploy their mechanics; mortgagors, that it enables them to see the light of day once more. Two billions of frozen capital is being rapidly converted into negotiable government bonds, with interest and principal assured. This is of tremendous importance to economic recovery."

Central Power and Light Profit Drops Sharply

Net income of the Central Power and Light company, a unit of the Middle West Utilities system, for the first quarter of this year decreased to $33,218 from $147,608 for the corresponding quarter of 1933. Gross earnings improved to $1,722,937 from $1,698,470, but operation, maintenance, depreciation, and state and local taxes all gained. Dividends have not been paid since last November, and unpaid accumulations total $719,607.

FIRM STAND IS TAKEN BY U. S. IN GERMAN BOND NEGOTIATIONS

Washington, May 6.—(AP)—The United States has told Germany that this government strongly opposes any plan under consideration at the German debts conference in Berlin which would discriminate against American bondholders. The demand for equality of treatment was made by the American embassy in Berlin, under instructions from the state department.

The text of the representations was not made public, but the state department tonight issued an official statement summarizing the attitude of this government.

The statement said in part:

"With reference to the efforts of other governments to obtain preferential treatment for their holders of German bonds, the American embassy has informed the German government that the previously stated position of the United States government opposing discrimination against American bondholders remains unchanged; and that careful consideration of the facts leads to the definite conclusions that Germany has power to prevent special arrangements with the different creditor countries and that it cannot escape the responsibility for any preferences it may sanction."

The text of the protest was understood to reiterate the American attitude set forth in strong representations sent to the Hitler government in January, protesting against preferential treatment accorded Dutch and Swiss bondholders.

COLOMBIAN BOND GROUP PROTESTS SCRIP PAYMENTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 6.—Charging the American paying agents for defaulted Colombian government and Agricultural Mortgage Bank of Colombia bonds with being "morally wrong" in being parties to the Colombian government's plan of giving the bondholders scrip instead of cash for their coupons and in accepting an "excessive sum" therefor, the independent bondholders' committee for the republic of Colombia made public today a letter which it has sent to the federal trade commission protesting the legality of the scrip plan.

The letter, signed by Lawrence E. Des Hoover, secretary of the committee, cites the original government loan contracts to show the paying agents would receive $12,900 annually for paying the coupons in cash, and points out that for paying scrip they would receive 50 cents a coupon, or a total of $51,000. Furthermore, it is charged that the public notices on the scrip plan were paid by the Colombian government and the expense not deducted from the bankers' fees.

INVESTING HOUSE REGIONAL CODE GROUPS NAMED

Washington, D. C., May 6.—(AP)—Rollin A. Wilbur, managing director of the investment bankers code committee, announced today 16 regional code committees have been elected in as many districts to facilitate the administration and enforcement of the code.

Registration of the nation's investment bankers, required by the code, is one of the first tasks facing the new regional committees and Wilbur said each has been requested to organize itself immediately to speed up the registration procedure. The registration provisions of the code become effective June 1.

Railway Earnings Rise During First Quarter

The bureau of railway economics reports that net operating income of class one roads of the United States in the first quarter totaled $112,276,896, or an annual rate of return on their property investment of 2.32 per cent. This compares with $34,551,646 or a return rate of .68 per cent during the first three months of 1933.

"KEEP CHICAGO AHEAD" GROUP TELLS OF GAINS

Links Trade Advance to Fair Efforts.

Gains in bank clearings, increases in the number of passengers handled by the transportation systems, improvement in the renting situation, and advances in other lines of activity were cited yesterday by the Keep Chicago Ahead civic committee as evidence of the improved business outlook in this city. The committee stated:

"The about face in business and social conditions was executed at the start of A Century of Progress for 1933, and the march upward toward prosperity can be definitly speeded if there is a full realization of the possibilities of A Century of Progress for 1934.

"The committee, realizing that A Century of Progress presents a priceless opportunity, is raising a budget of $500,000 with which to publicize Chicago and promote attendance at the World's Fair. Chicago prosperity sprang from the Fair because the nine million visitors who came here brought new money which became a part of the Chicago circulating medium. It gave jobs and spurred business.

Bank Clearings Rise.

"Chicago bank clearings are an infallible index of business activity. For the first four months of 1933 they were, in round figures, 2 billion 600 million dollars. For the first four months of 1934 they were 3 billion 400 million dollars. This increase means that more than 700 more millions of dollars turned over in Chicago, an increase of more than 25 per cent.

"The Chicago Surface Lines carried a total of 24,000,000 paying passengers more in the first four months of 1934 than in the first four months of 1933. This averages about 200,000 per day.

"The Commonwealth Edison showed an increase of from 9 to 12 per cent month by month of energy sold as against the corresponding months of 1933. Its increase started with the start of A Century of Progress last year. In residential consumers it moved from a low point of 718,000 in May of 1933 to a high of 744,000 for March just past.

I. C. Business Gains.

"The Illinois Central suburban service, a reliable indicator for the south side, shows nearly 600,000 more passengers carried in the first four months of this year as compared with last.

"A survey by the Chicago Title and Trust company shows an increase in occupancy of single houses and bungalows of seven per cent and of unfurnished apartments of 17 per cent during the Fair period.

"General employment in all lines, manufacturing and nonmanufacturing, has increased by 14 employed persons for each unit of 100. In January of 1933 there were 49 men and women employed for each 100 that had been employed on an average for 1925-'27. In the period just passed there were 63 employed, a gain of 14."

INDUSTRIALISTS SEEK REVISION OF EXCHANGE ACT

Washington, D. C., May 6.—(AP)—Twenty-eight industrialists, banded under the title of the National Committee for Modification of Industrial Sections of the Security Exchange Act, asked congress tonight to make further revisions in securities legislation.

A letter sent to Chairman Fletcher of the senate banking committee and Chairman Rayburn of the house commerce committee said the stock exchange control bill contained "many provisions which extend its scope far beyond the regulation of exchanges and speculation."

A "serious mistake," said the committee, had been made "in failing to give heed to the statements which have been given you urging further modifications."

The letter was signed by W. B. Bell, president of the American Cyanamid company, as chairman of the committee.

CHICAGO BUSINESS HOLDS STEADY LAST WEEK; CAUTION GROWS

While retail, wholesale and mail order trends were steady here last week, a more cautious tone was observed in general business as the drouth persisted throughout the middle west, according to the Chicago Association of Commerce. Orders generally were for current demand.

Most local steel plants enjoyed expansion in production during the week. Electrical, printing, and furniture business also showed slight improvement. Preparations for opening A Century of Progress Exposition accounted for most of the slight increase in employment which occurred.

PULLMAN INC. HAS A SMALL PROFIT FOR 1ST QUARTER

March quarter profit of Pullman, Inc., amounted to $95,434 after all expenses, charges and taxes, equal to approximately 2½ cents a share on 3,875,000 capital shares outstanding, the corporation reported yesterday. This compares with net loss of $1,762,125 after taxes and charges in the same quarter of 1933.

Operations of the Pullman company, transportation subsidiary of Pullman, Inc., again turned to the black side of the ledger in March, resulting in a small net for the quarter. A profit was shown in January but February witnessed a loss.

March gross was $3,740,249, against $2,643,045 last year while net after taxes and charges amounted to $19,819, compared with a loss of $717,109 last year. This carried net income for the first quarter to $236,873, which compares with a net loss of $1,136,220 in the first quarter of 1933. Gross for the three month period aggregated $10,847,391, against $8,635,337.

Cost of Living Declines Slightly During April

New York, May 6.—The national industrial conference board reports a reduction of one-tenth of 1 per cent in living costs during April. Declines in food and coal prices slightly more than offset advances in rents, clothing, and sundries. The living cost of wage earners was 9.7 per cent higher than in April, 1933, but it was 20.9 per cent lower than in the same month of 1929.

Steel Industry Operating at Highest Level in Four Years

An increase in specifications on second quarter contracts and an expansion in awards of structural steel to the highest aggregate in a year raised steelworks operations 3 points last week to 60 per cent of capacity, the best rate since June, 1930, according to the magazine Steel.

"Seasonal construction work came to the front vigorously, placing 43,414 tons on mill books, well distributed throughout the country and including a substantial tonnage for industrial buildings," comments Steel.

"At 60 the national average now is believed to be at or near the top of the present rise," the review adds. Steelworks operations in Chicago last week rose 3½ points to 62½ per cent of capacity. There were only three other centers where the rate improved: Pittsburgh 2 to 48, Youngstown 3 to 61, and eastern Pennsylvania 3 to 44½.

Late Releases Sustain Activity.

Production held steady at Detroit, Cleveland, Wheeling, Birmingham, and in New England. The mills of Buffalo retrenched output 2 to 66. An important agency in sustaining operations for at least another week will be the considerable tonnage which was released too late for shipment last month.

"The steel code prescribes that practically all second quarter tonnage—except railroad—must be delivered before July 1, and producers are sending letters to customers warning them of this provision," explains Steel. "In certain lines production is nearing capacity, and with a scramble for material expected in June, releases are to be taken in the order they are received—steelmakers fearing they will be unable to cope with a flood of late specifications."

Despite a slight curtailment in production schedules this month, automobile manufacturers have not reduced their releases of tonnage and are apparently trying to build up stocks.

The Pennsylvania railroad is releasing 31,000 tons of tie plates at the rate of 25 per cent a month. Freight car awards in April totaled 800, bringing the aggregate for the first four months of this year to 20,707, the largest for the corresponding period since 1930. The review reports that less than 10 per cent of the 700,000 tons of rails and 300,000 tons of track fastenings awarded under the administration's plan has been produced and deliveries are required before Aug. 31.

There were further price increases last week. Rail steel reinforcing bars were raised $3 a ton, as well as iron bars. Mill quantity extras on plates and shapes may be announced soon and those on commercial steel bars revised, according to the magazine.

"The effect of the announced advances in steel pipe has been partially nullified by mills permitting warehouses to sell out of stock this quarter at former prices," says Steel.

Pig Iron Shipments Rise.

With 109 stacks active at the close of April, or 12 more than at the beginning, shipments of pig iron continue to increase. The Ford Motor company has bought 50,000 tons of iron ore from a Lake Superior producer.

Though mills have been taking large shipments of scrap, the composite of prices compiled by Steel declined against last week, to $11.70, the lowest since February. The iron and steel composite held at $34.77 and the finished steel at $54.80.

3 ROADS BOOST SPEED OF TRAINS TO CALIFORNIA

Sharp reductions in the running time of transcontinental trains operating between Chicago and the Pacific coast were announced yesterday by the Santa Fé, Southern Pacific, and the Union Pacific. The time reductions are effective May 20.

The Santa Fé announced that westbound from two to as much as ten hours will be clipped from schedules to California, while speed will be increased from Dallas and Fort Worth, Tex., to Kansas City and Chicago. The Chief will make the run from Chicago to Los Angeles in 53 hours, 45 minutes—two hours faster than the present speed. The westbound run of the Grand Canyon Limited will be cut 2 hours, 5 minutes, and that of the Navajo ten hours. The eastbound speed will also be stepped up.

The Southern Pacific announced that 2 hours, 10 minutes will be clipped from the running time of the Overland Limited between San Francisco and Chicago and the Golden State Limited will have its schedule between Los Angeles and Chicago reduced by 2 hours, 25 minutes.

The Los Angeles Limited, featured train of the Union Pacific, will trim its running time between Los Angeles and Chicago by 2 hours.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

To the long standing worries entertained on account of happenings and the threat of kindred happenings at Washington is now added the sober realization that the spring business pickup so confidently looked forward to a while back is not developing according to promise. Statistics of the last week, indeed, have shown pretty conclusively that the trade rise which almost invariably comes in some measure at this time of the year regardless of governmental helps or hindrances is "topping off" and beginning to turn down here and there.

Business Begins to Ease.

The volume of merchandise being sold for example, is falling below that of a year ago, when the nation was just beginning to stagger out of the big bank holiday. The major indices like steel, railroad carloadings, electric power output, and automobile production, while still veering slightly up-

NEW YORK WEEKLY STOCK MARKET

Illinois Phone Decision Hits Utilities.

ward, do not make such good reading in comparison as they did a while back. The bond market is moving cautiously and commodity markets are doing no better than holding firm.

Some of the spot news from the business field has been decidedly more bearish from the stock traders' viewpoint. One of the upsets of the week from this source was the double barreled broadside aimed at the American Telephone company in the form of the Illinois rate decision, and a move by the public service commission to force a reduction of the company's rates in New York state.

Stock in Sharp Drop.

The corporation's common stock dropped nearly $10 a share on the big board during the week, unsettling the whole utilities group and helping to undermine speculative sentiment generally. Traders read in the Illinois decision an invitation to other states to take a whack at the company's rates, and possibly at other utility rates, as well.

Alcohol shares had their troubles, particularly in the latter part of the week, on reports that the distilleries are about to be forced—by public clamor or otherwise—to slash the prices they have been maintaining on their wares since repeal. The administration has been striving for some time to encourage liquor imports in an effort to bring about lower prices here.

Dimming prospects of inflation at this session of congress have had their effects on the silver, farm, and other so-called inflation stocks. Case, leader of the farm group, has been hammered throughout the week.

Control Bill Big Worry.

The big outstanding worry of them all, however, continues to be the stock exchange regulation measure. The final showdown will come this week, and, while the street would prefer the senate measure, last week's house action made it pretty clear that this, the more drastic bill, is the one most liable to find final enactment. Both brokers and business men have been opposing the prospective restrictions and the probability of their final incorporation in law has been responsible more than anything else for the increase in selling on the stock exchange during the last week.

The liquidation which has predominated in five of the six trading sessions has carried the averages down more than 4½ points. They closed Saturday night at 86.36, which compares with the year's low of 82.77, registered on Jan. 30, and with the 1934 high of 98.27, on Feb. 5.

COPPER SALES 6,000 TONS.

Amerada Corporation.

Investors' Guide: I would like to get information on Amerada. What are its products and what is its financial standing?—G. J.

Answer: Amerada corporation is a producer and refiner of petroleum. Holdings consist of 856,150 acres of leasehold, mainly in Oklahoma, Texas, California, Kansas, and New Mexico. It also controls extensive acreage of unproved land in Venezuela.

The company has been quite successful in acquiring unproved territory at low costs and developing it into productive territory. Since acreage is carried on the books at cost less depletion, and prospecting costs are charged against income, values of the properties as stated on the balance sheet are conservative.

Proration measures during 1933 cut down production of casing-head gasoline to 15,576,211 gallons, against 20,661,102 gallons in 1932. Net production of crude oil, however, increased to 6,919,175 barrels, from 5,972,964 barrels in 1932.

	Total Income.	Net Income	Inc. per share.
1933	....$5,506,000	$ 380,000	$0.50
1932	 6,105,000	1,147,000	1.48
1931	 4,149,000	*1,702,000	*2.22
1930	 9,009,000	3,961,000	4.64

*Loss

Current position at the close of 1933 was strong. Current assets, including more than $3,600,000 cash, totaled $5,599,000, and current liabilities were $657,000. Capitalization consists of 922,075 shares of no par stock. There are no bonds outstanding.

Most of 1933 earnings were made during the second half. The stronger condition of the crude oil market continued during the first quarter of 1934, and an April 12, 1934, estimate of a leading statistical source placed first quarter earnings between 70 and 75 cents a share, which would cover the quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share amply.

Worthless Paper.

Investors' Guide: I am enclosing a twenty peso bill concerning which I would appreciate very much some information. Can you tell me the value of it? If it's worth anything, where can I exchange it?—R. F.

Answer: The twenty peso bill which you sent is a Mexican bank bill issued by an old bank of issue in 1916. Under a law of Aug. 30, 1930, regulating the liquidation of such banks, all bills issued by them had to be presented to the liquidating committee in exchange for bank debt bonds before March 1, 1931. All bills not so presented for exchange prior to that date became worthless.

PACKERS INSIST PRICES OF PORK ARE IN REASON

Allegations of Eicher Are Answered.

The Institute of American Meat Packers issued a statement yesterday disputing assertions made on Saturday by Representative Eicher [Dem., Ia.] that consumers are paying as much for pork products now as they were when the market price for hogs was higher than the prices are now.

Representative Eicher's remarks were made when he introduced a bill in the house at Washington seeking to require the secretary of agriculture to fix a minimum price of 8¾ cents a pound for hogs on the Chicago market. He charged that the hog producer is being gouged, that the packers are indulging in monopolistic practices, and that the consumer today is paying as much for his hog products as he did when the hog raiser was getting 8 cents a pound.

Reply to Eicher.

In answering Representative Eicher, the Institute of American Meat Packers stated in part:

"Government figures show plainly that Representative Eicher's statement about pork prices is not in accordance with the facts. Representative Eicher said that consumers are paying as much for pork products now as they were when hogs were selling for 8 cents a pound. The latest [government] figures show that the prices consumers are paying for pork products are lower by the following percentages than they were in December, 1930, the most recent date on which hogs were selling for 8 cents a pound.

Sliced ham	....35 per cent lower.
Lard	....38 per cent lower.

Answers Charges.

The institute states that these are the only pork items on which there are government retail figures, but the items are undoubtedly representative of all pork cuts.

The institute statement asserts that the present prices of hogs are not due to any monopolistic practices, adding that there exists no monopoly in the packing industry. The present prices the statement says, are the best which can be paid for them with prices of pork products at present levels.

FEDERAL BONDS HIT NEW PEAKS; OTHERS WEAKEN

Profit Taking Retards the General List.

New York, May 6.—(AP)—Conflicting trends gave the bond market a rather spotty appearance last week as United States government securities reached their highest levels of the last year or longer and secondary corporation loans were subjected to moderate profit taking.

With the apparent waning of inflationary psychology, more attention was paid to the course of business and industry and the prospects of long term economic recovery. The renewed popularity of federal issues reflected not only the demand for safety of funds, but also the growing belief that this section would be supported by the government.

Profit Taking Normal.

In the case of secondary bonds, analysis pointed out that there was normal realizing in these groups due largely to the sharp advances which most of them have recorded in the last several months. At the same time prime investment issues were about steady but quiet. Yields in the high grade corporation divisions are the lowest for some time.

It was noteworthy that as the averages for the rails, utilities, and industrials pointed downward most of the week, trading volumes dwindled appreciably. The aggregate on Thursday dropped to a little more than $10,000,000, par value, the smallest for more than a month. The drying up of selling on the mild declines was encouraging to dealers.

All government isues sold above par, treasury 3s attaining this position for the first time since they were issued two and one-half years ago. Two newcomers were admitted to the federal list in the week. They were the Federal Farm Mortgage 3¼s and the Home Owners Loan 4s. The former held above 102 and the latter topped the 100 mark substantially.

Watch Treasury Transfer.

The financial district was interested in the treasury's transfer of some $200,000,000 of the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund to the federal reserve banks. The urgency of this move was not apparent in view of the fact that the dollar was holding around its new parity with the European gold currencies. In some quarters it was inferred that the funds might be intended for the support of the government bond market in the event such support is found necessary. There was also the intimation that silver purchases might have been the reason.

While there was no especial pessimism exhibited toward the business situation, there were some indications that seasonal peaks had been reached in a number of industries. Although the tendency toward seasonal recession in individual lines was not universal, trade reviews believed it probably would be sufficiently pronounced to turn the trend of aggregate volumes downward during the next two or three months.

Foreign obligations were quiet and mildly mixed. Some French issues edged up to record peaks and the Germans steadied as the week closed.

A Suggestion.

Urbana, Ill., April 21.—I suggest that in order to make the public more tax conscious, it would be well to print the amount of tax paid on various articles of food, clothing, automobile accessories and other manufactures. Then follow this up with the suggestion that each merchant show the amount of tax in each sale. I believe this would help curb the taxing politicians.

NEGOTIATION FOR BELGO-AMERICAN TRADE PACT NEAR

Informal Talks Under Way at Washington.

BY ANN SOMERS HOUSE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, May 6.—Preliminary negotiations for a new trade agreement between the United States and Belgium will start soon. Informal talks on what both countries desire to export to each other more actively are under way at present in Washington, D. C.

What these talks and negotiations will deal with can be gathered from a brief survey of American-Belgian trade relations. The Belgian figures comprise also the trade of the Grand-Duchy of Luxemberg which since 1921 forms an economic unit with Belgium.

In 1929, top year of Belgo-American trade, the United States exported to Belgium and Luxemburg a total of 11,364,152 metric quintals, worth 3,375,264,000 Belgian francs; in 1933, 8,080,190 metric quintals, worth 1,206,593,000 francs.

Tarifs Retard Trade.

Belgian exports to the United States have dropped still more disastrously from 2,162,789,000 francs worth in 1929 to 722,991,000 francs in 1933. The reason for this abnormal slump, Belgian experts explain, is to be sought less in the depression than in the "excessively high and often prohibitive" tarifs inaugurated under the Hoover administration.

The depression has played a great part in leading Belgium, a free trade country, to adopt tarif increases and quota systems. About fifty kinds of products coming into Belgium are subject to quotas today for an indefinite period.

Few of these hit American products. Meat and meat products, an item totaling 7,428,000 francs even during the "bottom year" of 1933, are subject to an import quota, and to duty and taxes amounting to 3.20 francs per kilo of meat costing 4 francs at its arrival in Antwerp. The reason back of these impossitions is, of course, an ailing pork industry here. Another import quota on oilcake undermines a second important line of American exports to Belgium.

Hose, Frocks Under Quota.

American silk stockings and American ready-to-wear women's frocks are also under quota restrictions, 100 per cent of the 1931 figures being allowed to enter. Lether is another trade hampered by a quota.

An American motor car selling for $500 in the United States costs in Belgium $1,000 owing to a duty from 60 to 100 per cent on the landed value of the average American car. Overzealous protection of three small Belgian motor car producers [with a total output of 1,800 cars annually, at best] has led to this abnormal price situation.

Heavy taxes on gasoline limit both the sale of American gasoline and of motor cars. The taxes were invented mainly to protect local oil refineries and may lead to a point where exporting American gasoline to Belgium becomes unprofitable and will have to be replaced entirely by the export of crude oil, if no change comes about.

If the necessary concessions are made in Washington to Belgian exporters it is certain that a wider market can be obtained in Belgium, by a new trade agreement, for noncompetitive American products such as machinery, machine tools, hoists, radio sets, parts and tubes, dynamos, batteries, electrical machinery, and lumber, hosiery and dresses.

In exchange Belgium will want to export greater quantities of products of her depression stricken industries to the United States; above all, textiles—wool cloths, cotton cloths, blankets, linen cloth, and laces, carpets, lether gloves, and wood furniture. Luxemberg will want to send more of her exquisite light Moselle wines. The Belgian glass industry, with its extremely low priced products, will seek a wider American market.

Belgium desires no special credit or banking facilities for more intensive trade with America. This little kingdom's banking system is unusually sound and powerful. Both the Belgian National bank and the more private Société Générale de Belgique finance any initiative that seems healthy and promises to be profitable in a larger sense.

Committee Formed to Act on R. I., A. & L. R.R. Bonds

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 6.—Aa committee to represent holders of Rock Island, Arkansas and Louisiana railroad first mortgage bonds, which matured on March 1, has been formed and has filed a registration statement with the federal trade commission. Holders who deposited these bonds with a committee which represented also St. Paul and Kansas City Short Line railroad first mortgage bonds of 1941 may withdraw them for deposit with the new committee. James G. Blaine, president of the Marine Midland Trust company, has withdrawn from the old committee to head the new committee.

UTILITIES URGED TO USE 'ADS' IN OWN DEFENSE

Told Better Relation with Public Vital.

A nation-wide advertising campaign in their own defense was urged on public utility companies yesterday by Chester D. Tripp, chairman of the executive committee of the American Federation of Utility Investors, Inc.

His plea was contained in a letter dispatched to all utility concerns of the country. Immediate action is necessary, the letter said, to correct the widespread public misinformation which is definite danger to the future of securities owned by ten million utility investors in the United States.

Seeks Newspaper Campaign.

The proposed broadside would take the form of campaigns by individual companies in their local newspapers appealing to "the innate sense of fairness and justice of the public. Such an effort would be supported by the best elements of every community."

"A great deal of the blame for the public's lack of understanding rests squarely on the shoulders of utility managements who have neglected to develop their public relations," Mr. Tripp's letter continued.

Good Public Relations Vital.

"During the early days of utility development mechanical and scientific minds were of the greatest importance. The next step required able financial management capable of enlarging and consolidating the rapidly growing company structure. The industry has now come to the point where public relations are of the greatest importance and the successful management must handle its public in the spirit of mutual confidence and understanding."

He warns that if the prevailing attitude of unfriendliness and distrust is allowed to continue it will result disastrously for the ten million holders of utility securities.

STOCK IN BANK AFFILIATE UNION TO BE OFFERED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 6.—Stockholders of the Chase National bank and the First National bank of Boston will shortly be offered the right to purchase at $18 a share the stock of the First of Boston corporation, security affiliate of the Boston bank, with which is to be merged the Chase Harris Forbes corporation, securities affiliate of the Chase National bank.

Details of the plan are to be announced shortly. The Separate Securities company which is to be established under the plan will have 500,000 shares, which is the same capitalization as that of the First of Boston corporation at present, all the present shares being owned by the First National bank of Boston. Sale of these shares at $18 each will yield capital of $5,000,000 and surplus of $4,000,000.

JAPAN THREATENS TRADE OF U. S. IN LATIN AMERICA

Washington, D. C., May 6.—A Japanese trade drive is making phenomenal advances in Uncle Sam's own back yard of Latin America. A department of commerce survey showed Japanese export increases ranging from 100 to 1,000 per cent in a majority of South American countries, concededly to the detriment of American exports in many instances.

These figures, placed beside others showing a 50 per cent decrease in American foreign trade in 1933 compared to 1930, were cited by one official as the cause of an administration desire for speed in negotiating preferential trade treaties.

It was disclosed also that, in view of the Nipponese advances, the administration has instructed all trade, consular and diplomatic officials south of the Rio Grande for frequent, periodic reports on the Japanese trade program. Reports already in hand show that while Japanese trade in the Spanish speaking countries still is only a fraction of America's exports there, recent increases have been rapid. Department experts feel something may have to be done to save the market for the American producer.

BEFORE BORROWING Get the Facts About HOUSEHOLD'S REDUCED RATE ON $300 LOANS

We believe we do the largest business in the Chicago area because:

1. We offer good service at reasonable cost.
2. We only make loans that are helpful to the customer.
3. We give free authentic information on managing people's incomes.
4. If desired we give free authentic information on buying economically.

HOW LOANS ARE MADE.

Household makes loans of $30 to $300 only to families, that is to husband and wife on their signatures. They can be repaid in monthly installments over 20 months or sooner. Loans are made on the basis of the information furnished by husband and wife. We do not question your employer, your neighbors, your relatives or the people with whom you do business. All of our offices are equipped so that your business can be handled in a private room.
